LET'S ABOLISH SENATE, LOBBY WITNESS URGES

Suggests Peerage to Amazed Senators.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Arthur L. Faubel, secretary of the American Tariff league and an economist of some note, today told the senate's lobby investigating committee that if he had his way he would replace the senate with a body similar to the British house of lords, having a very limited veto power over the actions of the house.

An associate professor of economics at New York university and a well known lecturer on his subject, he proved a blunt witness. He first aroused the anger of the investigators by his ready indorsement of the contentions of Senator Joseph R. Grundy [Rep., Pa.], a former vice president of the league, who before the same committee declared senators from "backward" southern and western states should have no voice in the framing of tariff legislation.

Reprimands His Questioners.

Faubel drily told the senators that as a result of the spectacle they have made of themselves throughout their inquiry, and in view of "the universal disapproval" of their efforts, it is matter of indifference to the league whether it is classed as a lobbying organization, although, he added, heretofore it has boasted it is not a lobby.

Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], chairman of the committee, recalled that Grundy had asserted his belief that the founding fathers made a mistake when they provided in the constitution that each state should have two senators.

"Do you concur in that?" demanded the Arkansas senator.

"I believe so; yes, sir, I do," answered Faubel.

"I might differ with him in the mechanism by which the thing would be brought about," responded Faubel.

Caraway sought to force Faubel to answer "yes" or "no" to the question whether he would limit participation in tariff legislation "to manufacturing states."

Prefers English System.

"In the main, yes," Faubel finally answered. "My explanation would be that the English system of government is probly preferable in a proposition of this kind."

"What is that?" queried Caraway.

"In which the upper house has a very decidedly secondary, acquiescing place," decviared Faubel.

"Then," said Caraway, "you want the senate to have nothing to do with legislation?"

"But merely acquiescence," prompted Caraway.

"More in that nature, yes, sir," said Faubel.

"Then why not abolish it?" demanded Caraway, leaning far over the table toward Faubel.

Blaine Boils Over.

"You would revise our constitution to make it conform more nearly to the English system?" interjected Senator J. J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.].

"Yes, sir," answered Faubel firmly.

That was too much for Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Rep., Wis.].

"You would authorize the President 'the king'—to appoint lords, and 'ears, and dukes?" he shouted.

"Well," answered Faubel, as the hearing room crowd roared with laughter, "the details would have to be worked out, senator. I have not gone that far."

"I didn't know but what you had ambitions to be a duke," said Blaine.

"If so, senator," retorted Faubel, "I hope you will be one, too."

"You haven't had the temerity to affirm that doctrine in any of your lectures or before the impressionable minds of the young people attending that university?" challenged Blaine.

"Well, I have had the courage to tell it here, sir," declared Faubel.

Walsh Is Aghast.

Walsh, apparently unable to believe his own ears, said something about "it is apparent this witness does not realize the fact he is telling this under oath," and turned the inquiry into other channels.

Senator Caraway, quoting from one of Faubel's letters that the league boasted it was not a lobbying organization, demanded to know why he

NAVAL PARLEY

Here are some of the high lights on the progress yesterday of the five power naval conference from The Tribune's correspondents. The stories are on page 4.

Mr. Steele reveals Great Britain has won France over to its view that naval reduction should be by categories of ships instead of by global tonnage system.

Mr. Henning tells how United States diplomacy has suffered another blow; British foreign office sets self up as sole source of news of conference.

Mr. Darrah exposes figures proving Britain leads in naval armament race, while Prime Minister MacDonald broadcasts great sacrifices made by his country.

Mr. Wales covers social events in connection with conference.

Lifts $100,000,000 Tax Off Our Feet.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Hides, leather and shoes were restored to the free list today by the senate, the consumers thus triumphing over both agriculture and industry.

The action, according to those opposing the duties, saved the public 100 million dollars a year. It disposed of one of the major tariff controversies.

It was a case of the agricultural west and the industrial east cutting each other's throats.

The easterners defeated proposals for higher duties on hides than provided in the house bill. The westerners then turned around and wiped out all duties, being dissatisfied with a moderate duty on hides and contending that it was more than offset by higher rates on leather and shoes.

Borah Turns the Trick.

An amendment by Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] to restore hides, leather and shoes to the free list, as in the present law, was adopted, 46 to 28.

Previously an amendment by Senator T. L. Oddie [Rep., Nev.] to tax green hides five cents a pound and dry hides nine cents was rejected, 31 to 39. Another amendment by Senator Oddie to make the rates four and eight cents per pound was defeated, 30 to 37.

The Oddie amendments would have meant the equivalent of more than 35 per cent ad valorem duty, as compared with the 10 per cent duty of the house bill, which had the approval of the senate finance committee.

The leather duties proposed by the finance committee ranged from 15 to 20 per cent, a little higher than in the house bill, while the duty on shoes was 20 per cent in both the finance committee and house measures.

Borah Gives His Reasons.

"The 10 per cent duty on hides is no protection," said Senator Borah, in advocating his amendment, "but will be used as an excuse to put protection on leather and shoes."

Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] made a futile plea for protection for shoe manufacturers of his state.

In the vote on the Borah amendment to put hides, leather, and shoes on the free list, the 46 in the affirmative included 20 Republicans, 25 Democrats, and one Farmer-Labor member. Against it were 24 Republicans and 4 Democrats.

After restoring hides, leather, and shoes to the free list, the senate, on the motion of Senator Borah, reduced the duty on leather bags from 40 per cent, as proposed by the finance committee, to 30 per cent, the present rate.

The senate, by a vote of 48 to 24, adopted an amendment by Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] reducing duties on leather gloves.

MISSING RAIDER OF MELROSE PK. RETURNS HOME

After a week's absence, during part of which fears were felt that he may have been kidnaped and slain by bootleggers, Rocco Passarella, former lieutenant and star booze raider of the Melrose Park police force, returned last night to his home at 1915 Lake street, Melrose Park. He refused to say where he had been, but said that he was staying with friends within forty miles of Chicago and had been ill for three days.

In explaining his disappearance, which occurred on the day when he and Emil Ristau, another policeman, were to appear before the federal grand jury in a liquor case, Passarella said he had been forced to resign from the police force and then had been threatened by three bootleggers, who warned him to drop the case. He said Chief Arthur Leeseberg told him that morning that Joseph Imburgio, village trustee, wanted to see him and that Imburgio demanded his resignation, with the statement that he "didn't want any questions."

Passarella resigned and as he left the village hall three men stepped out of a car and gave him "a friendly tip to lay off." He then informed his wife that he was going away for a two weeks' visit, he said, and also told Ristau that "things were getting pretty hot." Ristau and his wife disappeared on the same day, returning to their home on Tuesday evening. Passarella said he will demand that President Edmund G. Brust reinstate him on the police force.

Leo Edelstein Returns to His Invalid Mother

The first visit from her son, Leo Edelstein, 6710 Merrill avenue, in almost six years, was an event in the life of Mrs. Ida Edelstein, 70 years old, 2632 Winona avenue, on Thursday afternoon. The mother is blind and an invalid, and had hoped for years that her son would become reconciled to her before she died.

Mrs. Edelstein was at home alone when Leo called. He had not announced his coming. When he made himself known and kissed her she was far happier than she had been since they last met in the County court in 1924. At that time he had been ordered to pay $7.50 a week for her support. Mrs. Edelstein resorted to court action only after many appeals had failed to obtain an allowance from her son.

Mother Talks to Heal Breach.

The mother would have given him her chair, the most comfortable in the home, only that she was prevented from rising by a series of operations which have left her practically helpless. She chatted in an effort to close the breach which followed the first court action, and which was widened in 1928 when Mrs. Edelstein had the allotment raised to $12 a week.

She talked of his business. Leo is now manager of Harry's Shoe stores under the name of Leo Elliott. The son was quiet, accepting the enthusiasm of his mother's feeble conversation with monosyllables.

Leo Leaves a Paper.

After a half hour the conversation lagged. Leo made no effort to keep it going, though his mother begged him to talk of himself. Finally he kissed her again, pressed a bit of paper into her hand, and left after muttering a "Goodbye."

For two hours the mother waited impatiently to tell her daughter, Mrs. Max Miller, with whom she is living, of the happy news of Leo's return and to find out how big a check he had left. When the daughter returned, Mrs. Edelstein stammered the news. The daughter unfolded the paper and found a summons for the mother to appear before Judge I. L. Weaver, assistant to County Judge Jarecki, to show cause why the allowance should not be reduced.

Tells Her Story to Court.

This story was told yesterday by Mrs. Edelstein when she appeared to answer the summons. She made the journey to the court room wrapped in blankets because of her infirmities. She was accompanied by her attorney, Raymond Kelner.

"This recital surpasses belief," Judge Weaver said to Edelstein, who was also in court. "That a son should so treat his mother is . . . I cannot define it. Your motion is denied. I should like to raise the allotment, but cannot do so since there is no motion for that before me. I wish I could do it."

SIGMUND ZEISLER, 69, WEDS BANK EMPLOYE, AGE 35

Sigmund Zeisler, prominent attorney and husband of the late Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler, famous pianist, and Miss Amelia Spielman, daughter of Mrs. Fanny Spielman, 2224 Jackson boulevard, were married on Thursday, it became known last night. Mr. and Mrs. Zeisler for the present will make their home at the Cooper-Carlton hotel, where Mr. Zeisler has lived for many years, and later will take a wedding trip to California, Mrs. Zeisler said last night.

Mrs. Zeisler has been connected with the Hyde Park-Kenwood National bank for about fifteen years and during recent years has been secretary of the vault. She has known her husband for several years socially, she said, and described their marriage as "just a love match." Mr. Zeisler is 69 years old and his wife's age was given on the marriage license as 35.

Kunz Marriage Annulled; Pair Share a Home

New York, Jan. 24.—[Special.]—The marriage of Dr. George Frederick Kunz, vice president of Tiffany & Co., the jewelers, and Mrs. Opal Gilberson Kunz, performed on May 15, 1923, was annulled on Nov. 21 last year, it was learned tonight.

Mrs. Kunz, in confirming the report, revealed that the decision to seek an annulment had been reached jointly by herself and her former husband and that the proceedings had been carried out "in complete amity."

Wife Brought Suit.

Since the annulment the former Mrs. Kunz has continued to reside at the doctor's home, 137 Riverside drive, and to retain charge of his household. She said that both she and Dr. Kunz hoped that this relationship of platonic friendship would continue for the rest of their lives.

The annulment suit was brought by Mrs. Kunz last fall before Arthur S. Tomkins, Supreme court justice at Nyack. The papers in the case were sealed. The grounds were described as "incompatibility."

"There was nothing unpleasant in the proceedings either on my part or Dr. Kunz's," said the former Mrs. Kunz tonight. "We are very good friends and expect to remain so for a long, long time—the rest of our lives, I hope. I had my work to do. I am greatly interested in aviation, you know, and am frequently away from home on long cross country flights. This has made it impossible for me to be a good wife for any man.

She Still Runs House.

"I am continuing to run Dr. Kunz' house and I continue to be the family chauffeur. This morning I ran downtown in the car and this evening I brought him home.

"We have managed to settle our little trouble without doing anything unpleasant or anything insulting to each other. The doctor and I both think it is about time that grown people found a way of adjusting their difficulties without acrimony. If more people could settle things in an amicable way it would be a much better world."

The marriage of Dr. and Mrs. Kunz was a prominent social event of seven years ago. It was performed by the Rev. Harry Townsend Scudder in Christ Episcopal church at Tarrytown. The bride is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Gilberson of St. Louis. Dr. Kunz is one of the world's authorities on gems and is prominent in many scientific organizations.

U. S. Episcopal Primate Is Critically Ill

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Bishop Charles Palmerston Anderson, primate of the American Episcopal church and bishop of Chicago, was still critically ill last night at his home at 4512 Drexel boulevard. While hope for the recovery of the bishop, who is 67 years old, was fading yesterday afternoon, following heart attacks, he was resting easily at midnight, and it was reported from his home that the longer this condition continued the more chance there would be for his recovery.

Bishop Anderson was stricken with a heart attack on Wednesday and again on Thursday. His physician, Dr. James B. Herrick, had ordered him to bed on Tuesday on account of a slight indisposition.

Ordered to Bed.

For some time it has been known that Bishop Anderson has suffered from heart disease although his health during recent months has indicated considerable improvement, it was said. Bishop Anderson returned last week from New York in good health and on Tuesday had presided at a meeting of the diocesan council at Episcopal headquarters, 664 Rush street. Immediately after the meeting he was ordered to bed by Dr. Herrick.

Bishop Anderson was elected presiding bishop of the Episcopal church at a special meeting of the house of bishops last Nov. 13, following the death of the Most Rev. John Gardner Murray on Oct. 3. He assumed his new duties at once, and appointed the Rt. Rev. Hugh L. Burleson of South Dakota assessor, or assistant to the residing bishop. Since then he has continued to live in Chicago, although making frequent trips to New York to confer with church officials.

Calls for Election.

With the additional responsibility as presiding bishop, Bishop Anderson recently called for the election of a coadjutor bishop Chicago, who would have the right to succeed as head of the local diocese at the time of Bishop Anderson's death or retirement. The election was called for Feb. 4 and 5 at St. James' cathedral.

Members of Bishop Anderson's family have been called to his bedside. Mrs. Anderson was in Toronto when the bishop was stricken and was accompanied to Chicago by a daughter, Mrs. George Boyer of Toronto. The other daughters are Mrs. Haven Requa of Lake Forest; Mrs. Lester Frankenthal of Chicago, and Miss Nancy Anderson, who live with her parents. Bishop Anderson's son was killed while serving with the American forces in France during the world war.

on the south side, was shot twice last night by a fellow policeman after a quarrel over who should drive the car. Sirovatka was taken to St. Anthony's hospital, where it was said he would recover.

Sirovatka was driving, returning four prisoners from the bureau of identification to south side stations, and according to his companions he had been drinking. At 42d street and South Park way Policeman George Polaski, 7247 South Lafayette avenue, who was in charge of the car, insisted on driving and Sirovatka refused to leave the wheel.

The truck was stopped and Polaski and Frank Lumpp, 6318 Ingleside avenue, another policeman, put Sirovatka with the prisoners. Sirovatka, according to his companions, then fired one shot at Polaski.

RESCUE MONEY READY; MUST GO FOR EXPENSES

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Silas H. Strawn committee has its taxpayers' pool practically ready, with perhaps $20,000,000 to relieve the most pressing needs of the local governments, but "there is nothing available for spendthrifts."

The large property owners will not come through with the millions until assured that they will be spent for hospitals, mothers' pensions, sanitariums, fire and police protection and other like municipal necessities. They also want some solemn promises on legislation which will prevent wasteful and extravagant expenditures in the future. Before they put in the $20,000,000 they want to see a "way out to safe ground."

Will Distribute Pool.

They do not propose to hang their faith on the words, either oral or written, of the public officials. The taxpayers will undertake the disbursement of the pool where they believe it is most needed and will render most worthy aid.

That was the decision of the Strawn committee at a session yesterday afternoon. They phrased it more delicately, as follows:

"We have been assured of the cooperation of many of our taxpayers, but the committee cannot be constructively helpful without the full cooperation of the officials whose duty it is to finance and perform our several municipal functions."

The sanitary district has given "full cooperation." The county has been "off and on" in its cooperation; and the city and school board have indicated no cooperative attitude.

Sum Small in Comparison.

Aside from the prerequisite requirements to get it, the mere limitation of $20,000,000 as the probable aid the big taxpayers will supply will be a terrific shock to Mayor Thompson, President Cermak of the county board and President Caldwell of the board of education. This possible $20,000,000 is not quite one-tenth of the aggregate sum the city, county and school board have authorized spent. They have appropriated $203,236,342, of which $55,314,947 is city corporate, $46,177,729 is county, and $101,763,408 is schools.

This $20,000,000 in the offing will not pay one-fourth of the annual salary roll of the three governments. It cannot be charged to other funds. The teachers' salaries alone, disregarding the other 4,300 employés of the school board, total $41,961,842. The county has a pay roll of $3,121,985 and the city corporate payroll is estimated at $38,690,400. This is an aggregate for the three of $83,774,227.

County Pays by Notes.

Yesterday was an "off" day of the county. The county commmissioners voted to pay the 3,862 county employés the $1,133,000 in salaries by giving each a tax anticipation warrant for the amount of his wages.

"The bankers tell me this will scatter the warrants broadcast and materially reduce their market value," said Mr. Strawn. Another member of the committee commented: "We are asked to buy these warrants at par while public officials are adopting a plan to depreciate their value. Public officials do not appear to appreciate the desperate position they occupy."

Ask Opinion of Ettelson.

City Controller Schmidt asked Corporation Counsel Ettelson for an opinion of the validity of adopting the same plan for the city corporate employés. These number 13,000 and have $4,160,000 in unpaid salaries. Ald. O. F. Nelson, mayor Thompson's floor leader, has severely criticized the Strawn committee.

Mr. Caldwell, president of the school board, opposed the use of tax warrants as pay checks. He commented: "I'm afraid that would run the market price of the warrants down so that later we would be unable to get investment houses to submit a fair bid for them."

The coal men who have about $400,000 in bills against the schools have prevailed upon Caldwell to confer with them Monday. He will attempt to persuade them to continue fuel deliveries so that the schools may remain open.

Library Pays Employés.

The public library board supplied the only fortunate spot in the developments of the day. The pension board for library employés purchased $100,000 worth of the tax warrants of the library. This allowed payment of salaries for the month totaling $93,000. This board has discharged 200 employés, reducing its pay roll from $116,000 to $98,000 a month and its book fund from $260,000 to $100,000.

The effort of William H. Malone, chairman of the state tax commission, to get railroads and utilities to buy tax anticipation warrants was not productive of tangible results. He conferred with P. J. Barrett, land and tax commissioner of the Western Indiana and Belt railroads; Frank B. Huntington, general auditor of the Baltimore and Ohio Chicago Terminal road, and G. B. Hill, land and tax attorney for the Chicago and Eastern Illinois.

They expressed a sympathetic attitude. Mr. Malone called upon Samuel Insull.

Insull Wants More Facts.

"I told Mr. Malone that the local governments owe $1,500,000 to companies I represent," said Mr. Insull," but I have since learned that the amount is close to $2,000,000. I will want to know all about the matter before making a commitment. I have attempted to do my part in a number of civic undertakings."

Mr. Malone said that he had told Mr. Strawn that if any of the railroads desire to participate he will ask that the money be handled through the Strawn committee.

This committee thrashed out the situation for more than two hours yesterday afternoon. In announcing its decision above quoted, the committee issued a statement saying:

"Realizing the desperate financial straits of our city and county, this committee, as citizens interested in the welfare of Chicago, was organized to obtain information and make a survey of the facts, with the idea of being cooperative in trying to solve some of the difficult problems now confronting us.

Experts Study Situation.

"We have secured and made public certain material facts. We have now in our service a corps of experts studying ways and means for relief and the prevention of a recurrence of existing conditions. We are trying to find some way to take care of the unfortunate people in the hospitals and sanitariums and to provide means to pay the police and firemen and other public servants who are engaged in necessary service for our city and county.

"The big difficulty we encounter is the effort to play politics with the situation," added Mr. Strawns. "Many politicians are attempting to gain an advantage out of the desperate financial condition of the community.

"Nero fiddled while Rome burned; but he had nothing on what certain officials are now doing. The situation is much like that in China. They are not concerned with what they can earn, but what they can borrow. Big Bill is attempting to get a campaign platform out of the muddle. He is posing as the friend of the poor people against the inroads of the rich. He thinks it will be more effective than promising to biff King George on the snoot when he comes sailing down Lake Michigan towards Chicago."

Sets $20,000,000 as Top.

"Are you attempting to get a pool of $50,000,000?" was asked of Mr. Strawn.

"We will be fortunate to get $20,000,000 together," he replied. "We have canvassed many large taxpayers, and they feel that they do not want the money wasted which they put up. Many of them are willing to help, but they also want to know that this thing cannot happen again in two or three years. They want the wild financing and payrolling stopped. That is the whole story."

"Then you do not intend to rescue the floundering ship until you get all the public officials to cooperate? Is that the committee's position?"

"Exactly."

Making Legislative Plan.

"Are you planning to go to the legislature?"

"We are working out what we believe should be the legislative program, but there is no occasion for going to the legislature until we get cooperation. That would be futile."

Ald. Toman at the city council meeting yesterday had a resolution adopted asking the governor to call a special session for the consolidation of the local governments and the modernizing of the revenue system.

MAYOR GIVES UP

Three defeats were administered to Mayor Thompson yesterday on the appropriations for the police, fire, health, gas and street departments for this year, which he has twice vetoed. Evidence of the first defeat was given by the mayor when, in his message to the council, he submitted to the demand of the majority of the aldermen that the budget total remain somewhere near the estimated revenues for 1930.

The other two defeats came later in the council meeting. First, Ald. Oscar Nelson [48th], the mayor's floor leader, strove to gain Thompson's objective of overloading the budget by $4,500,000 by introducing resolutions which pledged the first available revenues to the gas, health and street departments and authorized the department heads to retain 1929 forces. Nelson was defeated by a vote of 29 to 15.

Anderson Takes Hand.

Then Ald. Louis B. Anderson [3d], another Thompson leader, took up the cudgels for the mayor. He produced a modified version of the Nelson resolutions which members of the majority group claimed would have the same overloading effect. The resolutions were sent to the finance committee after the council objected to an immediate consideration.

Nor did the mayor's message to the council, in which he said that "chaos" would result if he again vetoed the budget, and his letter to Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee, escape their reading unscathed.

"The facts are not stated in the message and I will answer it in a resolution which I will introduce at the next meeting," shouted Ald. Clark.

In his letter to Ald. Clark the mayor stated that Corporation Counsel Ettelson had advised him that the collection of money from the Chicago Tunnel company is in the hands of a council committee. He advised the aldermen to indicate promptly to the corporation counsel that they want Ettelson to proceed with the city's demands against the tunnel company.

Cites Council Order.

"I want the mayor to be given the truth concerning this matter," said Ald. Arthur Albert [43d]. "An order was passed by the council on Oct. 17, 1929, telling Ettelson to perfect the city's title to the tunnels and to proceed 'forthwith' to collect the money due. Why is there this hesitancy in the collection of money due the city and which rightfully should go to employés that have been laid off?"

Mayor Thompson reiterated in his message his "challenged" contention that the valuation of loop property has been reduced by approximately $300,000,000 by the reassessment. The officials' figures show that the reduction was approximately $171,000,000 for the area bounded by Roosevelt road, the river, and the lake. The mayor said he took the same area, with the exception of the "railroad property west of Clark street and south of Harrison street."

"Nothing can be gained by again vetoing the reductions made by a majority of the aldermen in the health, fire, police, street lighting, and street cleaning appropriations," read the mayor's message. "Should I veto again the slashing of these major activities, the immediate result might be a state of chaos."

Budget Total $55,314,947.

The budget total, as passed by the council yesterday, is $55,314,947. Inasmuch as the mayor did not avail himself of the last chance to veto it, the budget now stands. The appropriations for the five major departments, as of 1929 and for 1930, are as follows:

Police	$16,124,092	$17,366,800
Fire	7,422,000	8,176,680
Health	2,206,022	2,849,342
Streets	6,933,060	8,466,924

The next meeting of the council was set for Feb. 4, at which time the tax levy ordinance will be passed. Negotiations for the sale of the city's tax anticipation warrants for 1930 will begin then to provide cash for the payment of employés and the purchase of supplies.

County to Pay Workers with Tax Warrants It Cannot Sell

The county board voted yesterday afternoon to pay its 3,862 employés—including more than two score of judges—in tax anticipation warrants in lieu of cash.

The board has twice failed since Christmas to sell $7,000,000 of the same tax warrants. The banks and investment houses refused to bid. The unpaid bills of the county for meat, butter, eggs, coal and other supplies total $7,035,000. There is no cash in the county treasury and it is unable to borrow on the security which it will try to slip the employés as cash in payment for service rendered. These are the employés whose compensation has already been cut 16 2-3 per cent, according to John Fitzpatrick of the Chicago Federation of Labor, by an appropriation which provides for only ten months of the year.

Bankers See Depreciation.

The commissioners seemed highly pleased with their action, some of them even gleeful. Bankers said that this method of hawking tax anticipation warrants would decrease their market value. But the commisisoners announced that the printing of warrants in $5 to $100 denominations started last night and that "pay day" will be next Wednesday.

It was rumored around the county building that the commissioners hope that they will not be compelled to hand out the warrants next Wednesday. They are counting, according to the report, on the bankers coming forward and agreeing to buy the warrants at par. It remains to be seen whether this will be the outcome. The bankers have said twice that they have already purchased all of the tax anticipation warrants they can.

What a Warrant Constitutes.

These tax warrants are a promise on the part of the county to pay the face value of the document when the 1930 taxes are collected, and at the same time pay interest at six per cent. The 1928 taxes have not yet been decided upon. The reassessment is still in progress. When they are spread then the assessing bodies must levy the 1929 taxes. After that comes the 1930 taxes.

Several department stores notified Deputy Controller Michael O'Connor last night that they would accept the warrants in payment for goods. But this courtesy will not extend so far that the stores will return cash for the warrants if only a small purchase is made out of a warrant of large denomination, it was indicated.

"Here we've had a 17 per cent cut in salaries under the new budget which was made upon a ten months basis," mourned one county employé. "Now, they pay us in warrants for which we can get only 75 cents on the dollar. Who said politics was an easy game?"

Still Using Old Basis.

The ten months basis upon which the county's 1930 budget was based has not yet been put into effect, however, an observer pointed out. The pay rolls for the first two pay days in January have been made upon the old basis.

After the county board had held its emergency session yesterday and decided upon the payment of salaries in tax warrants, reports became frequent that the city contemplated the same step. But City Controller Schmidt declared there was much danger in the plan and declared it would be resorted to only as an extreme measure.

Commissioner Newby, in presenting the plan to the county board, said it seemed the only way out of the county's financial dilemna. The county had tried for three weeks to sell $7,000,000 worth of the warrants to the banks, he pointed out.

"These warrants would be called gold notes in banking terms," he said. "The plan was discovered in the last 24 hours. We have every confidence that the warrants will be accepted virtually as legal tender by stores, banks and landlords."

Continue Tax Hearings.

Meanwhile, the board of review continued its work on inspecting the reassessment values. Charles V. Barrett said most of the work had been completed with the exception of the 1,700 complaints filed against loop property owners by the board of education.

Lester L. Falk, attorney for the Loop Building Owners association, which is fighting the school board's attack on loop property valuations, sent a letter to the reviewers suggesting a plan to rush the review of loop valuations.

"The proceedings can be much shortened," he said. "If it is assumed that the work done by the board of assessors is prima facie correct. In case there is an injustice apparent, I am prepared to make an agreement with the board without a hearing. Where an agreement cannot be reached, a hearing, of course, will be necessary."

TAXPAYERS' LEAGUE SEEKS WAY OUT OF FINANCIAL MUDDLE

One hundred members of the newly formed Taxpayers and Citizens' league met last night in the city council chambers to discuss the financial troubles of the county's tax spending agencies. According to T. P. Quinn, president, the league representes 600,000 taxpayers of the city.

After hearing various recommendations from their executive committee, they dispatched a telegram to Gov. Emmerson urging that he immediately call a special session of the legislature "for the purpose of ending the present obstruction to equitable taxation in Cook county.

The message contained five recommendations, as follows:

1. Repeal the law creating the present board of review as well as all laws prescribing the powers and duties of the board.
2. Amend the law creating the board of assessors to provide for the election of only one assessor.
3. Arrange for a constitutional convention that will give to every municipality and county in the state the rights of home rule.
4. No authorization of bond issues without referendum.
5. Need of a statute providing for the recall of unfaithful public officials.

ROCKOLA MUM IN NEW SLOT TRIAL; SENTENCED AGAIN

CRIMINAL COURT.

Anthony Walkowiak, embezzlement: sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Arthur Van Huken, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary, by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Chin Bing, assault to murder, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary; Frank Misda and Charles Babb, larceny, sentenced to 5 years each in the penitentiary, by Judge Peter Schwaba.

The case against James C. [High Pockets] O'Brien, alleged chief of a $1,000,000 slot machine syndicate, virtually collapsed last evening in Judge John P. McGoorty's Criminal court, but David C. Rockola, balky state witness and alleged to have been the "crown prince" of the syndicate, was sentenced for a second time to six months' imprisonment for contempt of court. He was sentenced to a like term several months ago when he refused to testify against Dr. William H. Reid, Thompson political leader, and six police captains in the trial of the earlier slot machine syndicate case.

Not only was Rockola put in jail despite his pleas that his wife was about to become a mother, but his attorney, Louis Piquett, who was city prosecutor under the first Thompson administration, was given a severe scolding by the judge. He was told by the judge that his good faith in the matter was questionable and that the court was not satisfied that he was without responsibility in the collapse of the state's slot machine case prosecutions.

Rockola Keeps Silent.

Rockola, said to be the only man who could connect O'Brien with the alleged bribery of Frank C. Beran, former police custodian, was called to the witness stand late yesterday afternoon as a witness against O'Brien. He refused to answer any of the questions put to him by Assistant State's Attorneys Grenville Beardsley and Henry Ayers, muttering, "I stand on my constitutional right because I am afraid to incriminate myself," when the judge granted him immunity and directed him to answer the questions.

The jury was excused finally and the judge told Rockola he could not understand why the witness had answered the same questions in the trial against Beran several weeks ago, but now refused to testify against O'Brien. Attorney Piquett tried to explain, and the more he talked the more angry the judge appeared.

Judge Assails Lawyer.

"This court is not at all satisfied with your actions as counsel, Louis Piquett," said the judge. "I do not like your attitude at all.

"A lawyer has a duty to perform to the courts and to the public. I believe your client has been badly advised. I feel that you are not without responsibility in this matter, Mr. Piquett. The court has grave reason to question your good faith. This court has grounds to believe that there are other reasons than those stated as to why you advised your client not to testify."

The judge then asked Attorney Piquett if he had at one time purported to represent O'Brien. The lawyer replied that he had made such a statement in jest and the judge said that no matter how it was made Rockola's attitude certainly was benefiting O'Brien.

The trial will proceed this morning, but indications are that without Rockola's testimony the state cannot make a case sufficiently strong to go to a jury.

RAID HANDBOOK IN EVANSTON.

Nine men were arrested yesterday by the Evanston police in a raid on a handbook at 615 Davis street, Evanston, operating under the name of the "Yon Lamb Real Estate company." Leo Brown, 2048 Arthur avenue, Chicago, was fined $25 by Justice of the Peace James G. Barber as the keeper of a gambling room, while the patrons were fined $5.

STORE MANAGER ROBBED.

John Gall, manager of a Piggly Wiggly store at 1027 North State street, was robbed of $162 by an armed man last night.

now asserted the characterization was a matter of indifference. Faubel said the changed attitude was brought about by observation of the lobby committee's procedure and the "uselessness" of the "whole to do about lobbying and the like."

"It didn't seem to me, senator," said Faubel, "that it made very much difference one way or the other. 'A rose by any other name'—you know, senator——"

Caraway Gets Personal.

"Yes, you and Arnold would smell the same," snapped Caraway, referring to J. A. Arnold, Washington lobbyist for the Southern Tariff association and a number of affiliated enterprises, whose activities occupied several weeks of the committee's time early in the investigation.

Faubel refused to be swerved from his contention that with the possible exception of its exposure of the Bingham-Evanson incident and of Arnold's activities the work of the committee has been "generally disapproved by the public and the press."

He asserted his impression that Grundy's classification of "backward states" and his advice to their senators to "talk darned small" in discussions of major national policies "has been very decidedly approved."

Aldermen to Get List of All City's Unpaid Bills

City Controller Schmidt was directed by the city council yesterday to compile a list of all unpaid bills of the city and submit it to the aldermen on the request of Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee. The Strawn committee has represented, according to Clark, that the corporate fund owes more than $2,000,000 in unpaid bills which are represented by approximately 6,000 vouchers in the controller's office. The list is to be prepared by the controller will show the name of the creditor, his business, the commodity delivered or service performed and the amount due him.

ARRESTED ON CHECK CHARGE.

Illinois Bank Robberies Trebled, Figures Show.

Attention was called yesterday to the records of bombings and bank robberies in 1929. Last year there were 115 bombings in Chicago and its suburbs, as compared with 116 in 1928, but the damage caused was twice as great as in the preceding year; and there were three times as many bank robberies in Illinois as in 1928 and three times as much money was taken. The Employers' association furnished the figures on bombings, and the Illinois Bankers' association gave statistics on the robberies.

The bombing loss in Chicago and its suburbs last year totaled $197,109, or $1,713 per bombing, as compared with $960 for each bombing in 1928. Racket bombs, directed against shop owners or other business concerns, comprised 48.6 per cent of the total. Oak Park, with four bombs, had the highest bomb total of the suburban towns. "Gunpowder Row," the name given by the association to Halsted street from Irving Park boulevard to 63d street, had 23 bombings.

Bombing an Occupation.

"Bomb making and throwing has become a professional occupation, carried on by a syndicate whose services are for hire," said the report of G. L. Hostetter, executive secretary of the employers' organization. "The bombs of 1929 contained heavier and more powerful charges, indicating that the intent was to cause damage instead of giving a 'warning.' Bombs may be bought and 'serviced'—that is, thrown wherever directed. The bombing industry can report a good year for 1929 as the production remained the same but the quality and effectiveness of the product was almost doubled."

The 1930 bombing rate is about the same as that in 1929, Mr. Hostetter reported, with seven bombs in 24 days.

Nab 65 Per Cent of Robbers.

Banking officials listed one feature of the bank robbery figures in which the 1929 average was the same as the 1928—65 per cent of the criminals were apprehended. The net loss in the year for one bank burglary and 24 successful holdups, after allowing for recoveries, was $110,000. Half of the bank robberies were in towns of less than 500 population.

Forgery and other frauds against banks were shown to be on the increase. Of 95 persons arrested and prosecuted by the bankers' association, 31 were sent to the penitentiary, 21 to the House of Correction, and 20 were put on probation. Only one case resulted in acquittal and the remainder of those arrested are awaiting trial.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane after investigating the death of Joseph Zimmerman, 27 years old, 2113 North Clark street, who shot himself following a quarrel with his common law wife, Mrs. Rose Papp, 24 years old.

O'BRIEN WIDOW TO GET MATE'S $6,100 POLICIES

Insurance Turned Over to Her Attorneys.

Now that Genevieve O'Brien is free, following a verdict of not guilty returned Thursday night by a jury which tried her for the murder of her husband, William J. O'Brien, she will cash in on his life insurance policies amounting to $6,100.

Her attorneys, Charles S. Dougherty and Sam A. Hoffman, conferred yesterday with Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler, who with Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne conducted the prosecution of Mrs. O'Brien, regarding the insurance policies. The state used them as evidence in the case against Howard Dorr, convicted of O'Brien's murder. The prosecutors will turn over the policies to Mrs. O'Brien's attorneys today. Mr. Dougherty said he anticipated no difficulty in collecting the money.

Smiles as She Poses.

Genevieve smilingly posed for pictures in the office of her attorneys at 35 North La Salle street yesterday afternoon and told reporters she was happy. Asked how it felt to be out of a cell in the county jail, where she awaited trial, she said, "O, funny."

"No," she said, and looked down at her gloved hands.

"Are you going to see Mrs. Dorr?"

"No," she said, and looked pleadingly at Mr. Hoffman.

She glanced at a newspaper lying near by with her photograph smiling up from it. Asked what she thought of all the publicity she got from being on trial for murder she said: "O, I don't like it. I suppose a few people out of the crowds in the courtroom last night were really interested in me, but to most of them it didn't really matter. It doesn't matter to anybody but me and my family."

Brother at Her Side.

Her 19 year old brother, Eugene, was with her. Her 17 year old brother, Thomas, was back at work. If the baby she expects soon is a boy, she will name it Eugene Thomas, she said.

Asked what she would do with the insurance money, Mrs. O'Brien said she did not know. According to her attorneys, she is the beneficiary of the two $2,500 policies which Dorr wrote for O'Brien on the Continental Assurance company; a $1,000 policy with the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and a $1,000 policy with a street car men's benefit association. Nine hundred dollars of the latter, however, was used to defray expenses of the funeral of William O'Brien, Mr. Daugherty said.

Excitement prevailed in the attorneys' office over the reported offer of a trip to Florida, which was made by a reputedly wealthy woman who introduced herself as "Mrs. Smith" after Mrs. O'Brien was acquitted.

Attorney Hoffman was enthusiastic, declared the trip to be an assured matter, and he said that his wife would accompany Mrs. O'Brien, leaving Monday. The mysterious "Mrs. Smith," he said, wanted to take Genevieve on the trip because she loved children and had none of her own.

Many Congratulations.

A stack of telegrams of congratulation lay on the desk in the law office. Genevieve did not read them, however. She left with her brother and it was reported they met "Mrs. Smith," who was to outfit Genevieve with new clothes suitable for Florida.

Howard Dorr, Mrs. O'Brien's reputed lover, when asked in his cell in the county jail what he thought of Mrs. O'Brien's acquittal, said, "I am glad she is free—but she shouldn't have said that about us."

Mrs. O'Brien, on taking the stand in her own behalf, denied the story he had told. He had said that no love existed between her and him, and no illicit relationship, and that his shooting of O'Brien was accidental.

BOY, 3, IS SHOT BY BROTHER, 4, IN HOLDUP GAME

Four year old Willie Graffe climbed upon a chair in the pantry of his home at 4956 South Marshfield avenue last evening and took from the shelf a pistol which his father, John Graffe, proprietor of a filling station at 54th street and Kedzie avenue, had brought home the previous night to clean. Two years ago Graffe killed a robber with the gun.

Willie gripped the weapon in both hands and pointed the muzzle at his brother, Walter, 3 years old, suggesting they play "stickup." Walter threw up his hands and grinned.

"Boom," said Willie, and the gun was discharged. Walter dropped the pistol and ran to his mother, Mrs. Edna Graffe, who was sewing in another room.

"I shot Walter and now he has a red mustache," the child said. The mother found her younger son unconscious on the floor and bleeding at the mouth.

The New City police took Walter to the German Deaconess hospital. Surgeons found that the bullet had passed through his mouth and lodged in the back of his neck. They gave little hope that he would survive.

Shot by Woman in Row in Her West Side Home

Frank Battagalia, 25 years old, 830 South Bishop street, was shot in the abdomen early this morning in the apartment of Mrs. Margaret Russell, 27 years old, and Ann Larson, 23 years old, at 1357 Harrison street. Both women were held for questioning by the Maxwell police, who said they had been informed that Mrs. Russell had shot Battagalia after he quarreled with her and the Larson girl. He has been involved in other south side shooting scrapes, police said.

Norway Plans $100,000 Legation at Washington

SAVED FROM DEATH BY GAS

Changes Mind

Mrs. Axel Schluntz, 35 years old, 2056 North Keystone avenue, and her children, Edward, 15 months old, and John, 2 years old, are recovering from effects of gas in the Keystone hospital after the mother, despondent because of ill health and financial difficulties, turned on the gas yesterday in a resolve to end the lives of her babies and herself.

Holding her infant in her arms and leaving the older child in bed, she pulled a chair to the gas stove and opened the jets. She sat there for a while and, unable to endure seeing her child die as she sat stroking its head, she changed her mind about ending it all. She placed the child on the floor and half conscious struggled to the door. On opening it she fell down the steps, eight feet below. Her screams attracted neighbors, who notified the police and fire department. Firemen revived them.

POLICEMEN GUARD VIVISECTION FOE IN CHICAGO TALK

J. S. Codman Speaks Despite Threats.

Two police sergeants sat on the speakers' platform at a meeting of anti-vivisectionists in the Hotel Sherman last night while John Sturgis Codman of Boston, vice president of the New England Anti-Vivisection society, delivered an attack against the American Medical association and a prominent Philadelphia physician, who is one of President Hoover's advisers.

The police protection was requested by Clarence E. Richards, head of the National Anti-Vivisection society, who had received two unsigned letters and several anonymous telephone calls threatening harm to Mr. Codman. One letter was submitted to Police Commissioner Russell by Mr. Richards.

Letter Threatens Violence.

"If you damned fools," said the letter, "haven't enough common sense to keep that New Englander out of Chicago, we will take care of him. We don't want him here shooting off his mouth against doctors. It will take a dozen doctors to dress his wounds if he appears. We mean business."

Speaking on "Human Vivisection and the American Medical association," Mr. Codman denounced the medical profession for condoning experimental vivisection, as he alleged, on children and irresponsible adults. He cited cases in which, he averred, invalids and minors suffered incalculable injury at the hands of experimenting surgeons.

Assails Hoover Counselor.

Mr. Codman centered his attack on Dr. Samuel McC. Hamill of Philadelphia, chairman of the medical section of President Hoover's conference on child health and protection. Dr. Hamill, he asserted, had conducted tuberculin tests on 160 orphan children, many of whom were ill, and these tests, he said, had resulted in serious injury to the patients, particularly to three who were afflicted with typhoid fever.

At the conclusion of the meeting, which was marked by no disorder, the audience adopted two resolutions. One calls upon President Hoover to remove Dr. Hamill as chairman of the child conference, and the second condemns "experimentation upon living human beings without their intelligent consent."

Organizations represented at the meeting were the Anti-Cruelty society, the Illinois Anti-Vivisection society, the Taxpayers and Voters' League of Illinois, the American Medical league, the United States Health league, the Chicago Humane Education society, and the Evanston Humane society.

BRITISH BIRTH RATE IS LOWEST AMONG NATIONS

LONDON, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The birth rate in England and Wales last year was the lowest on record—16.3 per thousand. In 1920, admittedly an abnormal year, the rate was 25.5, and in 1918, the last of the war, 17.7.

The death rate increased from 11.7 to 13.7, so that England and Wales have nearly reached the stage when the number of deaths equals the number of births. The increase in the number of deaths is attributed to the influenza epidemic of last spring and to an unusually severe winter.

Britain is now at the bottom of the world's list of birth rate percentages. Spain is highest with 29 per thousand; Italy next with 27; Canada third with 24; Holland fourth with 23; Austria fifth with 22; Denmark sixth with 21; Australia seventh with 20; the United States eighth with 19. Next to Britain, France has the lowest rate—18 per thousand.

Canal Diggers Find Grecian Gold Cups Worth $500,000

ISTAMBUL, Jan. 24.—(AP)—One thousand ancient Greek cups of solid gold, valued at nearly half a million dollars, have fallen from the laps of the gods into the laps of the authorities of the city of Smyrna. Canal diggers unearthed a number of sarcophagi filled with ancient pottery and glittering masses of gold. The finds have been turned over to the Smyrna museum.

EUNICE PRINGLE SUES PANTAGES FOR A MILLION

Says No Money Can Repair Wrongs.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Eunice Pringle, 17, co-ed and dancer, upon whose complaint Alexander Pantages was convicted of rape, today filed suit for $1,000,000 damages against the millionaire showman.

The suit asked for $500,000 actual and $500,000 exemplary damages, charging that as a result of the attack in a small room in the Pantages Theater building last Aug. 9, "the plaintiff has suffered great physical pain and mental anguish."

Within an hour of the filing of the civil action the trial of Garland Biffle, accused of perjury as a result of his testimony in defense of Pantages, was halted.

Judge Summons Girl.

He said Miss Pringle, a witness against Biffle, had testified she did not intend to sue Pantages. He charged the action was filed with intent to influence the jury against Biffle.

Judge Henderson summoned Miss Pringle, her mother, Mrs. Lou Pringle, her attorneys, Theodore Gottsdanker and Hugh Dickson, and Nicholas Duneav, author of a dancing skit the girl was attempting to book on Pantages' vaudeville circuit at the time of the assualt, to appear tomorrow for questioning.

Pantages, awaiting the outcome of his appeal from a one to fifty years penitentiary sentence in the county jail, refused to comment, but his attorneys said they expected such action and would "fight it to the limit."

Eunice Tells Her Woes.

"The longer I go the more I realize what this horrible thing will mean to me all my life," Miss Pringle said. "No money can ever make up for what happened to me, but that man should be made to pay. I have not been thinking about money. I have been trying to forget. People have advised me to sue. I did not decide to file the suit until just before I signed the papers.

"I decided it was my right and that at least he should make up to me for my lost future. I have suffered beyond words as a result of the affair—not only what actually happened, but the publicity that followed."

EFFORT TO GIVE P. O. FIRST BATH MEETS FAILURE

Efforts of the Municipal Art league of Chicago to have the exterior of the postoffice cleaned through appeal to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon have met with failure, according to a letter made public yesterday. The postoffice building, once a light granite, but now blackened with smoke and dirt, has not been washed since it was completed twenty-six years ago.

A letter addressed to the art league from the acting supervising architect in Washington says that the government has not funds to do the proposed work.

2 MORE SANITARY CONTRACTORS INDICTED BY U. S.

Charged with Evasion of Income Tax.

William M. and Walter W. McKeon, owners of McKeon Brothers Roofing company, 2210 West Grand avenue, were indicted by the federal grand jury yesterday for failure to file income tax returns and willful evasion of tax payments for 1927 and 1928. The tax alleged to be owed, a total of $21,323, is based on income from work done for the sanitary district during the régime of Timothy J. Crowe as president.

The indictments are similar, in relation to the former sanitary district régime, to indictments returned recently against officials of the U. S. A. company, electrical contractors.

According to Dwight H. Green, special assistant United States attorney, who investigated the case, the McKeon brothers company received approximately $275,000 from the sanitary district during two years. Of this amount about $70,000 was spent in operations of the company, the remainder being divided between the two brothers as net income, Green said. Each brother, it is alleged, had taxable income of $55,534 in 1927, and $47,734 in 1928.

Carries Prison Term Penalty.

Failure to file income tax returns is punishable by one year in the penitentiary and $10,000 fine. Willful evasion of tax payment, a felony, carries a maximum penalty of five years in the penitentiary and $10,000 fine.

The work done for the sanitary district by the McKeons was not under contract, according to the federal prosecutor. He said it was ordered through the recommendation of Crowe and was paid for in checks under $500 each. It is a rule of the district that work to cost more than $500 must be assigned under contract after competitive bidding. There was no bidding in this case, Green said. Most of the work was repairing roofs, replacing glass, and making other minor repairs on sanitary district pumping stations.

Both the McKeons are known to have been active political supporters of Crowe before the last sanitary district election.

41 Other Indictments.

A total of 115 indictments were returned by the grand jury yesterday, including one charging Otto A. Siebert, teller at the Ogden National bank, with embezzling $10,000. According to Assistant United States Attorney James C. Leaton, Siebert admitted having lost about that sum on horse races during the last few months.

Richard S. White, who claims to be an adopted son of Frank White, former governor of North Dakota and at one time controller of the United States treasury, was indicted for violation of the Dyer act.

VICTIM FAILS TO IDENTIFY 3 IN $50,000 HOLDUP

Dennis Kenny, 5545 South Lincoln street, a truck driver employed by the Illinois Tunnel company, whose truck containing men's clothing valued at $50,000 was taken from him Thursday by four armed men, failed yesterday to identify three suspects arrested by the police.

Two men, George Kelly and John G. Condon, were arrested at 1236 East 46th street. With them was a woman who stated that she was Mrs. Kelly, but was later identified as Milly McKenzie. She was also taken into custody. Later Sergt. Frank Freemuth arrested James Radecke, 1500 West 17th street, as a suspect in the same robbery. The men were booked for disorderly conduct and will be arraigned today.

PARROT IMPORTATION FROM SOUTH AMERICA FORBIDDEN BY HOOVER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—President Hoover today forbade the importation of South American parrots into the United States as a preventive measure to check further spread of "parrot fever," or psittacosis.

The President acted after Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming had recommended placing an embargo on the entry of all parrots until after the present epidemic of "parrot fever" has been halted.

In his message to the executive, the surgeon general pointed out that thus far eight deaths have occurred from this disease. More than sixty cases of psittacosis have been discovered throughout the United States since the malady first was called to the attention of the public health service.

According to federal officials, all cases of "parrot fever" have been traced directly to parrots originating from South America. In every instance, it was said, the malady was contracted from parrots shipped into this country within recent weeks.

South American parrots are shipped into the United States direct and via Hamburg, Germany.

HATRY GIVEN 14 YEARS FOR HUGE LONDON SWINDLE

Partners of Forger Also Guilty.

BY JOHN STEELE.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The case of Clarence C. Hatry came to a sudden and dramatic end today when the financier, who with three of his associates was being tried at Old Bailey for an $8,000,000 fraud, one of the greatest in London financial history, changed his plea from not guilty to guilty a few minutes after court opened.

Despite the eloquence of the appeal for mitigation of the sentence by Norman Birkett, chief counsel for Hatry, the leader of the four defendants was given the maximum sentence of 14 years' penal servitude, of which the first two years will be at hard labor. Fourteen years is the maximum for forgery in England, while two years at hard labor is also the limit the la wallows. The good behavior allowance amounts to about one-sixth of the total time to be served, so Hatry will spend at least 12 years in prison. He is 41 years old, married, and has two children.

Associates Get Jail, Too.

His associates were also sentenced on several counts, but all running concurrently, so the actual length of the sentences are Edmund Daniels, 7 years; John Graham Dixon, 5 years, and Albert E. Tabor, 3 years. In each case two years at hard labor begins the sentence. Mr. Tabor is the father of a child born only a few weeks after he was imprisoned.

Harty's offense consisted of issuing loans for various municipal corporations and over-printing certificates to the amount of nearly $4,000,000. In addition he failed to turn over part of the money realized from the sale of the genuine certificates, defrauding the issuing corporations to the extent of another $4,000,000.

Worst Fraud in 50 Years.

In sentencing the financiers Justice Avery called the forgeries "the most appalling frauds that ever disfigured the commercial reputation of this country—frauds far more serious than any of the great frauds upon the public committed in the last 50 years."

Hatry's frauds caused severe financial depression in London when discovered, and the effects of them were even felt in New York. Hatry started his financial career when only 25 years old with a million dollar deal. At the time he was an unknown insurance clerk. During the crash of the post war boom in England he lost $15,000,000 but soon built up his fortune in a $40,000,000 British steel combine.

CAPTAIN RETURNS TO SINKING SHIP AND DIES WITH IT

Reveal Narrow Escape of 1,100 Passengers.

BY HAROLD TATAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 24.—Radio dispatches from Ushuaia, Tierra del Fuego, report that the German motor ship Monte Cervantes, which grounded there last Wednesday, broke up and sank at 9 o'clock last night. Capt. Theodore Dreyer, who returned to examine the extent of the damage to the vessel, after the 1,100 passengers had been removed, was the only one to perish with the ship.

While Capt. Dreyer and members of the crew were surveying the vessel, it suddenly shifted its position on the reef and began to heel over rapidly. The captain immediately ordered the crew to abandon the ship. Many of the crew had difficulty in swimming through the whirlpool caused by its sinking. Capt. Dreyer, meanwhile, hoisted the ship's flag and stood stoically on the bridge. He disappeared with his vessel.

Catastrophe Narrowly Averted.

The presence of several Argentine naval units in the neighborhood of the disaster undoubtedly prevented a catastrophe. Had it not been for their presence the 1,100 passengers aboard the Monte Cervantes, as well as the crew, would have perished or been cast away on one of the most bleak and barren spots on the globe.

The Monte Cervantes' sister ship, the Monte Sarmiento, is now speeding to Ushuaia to succor the marooned tourists who, in the meantime, are living on the roughest and scantiest fare.

List of Marooned Americans.

Among the marooned passengers at Ushuaia are the following Americans: F. C. Ballagh, assistant United States trade commissioner for Argentina, and his wife and daughter; Miss Dorothy Ferrant of Massachusetts, who is employed at the United States consulate at Buenos Aires, and Dr. Vance B. Murray of the United States public health service.

The cause of the disaster has not yet been revealed. It is believed here, however, that it may have been due to an error in the pilot's calculations.

SECOND DISASTER.

On July 25, 1928, the Monte Cervantes grounded near Bell island, Spitzbergen, Norway, with 1,500 passengers aboard. Wireless distress signals from the Monte Cervantes were picked up by the Krassin, the soviet owned 10,000 ton ice breaker, which aided in the heroic rescue of seven members of the Nobile arctic disaster. The Krassin, en route from King's bay for repairs, assisted the Monte Cervantes which, after water was pumped out and her bulk heads repaired, was able to make her own way back to Hamburg.

COUNCIL BEGINS INQUIRY INTO TAXI BUSINESS

An investigation of the taxicab situation in Chicago was ordered by the city council yesterday at the request of Ald. Thomas J. Bowler [41st]. The investigation, which will include every phase of the taxicab business, will be conducted by the committee on traffic regulation and public safety, of which Ald. Bowler is chairman.

One of the matters in which the committee will interest itself, according to Bowler, is a study of the plan of Mayor Walker of New York for an increased city revenue from the taxicab business by creating a monopoly and treating it as a public utility.

Ald. Bowler said the committee would investigate the alleged practice of taxicab companies of paying as much as $30,000 to hotels for parking privileges. He pointed out that this parking is done in city streets. Another matter to be included in the investigation is the congestion of loop streets as it relates to taxicabs.

T. R. JR. THANKS CHICAGOANS FOR PORTO RICO AID

"Chicago manufacturers have done splendid service for our children down here in Porto Rico," Gov. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. of Porto Rico wrote in a letter received yesterday by Charles J. P. Lucas, 35 North Central avenue.

Col. Roosevelt at the date of writing the letter, Jan. 17, had received two shipments of food sent to the starving Porto Rico women and children by Chicago merchants, after an article by Mr. Roosevelt telling of conditions on the island was printed in THE TRIBUNE in December. A shipment of meat contributed by Chicago packers was due to reach Porto Rico on Jan. 20.

"The food shipments are coming in and are being at once put to use," the letter continued. "We have organized our distribution through the regular school machinery of the island so that every penny contributed and every pound of food goes to the children. I wish to extend thanks to those in Chicago who have aided in this work."

BRITISH BOMBS FIRE NATIVE HUTS, SUBDUE REBELS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Jan. 24.—Maj. Meintjes of the South African air force today bombed the kraal, or native stronghold, of Sekonela, African chief, at Mount Caba in northern Transvaal, setting fire to the huts and driving out the rebel leader and 1,000 of his followers. There were no casualties. As soon as the huts were on fire the natives ran down the hillside into the arms of waiting forces. Sekonela and his followers surrendered to the native commissioner and were taken to Sibera for trial.

Sekonela claimed to be head of the Fpfura tribe in a section of Bwandas, but the government appointed his brother, Paswana, a chief, ordering Sekonela to retire to the Zoutpansberg. When he refused a warrant was issued for his arrest and an expedition sent out against him.

The assault on the kraal started early this morning. Maj. Stricklan attacked by land while Maj. Meintjes attacked from the air. As a result of the battle Paswana was officially installed as chief tonight amid huge festivities.

MINNEAPOLIS CHICAGO ST. PAUL

BRITAIN SCORES POINT ON HOW TO REDUCE NAVIES

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—As a result of a conference today between the French and British delegates to the five power naval conference, great progress was made towards reconciling the British demand for limitation of navies by categories and the French thesis of global tonnage limitation.

At Geneva, Admiral Hilary P. Jones of the United States navy put forward an alternative suggestion, that while limitation should be by categories, the right should be granted nations to transfer tonnage from one category to another within certain limits.

Agree on Amended Plan.

The French and British today agreed to accept this in amended form, the amendment being that a transfer should not be allowed from or to battleships, large cruisers, and the submarine category. In other words, it should be limited to small cruisers and destroyers.

The Italians today refused to discuss practical details of naval reduction until they have obtained satisfactory recognition of their claim to parity with France. The Americans are now trying to mediate.

Dwight Morrow of the American delegation, who is looked upon as the "fixer" of the conference, accompanied by Hugh S. Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, called on Premier Tardieu of France tonight. Both the Americans and French refused to discuss the purpose of the call.

More Lectures on Relativity.

This seemed to be the only results of a series of lectures on relativity, which Professors MacDonald and Stimson held during the day. Prof. MacDonald met classes of French and Italian students at 10 Downing street and Prof. Stimson met similar classes at the Ritz hotel. The trouble seems to be that the students are more puzzled tonight than ever, as the two professors, who are said to be the only men in the world who understand the doctrine of relativity, do not seem to be in agreement about what it really means.

The French and British delegates discussed the report of a committee of experts appointed to try to reconcile the French and British theses, as set forth in the recent French memorandum and British reply. Incidentally, this was the first intimation that such a committee of experts had been appointed at all. It is composed of admirals and juridical experts of Great Britain and France. It was reported afterwards that this meeting showed such encouraging results that the experts would be asked to continue their work.

Stimson Also Holds Classes.

At 11:30 o'clock the Italian students of relativity came along and remained an hour and a half. All the public was allowed to know about this session was that matters concerning organization were discussed.

At the Ritz Secretary Stimson conferred a couple of hours with the Italian delegation. It is said they talked about Italy's needs, not America's. The French delegates also called on Mr. Stimson.

The chief delegates are planning to rest over the week-end. Prime Minister MacDonald went to Chequers this afternoon, where he will remain until Sunday night. Tomorrow he will give a luncheon party to the delegates from the British dominions.

Mr. Stimson went to Stanmore, where he will entertain only members of his own delegation. Stanmore is only 6 or 7 miles from Chequers, however, and it would be easy for Mr. Stimson to slip over and see Mr. MacDonald, or for Mr. MacDonald to view the beauties of Stanmore.

Stimson Sees Press; Tells Nothing.

Stung by the criticism of not only the American but of the world press at the inadequate American publicity, Mr. Stimson today held a general press conference at St. James's palace. He told nothing. He talked in vague generalities about how hard everybody was working and what a band of brothers the delegates were. Downstairs a half hour later the British gave out the real news, colored to suit the British viewpoint.

One thing Mr. Stimson did say, that has aroused a cyclone of protest, is that he is ready to give up the seats of three of his experts at the plenary conference to representatives of three American news agencies. This excludes all newspapers, and unless other delegations are equally self-sacrificing, all other news agencies as well.

Four hundred correspondents from all over the world are meeting Monday to protest, demanding either that every one be admitted or all be excluded and an adequate report supplied after the meeting.

An alternative suggestion has been made that the conferences meet in Albert hall, admitting the public at two dollars apiece. The expenses of the conference are now being borne largely by the British taxpayers.

U. S. DELEGATES ASK PARLEY TO TAKE UP BIG CRUISERS FIRST

LONDON, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The American delegates to the naval conference decided today to tackle immediately the problem of cruisers—the crux of the Anglo-American naval situation.

This development was somewhat of a surprise. Since there is, apparently, a general agreement among the delegations that battleships should be further limited and controlled by international agreement, it had been expected that capital ships would make the logical starting point for work. But the Americans have taken the line that cruisers are the crucial point of the Anglo-American naval differences, and that this issue should be cleared as soon as possible.

The American view is that the conference should tackle the hardest problem first and leave the seemingly easy problem of battleships till the last.

BUILDING STRIKE IN LOOP LASTS ONLY FEW HOURS

Building trades workers employed on the Chicago Board of Trade building marched off the job yesterday in protest over installation of nonunion made boilers and this morning they will march right back again. After a conference yesterday afternoon the Chicago building trades council ordered the men back to work.

It is said to be one of the briefest building trades walkouts of recent date. Hegeman & Harris are the general contractors and the building is scheduled for completion on May 1. Approximately 700 tradesmen engaged in completing the interior finish were affected by the walkout.

Florida Styles Reviewed at Clubwomen's Luncheon

The latest styles being worn down in sunny Florida, modeled by members, passed in review yesterday before 450 members and guests of the Round Table group of the Illinois Women's Athletic club at a luncheon. Chief among the style were flannel sports suits of pastel colors, with the skirt length four inches below the knee, and sports jackets of crocheted wool. Lounging pajamas for afternoon tea were in contrasting colors, one suit being peach moiré with a pale green jacket. Afternoon hostess dresses with even hems reaching the ankle of lavender, black and flowered chiffon, and evening gowns of pink trailing the floor were modeled. Mrs. Robert Leitz was chairman of the affair.

U. S. Becoming Epicurean, Flavoring Makers Told

American housewives spent approximately $35,000,000 for flavoring extracts in 1929, D. T. Gunning, educational director of the Flavoring Extract Manufacturers' association, declared in a speech before the association yesterday. As a result of new developments in the creation of extracts, the American people are becoming a nation of epicures, he said.

U. S. DIPLOMACY 'SUNK' AGAIN BY BRITISH METHODS

London Sets Self Up as Sole Source of News.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The diplomats at the British foreign office made further gains today toward their objective of capturing control of the publicity of the London naval conference.

While the American delegation continued to be inarticulate on the peculiar necessities for American national defense and the relation of these to the character of naval armament reduction the British foreign office established itself as the principal source for news of the conference developments in the same manner as did Lord Riddell at the Washington conference in 1921.

A Striking Contrast.

The contrast between the British and American methods is strikingly illustrated by today's publicity from the respective delegations.

Secretary of State Stimson, who received the press at noon, expressed satisfaction with the attitude of the American delegation. Not one syllable that might influence public opinion to a favorable view of the American problem of armament reduction without sacrifice to the vital national interest was uttered.

These guarded commonplaces were the extent of the information regarding Mr. Stimson's negotiations with Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, and the heads of the other delegations that was given out at the American headquarters during the day.

British Expound Views.

In marked contrast to this were the publicity operations of the British. George S. Stewart, a young diplomat at the British foreign office, who is a former newspaper man possessed of an inexhaustible vein of humor, received correspondents at noon and again at 5:30. At these interviews he reported the subjects of the conferences of the British with the French and other delegations. He disclosed that the principal question under discussion in these preliminary negotiations is the method of naval limitation.

The British are again contending that limitation be by categories of ships, as against the French thesis of global limitation, in which maximum tonnage is fixed for each navy, leaving each nation free to build ships in whatever classes and of whatever number and tonnage it desires within the aggregate tonnage limit.

Puts British Side Over.

Mr. Stewart's explanation illustrated the fine art of British propaganda. He related the British admirals' opposition to the French global limitation scheme.

"As a fighting man I want to know what kind of a navy I have got now," he explained. "To tell me that I have got to fight a 1,000,000 ton navy tells me nothing. You might as well tell me that I have got 1,000,000 tons of water to fight. What I want to know is, how many and what kind of ships, and how many guns the other fellow has got."

All of this time Mr. Stimson was conferring with the chief delegates of the other nations on the methods of procedure, but the public was given no understanding of the American attitude.

CHURCHES BACK YARROW IN HIS WAR ON BOOKS

Members of the Chicago Church Federation yesterday, by unanimous vote, adopted a resolution of faith and confidence in the Rev. Philip Yarrow, superintendent of the Illinois Vigilance association, who in connection with his recent campaign against obscene books ran afoul of Municipal Judge Herbert G. Immenhausen. The Rev. Mr. Yarrow must appear on Feb. 6 to show cause why he should not be held in contempt because of criticisms against the Municipal court.

Yanks Shun Special London Menus; Like British Cooking

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The wives of the American delegates to the naval conference usually lunch with their husbands at the Ritz hotel. Although numerous American dishes have been especially added to the menu for the Americans, most of them prefer typical English food, except salads. It is observed that the Americans eat a great variety of green salads, despite the extremely high prices for out of season fresh vegetables.

Last night, when the delegates attended the Guild hall banquet, Mrs. F. Lammot Belin, wife of the first secretary of the American embassy, entertained Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, Mrs. Hugh R. Gibson, and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams at dinner. Afterwards she took the party to His Majesty's theater to see "Bitter Sweet," the new Noel Coward play.

Tea for American Women.

A tea party to the seven women of the American delegation has been arranged by Mrs. A. V. Alexander, wife of the first lord of the admiralty, for next Monday at the Admiralty. The guests will be shown the famous "Fish" furniture presented to Lord Nelson, which occupies two drawing rooms facing the Horse Guards parade It is upholstered in pale green and orchid mauve.

Tea is to be served in the stately drawing room, which contains some of the finest specimens of Chippendale chairs and portraits of by-gone permanent secretaries. Mrs. Alexander's daughter will help receive. Lady Parmoor, Mrs. Philip Snowden, wife of the chancellor of the exchequer, Mrs. A. Greenwood, wife of the minister of health, Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, wife of the American ambassador, and Mrs. J. R. Clynes, wife of the secretary of state for the home department, will be present.

Mrs. Dawes to Give Movie Show.

Tuesday Isbhel MacDonald, daughter of the prime minister, will be hostess at a dinner to some of the women of the French, Italian and American delegations. Afterward Mrs. Dawes will entertain the party at a private cinema show at the American embassy, where Gen. Dawes has installed a projecting machine and screen.

Premier Tardieu of France was a guest at a luncheon today given by Princess Antoine Bibesco, daughter of Margot Asquith and wife of the former Rumanian ambassador to Washington, now stationed in Madrid. The luncheon was served in the Marie Antoinette room of the Ritz hotel. Pink tulips were massed in the center of the table. Lord Londonderry, Lord and Lady Hartington, Lady Oxford, Sir Ronald Lindsay, Lord David Cecil, and Lady Violet Bonham Carter were among the guests.

Saloon Business Tripled.

The bar of the Hotel Carlton, where the French are stopping, is doing a triving business since the conference started. The barmaids said tonight that the sale of cocktails had tripled in the last week. Thirsty delegates, experts and journalists are the chief customers. Neither the Ritz, the American headquarters, or the Claridge, where the Italians are staying, has a bar, but drinks are served in the tea room and lobby during the hours permitted by law.

REALTY MEN ON CITY PAY ROLL, QUIZ DISCLOSES

Real estate salesmen and several professional men were found on the pay rolls of the city license bureau before the reduction in the bureau's staff on Jan. 3, according to testimony before the grand jury yesterday. Assistant State's Attorney Homer Dodge said it was obvious that some of the men carried on the rolls as employés of the bureau could not have performed the work for which they were engaged.

The grand jury has so far heard the testimony of 37 of the former employés of the bureau.

Detectives were unable to find men carried on the pay roll at the addresses given for them, the state charges. Bernard Romin, head of the bureau, probably will be called before the grand jury later to explain the pay roll, Dodge said.

BUTCHER ROBBED BY 2 MEN.

Frank Pellert, a butcher, was robbed of $15 yesterday by two men who forced him into a rear room of his shop at 207 West 72d street.

BRITAIN LEADING IN NAVAL RACE, FIGURES PROVE

But MacDonald Paints a Different Picture.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The battle of statistics was on today in the pallid confines of St. James's palace, where the naval and colonial destinies of five nations are at stake. The statistics of all the delegations to this conference are all different, and every one believes in his own.

To harmonize them, a special committee of experts has been established. It will try to make the figures accord so that each nation's statistical "lowdown" on the other will not be at variance. This may take some time, for a formidable array of mathematical tabulations have been flung across the conference tables.

Everybody Has a List.

France has a mighty list of statistics about the length of its coast lines, lines of communications, colonial populations, and foreign commerce, calculated to prove that it needs to complete its big navy program, which would give it about 800,000 tons of new ships by 1943.

The Japanese have painted their numerical pictures, and Prime Minister MacDonald has broadcast Great Britain's statistics, intending to show what a mighty naval reduction England has made since 1914.

Mr. MacDonald's figures, it is pointed out, show a difference between the English fleet of 1914 and 1930, but—which is more to the point in this conference—they do not indicate the other side of the picture; namely, the naval armament race which has been going on since 1922, in which England leads in the amount of tonnage laid down in the last eight years.

U. S. at Bottom of List.

Another statistical picture which was given here under the authority of Carlo Grenet, Italian naval officer, shows that England has laid down the most tonnage and the United States the least during the last eight years, of any nation at the conference, including Italy.

The American tonnage laid down since 1922, these figures show, totaled 174,413 tons. England laid down 388,000 tons, Japan 287,000 tons, Italy 178,000 tons, and France 249,000 tons.

THREATENED, ROBBED BY GUNMAN.

Meyer Fisher, 5546 Jackson boulevard, was robbed of $72 yesterday by two gunmen who threatened him and several customers in the Mid-City Plumbing and Supply company office which he operates at 1105 South Western avenue.

LAST OIL COMPANY DROPS ITS APPEAL AGAINST GAS TAX

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Dropping its fight against the 1929 3 cent gasoline tax, the McHenry County Oil company, through its attorney, Justus Chancellor, today dismissed its appeal to the Supreme court, and thus cleared away the last obstacle to hard road construction with the gas tax money.

The announcement was made after a conference between the counsel and Attorney General Carlstrom, whose duty it would be to defend the constitutionality of the gas tax law.

There were more than a hundred companies that attacked the act, but all but this one yielded at the request of Gov. Emmerson, who asked that they accede to the best judgment of Illinois law makers and the lower courts and stop litigation so that the state's hard road work might proceed.

MARRIAGE BONDS OF GUGGENHEIM GIRL ANNULLED

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 24.—(Special.)—Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morschauser revealed today that he had granted an annulment of the marriage of Natalie Guggenheim Gorman, daughter of Edmond A. Guggenheim, wealthy copper man, and Tom Gorman, son of a Manhasset, L. I., baggage master. The annulment, Justice Morschauser said, was granted last Tuesday after a hearing in his chambers, when it was established that Gorman had never lived with his wife. But the decree has not yet been signed.

Lee Parsons Davis, counsel for the Guggenheims, denied reports that they had paid Gorman between $50,000 and $75,000 as settlement for an alienation suit he had brought, papers for which had not yet been filed, with the understanding that he would consent to the annulment. When Justice Morschauser was questioned about this alleged settlement, he replied:

"I know nothing about it. But I am going to look carefully into the reports before I sign a decree annulling the marriage."

Miss Guggenheim and Gorman were secretly married on April 16, 1929, in All Saints Protestant Episcopal church at Great Neck, L. I. At the time she gave her age as 19. In the application for the annulment, however, it was shown that Miss Guggenheim was not 18 years old at the time she was married. The Guggenheims are said to have opposed the marriage on religious grounds.

18 HOUR TRAINS ON N. Y.-CHICAGO RUN ANTICIPATED

Railroads Preparing for Planes' Competition.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 24.—[Special.]—The New York Central and the Pennsylvania are all set for 18 hour passenger train service between New York and Chicago but they are sticking to the 20 hour schedule. The preparations have been in the nature of preparedness. Competition will bring faster trains. Either road may introduce the competition as the airplane with its cut rates is beginning to make itself felt as a traffic factor.

Hearing reports of a two power speed limitation conference, the two roads today were asked if they were planning faster trains.

No one in the Pennsylvania offices here would say what plans were being made for faster schedules. The opinion was expressed, however, that it would be an easy matter to "highball" a Pennsylvania express over the 908 miles to Chicago in eighteen hours.

Question Is Met Cautiously.

At the New York Central offices, President Patrick E. Crowley, declined to discuss "any change in present schedules" but in the office of the vice president in charge of traffic, G. H. Ingalls, it was learned the Central "has no idea at the present of putting on an 18 hour train." At the same time the reporter was told "the Century" has run 18 hour trains between New York and Chicago and can run them again if it becomes necessary."

Executives at the New York Central were inclined to discount competition by air lines and stress the safety factor. They admitted, however, that modern appliances had just about eliminated the accident hazard from an 18 hour schedule.

The matter of 18 hour speed, it was said, has come up from time to time, "usually after a number of letters had been received or newspaper of magazine articles had appeared," but that the New York Central has "had no cause to believe competition would compel them to speed up their trains."

Rail Systems Improved.

A New York business man today can ride by rail to Cleveland or Cincinnati and from Cleveland fly to Chicago for $17.60; or from Cincinnati for $14.85. By either route he can save an entire business day, as the fastest trains on the all rail route to Chicago leave here too soon after lunch to permit more than half a day's business. With an all rail 18 hour schedule between the two cities the traveler could leave after 4 o'clock and still arrive in Chicago early in the morning.

With multiple engine planes of large passenger capacity now being constructed, aviation authorities say they soon will be able to give the railroads some real competition over an all air route between New York and Chicago.

Rail Syste mImproved.

That the railroads are aware of this is evident from the steps they have taken to insure faster schedules if they become imperative. The Pennsylvania has improved its roadbed and its terminal electrification system in the east and is advertising the putting down of larger rails.

The Central boasts in print of an automatic train control throughout the entire 960 miles of its system between the two cities. It also has put down a rock ballasted roadbed with heavier rails on both lines. As an added insurance, it has utilized a device perfected b ythe Sperry Gyroscope company which takes the last hazard out of the rails. For years railroads have been seeking a method of detecting hidden burrs in the steel rails. The Sperry device attached to an engine automatically detects any burr in the rail and reports it to the pilot.

18 Hour Service Offered in 1905.

The last general change in schedules on the Central came after the Pennsylvania had put on two 20 hour trains to join its Broadway Special. The Central immediately stepped up three of its trains to the same running time as the Century.

Back in 1905 the Central used to run a train into Chicago at 8:30 a. m., just 18 hours out of New York. For a period beginning in 1910 the run was made in 17 hours and 55 minutes. It was not until 1912 that the comparatively slow time of 20 hours was adopted.

Right now the New York Central is carrying something like 70 per cent of the New York-Chicago commuters in comparison with five railroads, the Pennsylvania being the chief rival. With an 18 hour schedule possible the Central may be compelled to "find it advisable."

EX-DANCER GETS $14,000 FOR TAXI CRASH INJURIES

Doctor Is Sentenced After Accident.

Mrs. Mary Walters, 31 years old, 517 Oakdale avenue, a former cabaret dancer, yesterday was awarded a verdict for a judgment of $14,000 against the Checker Taxicab company by a jury in Circuit Judge Rush's court. Mrs. Walters was riding in a taxi cab with two companions on Jan. 30, 1923, when it collided with another car at Michigan boulevard and Madison street. She sued for $150,000 damages. Her skull was fractured and her back was injured so as to cripple her permanently, she charged. The jury disregarded testimony that Mrs. Walters had settled with the cab company for $3,000 in 1928. Attorneys for the company will appeal.

Doctor Gets 10 Days.

When a jury in Judge Francis Borelli's Speeders' court found him guilty of leaving the scene of an accident, Dr. Herbert F. Lambkin, 45 years old, a physician with offices at 159 North State street, was sentenced to 10 days in the Bridewell and fined $100. The doctor was arrested on complaint of Donald G. Nunamaker, 933 Lafayette parkway, whose wife was injured when their car was sideswiped by the doctor's automobile at Diversey parkway and Lincoln Park west. The doctor was traced through his license number.

Injuries Prove Fatal.

Two deaths yesterday raised the 1930 Cook county motor toll to 41. The victims:

Howard Seagreen, 24 years old, 5514 Lake Park avenue. Died in the Auburn Park hospital of injuries received on Thursday night when the auto in which he was riding with two companions collided with a taxicab at 73d street and Vincennes avenue. The driver of the cab, Howard Tatro, 7158 Vincennes avenue, was held.

Joseph Federico, 65 years old, 7832 South Morgan street. Fatally injured when he was crushed against an electric light pole by a truck after it had collided with an automobile at 32d street and Indiana avenue. Federico, a city employé, was clearing ice from a sewer opening. Jake Long, 3318 West Division street, driver of the truck, and Edmond Marionneaux, colored, driver of the other car, were held.

JUDGE CORRECTS ERROR; ROBBER IS SENTENCED

Node Brown, drug store robber, was legally sentenced to the penitentiary yesterday by Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle of the Criminal court. The judge had Brown's plea of nolo contendere withdrawn and a proper plea of guilty made, and then he entered the final order.

The Chicago crime commission several days ago called attention to the fact that Brown was sentenced under a plea of nolo contendere, a sentence that is not recognized in Illinois law. Inasmuch as the court term had not passed, the judge was in a position to change the plea so that Brown could not obtain his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that he had been illegally sentenced.

Parole Society Huntress Who Shot Rich Husband

New York, Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. Esther De Forest Wilson, the society huntress who shot her estranged husband, Dallett H. Wilson, wealthy lawyer, in his 5th avenue offices, will be released from prison Feb. 24 after serving one year and one month. She was sentenced to an indeterminate term which is being terminated by the parole board.

COUNTY HIGHWAY PROGRAM READY; 20 MILLION COST

$9,000,000 Is Allotted for City Routes.

A program was completed yesterday for the expenditure of $20,098,000 by the Cook county highway department in 1930, 1931 and 1932. The program provides that on through routes within Chicago the county is to spend $9,020,000. For grade separations, $2,000,000 is allotted.

The plan was drafted after months of study by a subcommittee of an advisory group appointed by the county board. The Chicago plan commission, the Chicago Association of Commerce, the Chicago Regional Planning association, and the motor clubs were represented.

The program calls for approximately 200 miles of paving and widening of highways in Chicago and Cook county. Preference is given to radial routes that will enable motorists to enter and to leave the city more conveniently. Another large portion of the money is devoted to paving gaps between long stretches of serviceable pavement.

Plan Takes Care of Traffic.

The regional planning association, in the early stages of drafting the program, attempted to assign money for the construction of circumferential routes that would have benefited subdivision more than traffic. The Chicago Motor club protested and the program as finally approved is designed to care for the needs of motorists.

Some of the more important projects scheduled for improvement by the county are Roosevelt road, Augusta boulevard, Ogden avenue, South Chicago avenue, North Cicero avenue, West End avenue and Maple avenue. The advisers also recommend that gasoline tax funds be used for paving the outer drive north to Evanston after Lincoln Park completes its sector, no part of the road fund to be used in making new land, however.

Some City Streets Dropped.

Some important Chicago streets were dropped from the improvement program because of a ruling by the state in regard to the use of gasoline tax revenue. The state highway department informed the committee that fuel excise funds could not be spent on sixty-six foot streets carrying transit lines unless the city widens the roadway sufficiently to allow parking outside the pavement laid by the county.

Clybourn, Milwaukee, Elston and Grand avenues are examples of thoroughfares barred from the improvement program by the state's contention that pavement built with gasoline tax money must be for traffic and not for parking.

The through routes within Chicago to be improved by the county will also be marked by the county with highway signs bearing two letters, such as "AB" or "XY," so that motorists can follow the trail from one section of the city to another, avoiding Chicago's many rutted pavements.

County Board O. K. Expected.

There seemed to be little doubt yesterday that the county board will adopt the program of its advisers. This adoption, however, will probably be contingent on a Supreme court ruling sustaining the validity of the gasoline tax. The county decided to spend its 1 cent share of the excise within the city while the state, with its 2 cents, builds roads in the metropolitan area.

The revenue for the county's highway work anticipated for the next three years includes $7,500,000 from the gasoline tax and $12,000,000 from the county road tax.

Judge Kerner Is Chosen to Hear Trial of Carey

Judge Otto Kerner of the Criminal court was designated yesterday to act as the trial judge in the case involving Bishop Archibald Carey, civil service commissioner, who is indicted for bribery and conspiracy. Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle made the assignment on the motion of Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin, who announced that the state is ready for trial. A definite trial date is expected to be announced on Jan. 30.

Senator for a Day

MRS. REBECCA FELTON.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Rebecca Latimer Felton, the only woman to hold the office of United States senator, died here at 11:45 tonight, after a brief illness. She was 94 years old.

Mrs. Felton gained the distinction when she was appointed on Oct. 3, 1922, by Gov. Thomas W. Hardwick of Georgia to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Thomas E. Watson. Mrs. Felton took the oath of office Nov. 21, 1922, while congress was in special session. She served for only 22 hours, making a dramatic speech just prior to her retirement.

While her term of office was only for a day the ceremony crowned with success efforts to "blaze the path for American womanhood" in the senate. Gallery crowds, largely composed of women, cheered Mrs. Felton as she appeared on the floor of the upper house to claim her seat.

$5,000,000 AUTO SHOW OPENS AT COLISEUM TODAY

300 Cars in Place on Exhibition Floor.

BY HAL FOUST.

The thirtieth National Automobile show will open at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Coliseum. The $5,000,000 exhibition, covering twelve acres, will continue daily, between 10 a. m. and 10:30 p. m., until next Saturday night. The doors will be open on Sunday for the first time in the history of the show.

Last night three hundred automobiles were pushed into place on the exhibition floor. They are vehicles with improvements over predecessors in appearance, comfort, and performance. Forty-six makes are represented.

Chicago, for the eight days, becomes the automobile capital of the world. Leaders of the industry are here, completing arrangements for their 1930 business. They expressed themselves as confident that national prosperity will continue.

The same view of 1930 business was reflected last night at the annual banquet of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, held in the Palmer house and attended by approximately 1,800 persons.

J. R. Histed, president of the association, presided. The principal speakers were Alfred Reeves, general manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the show, and C. E. Eldridge, an executive in the industry.

In addition to the automobiles, there is a section of the show devoted to accessories and another section to shop equipment. Several of the manufacturers have exhibits in some of the larger hotels as well as in the Coliseum.

NORWAY PLEDGES HELP FOR BYRD IN POLAR ICE PRISON

Whaling Men Confident Packs Will Break.

OSLO, Norway, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Norwegian whaling ships in the antarctic are ready to aid the expedition of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, locked in by the ice packs in the Ross sea, but the Norwegian Whalers association believes that the barrier will break up as usual and permit Admiral Byrd's supply ships to get through.

The Norwegian government today informed the American government, in reply to a request for aid from the United States minister, that it would do all it could to assist Admiral Byrd.

Whalers familiar with conditions in the antarctic believe that there is still time for the ice to break up. Several large whaling factory ships passed through the pack ice into Ross sea accompanied by several small whalers some time ago, and one of the factory ships recently left the Ross sea again.

British Whaler Stands By.

LONDON, Jan. 24. — (AP) — The British whaler Southern Princess is standing by in antarctic waters waiting for an opportunity to get in touch with the expedition of Admiral Byrd's party. The Liverpool owners of the whaler received a request from Ambassador Dawes for assistance, and immediately sent instructions to the master to take whatever action he could. The Southern Princess, however, is not an icebreaker and cannot break through the pack ice, but she is standing by and will presumably be able to help Admiral Byrd later.

Fears for Party Abate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—Washington officials were less apprehensive today regarding the safety of members of the Byrd south pole expedition now awaiting the arrival of vessels to carry them from their base at Little America to the outside world.

Although state department officials continued diplomatic communications with Great Britain and Norway in an effort to obtain the cooperation of these powers in insuring help, no move was made today to start American ships on a rescue mission.

Acting Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke stated late this afternoon that he had received assurances from the backers of Commander Byrd that the antarctic expedition is in no immediate danger. He added that the navy was keeping in close touch with the situation and would go to the assistance of the party if such action were deemed necessary.

CHICAGO URGES DELAY IN ARGUING LAKE DIVERSION

Carlstrom to Fight the Hughes Report.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—[Special.] — Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom of Illinois and associate counsel, representing the Chicago sanitary district and the Chicago Association of Commerce in the Chicago water diversion litigation, filed a motion in the United States Supreme court today asking for postponement of arguments on Special Master C. E. Hughes' report until April 14.

Arguments on the report originally were scheduled for Feb. 24, and Feb. 3 was set by the court as the deadline for filing of exceptions or objections to the special master's findings, which, in substance, recommended a final decree of the court requiring completion of the sanitary district's sewage treatment system within nine years and a progressive reduction of the amount of water diverted from Lake Michigan by the sanitary district to a maximum of 1,500 cubic feet a second.

In the motion filed on behalf of the state of Illinois and the sanitary district, it is argued that both the defendants and the six lake states allied against them in the controversy are planning to file numerous objections or exceptions to the report.

It is pointed out that the voluminous record of the master's hearings are not yet printed and that the allotted time does not permit a thorough study of the record or of the briefs which must be exchanged and answered before final arguments are had.

Postponement of the arguments will not be allowed to cause any delay in carrying out of the program of construction outlined in Hughes' report, according to the motion, which pledges the court that the sanitary district "will proceed with the construction of said sewage disposal works with all the speed possible and with all the speed recommended by said report."

The kind of a car a factory builds is the material expression of its thinking and policies. Think progressive thoughts and you build cars ahead of others. Imitate, and you are a builder of "me also" types of cars.

Auburn believes that no single size, or type of car can meet the requirements of every American family. Therefore we have gathered together an organization of engineers, designers, and production experts that is unique in the history of automobiles. It is a diversified, comprehensive and versatile organization, skilled and experienced in many directions. The searching of our engineers for a better mode of automotive transportation, led unerringly to the exclusive advantages obtainable only when a car is pulled instead of pushed. After long and unhurried concentration upon this problem, we introduced the Cord front-drive. It is an outer expression of our inner motives and methods. We do not claim it to be the perfect automobile. We do not believe there ever will be a perfect automobile. But for those who can afford it, we recommend them to the experience of owners who have driven it 10,000 to 30,000 miles.

LAWMAKERS WAR ON U. S. INVASION OF STATE RIGHTS

Seek Repeal of Federal Estate Tax.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Encroachment of the federal government upon the states and the growth of "little bureaucrats in Washington who annoy business" were denounced yesterday by the National Council of State Legislatures, in session at the Palmer house. Taxation was the main theme. The delegates went on record against 50-50 state aid proposals, which they styled "dollar matching" between the national government and the states.

The setting aside of inheritance taxation as an exclusive state right was indorsed by the organization, which advocates repeal of the federal estate tax. The resolution also urged separation of tax sources, federal and state, which was explained to mean that so long as a federal income tax is collected, state income taxation is wrong. The session indorsed the idea of a constitutional amendment to give the District of Columbia representation in congress and the right to vote on President.

Shanahan Stresses Waterway.

David E. Shanahan, speaker of the Illinois house, set forth to the conference that the great question in which the middle west is engrossed is the Illinois waterway.

"The vital question in this region," said Mr. Shanahan, "is that congress make the necessary appropriation of 5 or 7 million dollars to complete the Illinois waterway. Here is a situation without parallel in the history of America's internal improvements. Chicago has spent about 100 million dollars of its own money on a waterway from Lake Michigan to Joliet. Illinois is spending $20,000,000 of its own money for the waterway between Joliet and Utica. It will require 5 to 7 million dollars more to finish the job and the state can't get the money except by constitutional amendment, which is slow and uncertain. Congress is being asked to provide funds for completion of the project, on which Chicago and Illinois have spent more than $120,000,000 without asking for a nickel of aid. It's the most important business before congress to this region."

40 States Represented.

About 50 delegates representing 40 states attended the conference. John H. Kirby, millionaire lumberman of Houston, Tex., presided and was reelected as head of the council.

The keynote was sounded by Gov. Theodore Christianson of Minnesota. In an address on "Preserving the Federal Balance" he sketched the manner in which federal centralization has grown and the encroachment of national government upon the states.

The wet and dry question was not touched on, taxation being the main subject. Gov. Christianson is an avowed dry and says he believes "prohibition is a success," and that "the states should assist in enforcement," but it was pointed out by some of the delegates that some of the arguments he advanced in the field of taxes appear to have an equal bearing on the subject of prohibition enforcement.

State Versus Nation.

"What should determine the line of demarcation between the states and the federal government?" asked Gov. Christianson.

"I believe that it is sound political doctrine that every question which concerns only an individual should be decided by that individual. I believe it is equally sound doctrine that every question which concerns one state only, should be decided by the people of that state, without suggestion or interference from the federal government or from any other state.

"I do not believe that any state is justified in surrendering to the federal government, nor that the federal government is justified in taking over from any state, any function, unless (1) the exercise of that function is essential to the national welfare, and (2) the function is such that it cannot be exercised with reasonable efficiency by the state.

Approves Business Control.

"Most of the acts and measures by which federal authority was extended in the past have met these tests. Some of the proposals and practices of the last decade do not meet them. Let it be understood that I approve of the laws giving the federal government power to deal effectively with so-called big business. National business needs national control.

"But I emphatically disapprove of the numerous and petty regulations with which little bureaucrats in Washington annoy and harass business, big and little.

"I also disapprove of the practice of offering federal subsidies as a spur to state action. It is an attempt to coerce the states into doing something which the states would not do on their own volition.

"Unless checked it will lead to the establishment of a great bureaucracy which, acting through federal agents, inspectors and regulators, will shape the policy of the states in their local concerns, not according to the needs of each state, but according to the rigid and unchangeable theory of some zonal bore political appointee a thousand miles away.

Against 50-50 Practice.

"I also disapprove of the 50-50 practice because of the burden it places on the taxpayers. In ten years federal subsidies have increased from less than $6,500,000 a year to more than $110,000,000. For every dollar so paid out another dollar must be raised by the states.

"If the vogue of matching money continues, we shall soon see the taxing power of the states mortgaged in advance to support projects determined and controled at Washington. It is too much to expect the abandonment of dollar matching projects already undertaken, and I am not advocating it, but let every man who believes that the states should continue to be self-governing and self-respecting pray God and petition his congressman to prevent the enactment of any more laws that give the federal government a lien on the state's sovereignty.

"Surely in this country we do not want any of the cumbersome machinery so necessary in a too highly centralized government. It would ill serve or suit an efficient industrial life. We have enough red tape, delay and waste now. We would have infinitely more of these and perhaps corruption to boot, if most of the operations of government were removed from under the scrutiny of the people to a remote national capital."

Boulder Dam Under Fire.

The Boulder dam bill was censured by R. T. Mahon of Phoenix, Ariz., who referred to it as "a ruthless, cynical and iniquitous measure, which proposes a serious invasion of state's sovereignty."

"I have never read a more unmoral, sinister or outrageous measure," he said. "The Swing-Johnson boulder canyon dam bill reads like a peace treaty which a military autocrat would impose upon a conquered and vassal people. It proposes to harass, intimidate, browbeat and starve Arizona into a surrender of her rights as a sovereign state and compel her to accept the terms of a compact which would despoil the state of its heritage. And the bill in addition to outraging every principle of the rights of states is economically unsound."

Gov. L. L. Emmerson told the council that only through revision of an antiquated tax system can Chicago and Illinois expect relief.

"The tax machinery," he said, "organized a century and more ago for visible property assessment is not suited for present conditions, and much of our tax problems are due to this antiquated system."

In its resolutions, the council before adjourning pledged itself to preserve the checks and balances provided by the federal constitution and "to protest against the usurpation by congress of powers not specifically granted to it."

HELD ON EXTORTION CHARGES.

Edward Sonnebern, 6232 South Whipple street, was held to the grand jury yesterday on charges of extortion by threats. He was arrested following an attempt to obtain $1,000 through threatening letters addressed to John E. Richetts, 741 Irving Park boulevard, part owner of a restaurant at 2727 North Clark street.

MABEL CALLED AS WITNESS BY HOUSE DRY QUIZ

Wets on Committee by 8 to 7 Force Issue.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Controversy continued today to surround the prohibition legislative program of the Wickersham commission as hearings went forward before two house commmittees.

Representative John C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.], an active wet, again stirred up trouble for the drys during a hearing before the house committee on expenditures in the executive departments which has under consideration the bill to transfer the prohibition bureau from the treasury department to the department of justice.

The committee by a vote of 8 to 7, adopted a motion by Representative Schafer to summon Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general, as a witness. Before the motion was put Representative William Williamson [Rep., S. D.], the chairman, had held it to be out of order. Representative Schafer accused Mr. Williamson of "gag rule," and "steam roller methods."

Refuse to Broaden Inquiry.

The drys defeated, 10 to 3, a motion by Representative John J. Cochran [Dem., Mo.] to broaden the hearings to include testimony bearing on the question of whether the treasury and justice departments have failed to enforce the law.

Dissatisfaction with the pending bill on the part of industrial alcohol users was indicated before the committee by Samuel C. Henry of the National Retail Druggists' association. Mr. Henry objected to the veto power to be exercised by the department of justice over the granting of permits and the framing of regulations by the proposed industrial alcohol division of the treasury department. Mr. Henry said that serious delays in connection with action upon industrial alcohol permits would be likely under the procedure for joint action of the treasury and justice departments.

Assistant Attorney General G. A. Youngquist in charge of present prohibition enforcement activities of the department of justice and the successor to Mrs. Willebrandt, also was a witness. Mr. Youngquist, who had a hand in drafting the bill, explained its features.

Opposition to the Wickersham commission bill to increase powers of commissioners of federal courts in connection with the disposition of petty prohibition cases was expressed at a hearing before a subcommittee of the house judiciary committee.

James C. Duke, a Washington attorney, said the proposed legislation was unnecessary, dangerous, and unconstitutional. He insisted that similar legislation infringing upon the rights of trial by jury had been held to be unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States. Mr. Duke contended that there is not as much congestion in the federal courts as claimed and that if there is the way to deal with the situation is through the appointment of additional judges.

Bishop Cannon Issues Blast.

Bishop James Cannon Jr., chairman of the board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, about to leave for Africa, issued a statement demanding that congress promptly provide whatever "legislation, money, and men" are necessary to suppress "this twentieth century whisky rebellion."

The bishop denounced Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, Cardinal O'Connell, Dr. John A. Ryan, and others for their criticism of the Wickersham commission's report and of prohibition. He sailed late tonight from New York.

CUSTOMS MEN FIRED WHEN FRENCH LINER HIRES OWN DRY SPIES

New York, Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Three United States customs guards were dismissed upon orders of the treasury department today for dereliction of duty.

The three—two of them veterans of the service—were accused by detectives employed by the French line of permitting a number of men carrying bags on their shoulders to leave the pier at which the French liner De Grasse was docked last Sept. 24. The detectives had been placed on the pier by the steamship company in an effort to coöperate with the authorities in preventing liquor smuggling.

It is understood that the action of the French line in placing private detectives on its piers to aid the prohibition authorities was brought about by the continued raids upon vessels of the line by searchers for liquor.

Prospective Jurors Rebel Against Rum Case Service

New York, Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Something of a citizens' rebellion against the national prohibition laws developed in the United States District court here today when two prospective jurors, one of them a social registerite and the other a day laborer, declared they would under no circumstance convict a fellow citizen accused of violating any liquor law. The registerite, John Harriman relative of the late E. H. Harriman, told the court he would vote for a verdict of acquittal in any liquor case "no matter how strong the evidence."

PREDICT G. O. P. FIGHT IN STATE TREASURER RACE

Sight Scrap Ahead for Buck if He Runs.

BY PARKE BROWN.

New signs on the political horizon yesterday led to forecasts that there will be a scrap over the Republican nomination for state treasurer despite earlier indications that Clarence F. Buck might have a walkaway if he decides to go out for the office.

Buck, former personal representative of former Gov. Lowden in the pre-convention presidential campaign of 1928, is now director of agriculture in Gov. Emmerson's cabinet. It has been understood that he would announce himself some time before Feb. 1 and this is considered partly responsible for the withdrawal from the treasurership race of State Senator Harry G. Wright.

Two Other Possible Entrants.

There are, however, at least two other potential entrants in the offing. Charles A. Gregory of Lovington, Moultrie county, former state representative and federal prohibition director for Illinois in 1921-'22, has been looking over the ground for some time and it is rumored has had assurances of support from the Carlstrom camp and other sources.

But the latest possibility is George E. Keys, vice president of the Ridgely-Farmers State bank of Springfield, in which Gov. Emmerson is an important stockholder and of which he is a director. Keys has been a member of the Republican state central committee for four terms and is one of the leaders in the Republican organization of Sangamon county.

Efforts to obtain a statement from Keys about the likelihood of his running were unsuccessful.

A caucus of some of the big insiders of the Democratic county organization on Thursday night is said to have resulted in the definite slating of County Judge Jarecki for renomination. Disaffection due to his ignoring the organization in many matters was said to have been overcome by arguments that an effort to shelve him would meet with popular disapproval that might injure the entire ticket.

The same caucus produced tentative slating of a number of other candidates. Among them are County Commissioner Emmet Whealan for the board of review, Ald. Joseph B. McDonough for county treasurer, State Senator Edward J. Hughes for bailiff of the Municipal court, and Ald. William D. Meyering, Ald. Sheldon Govier, Michael Zimmer and Peter Angsten for the sanitary district board.

LAUGH WHEN DORAN SAYS CONGRESS IS ECHO OF PUBLIC WILL

New York, Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, and three other prominent dry leaders, speaking at town hall under the auspices of the Civic Forum, replied tonight to arguments put forth a week previously under the same auspices by leading anti-prohibitionists. The wets present fired numerous questions at the speakers. Some of these were answered, others were merely laughed at.

The wets indulged in the loudest laugh of the evening when Commissioner Doran, asked if he believed a majority of the people in the United States really favored prohibition, answered:

"A substantial majority favor it because every vote taken in congress has shown a substantial majority in favor of the eighteenth amendment."

According to the prohibition commissioner, the question of personal liberty does not enter into the subject at all. "Personal liberty ceased to exist when two people began to live together in the same house," he declared.

Science Is Racing Jack Frost to Save Lives of Aviators

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 24.—(AP)—A race between science and death, with science assuming the "heresies" of haste and friendship, is on at Cornell university.

The goal is discovery of something to keep ice off airplane wings, and the work is being financed by the Daniel Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics and sponsored by Cornell. The unusual human element which has been injected is that the scientist heading the work is a personal friend of many of the air mail pilots flying this winter through the ice zones, and he has adopted unusual short cuts hoping to "get" the ice before it "gets" the air mail boys.

Achieves Early Ambition.

This scientist is Dr. W. C. Geer, former vice president of the W. F. Goodrich Rubber company. When his business success was made he retired to devote all his time to an ambition of early life—scientific research.

In the rubber business Dr. Geer came into contact with flyers, and he knows their last resort against ice. It is a plain old fashioned stick to beat off the ice after making an emergency landing—if the landing succeeds.

New Weather Tunnel in Use.

The rubber business also brought him acquaintance with firms making strange new dopes and washes that can be smeared like paint. A word to these old business friends has brought him all their queer liquids.

Singly or in combination he paints these substances on miniature wing tips, each about eight inches long, and puts them in a newly devised weather making wind tunnel. That produces at will all the ice conditions of the open air. He tests these coated tips one after another in an endless search.

Flyers Drop Supplies in Answer to Signals.

Vincennes, Ind., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Signals of distress on the snow brought relief from the air for flood marooned farm families near Decker this afternoon. Making use of Red Cross aid signal charts which had been dropped from planes, the farmers placed black strips of clothing on the contrasting white snow to indicate they needed food. Aviators immediately released parcels of food in small parachutes. The flood victims ran over the ice and snow to them, and then waved their gratitude.

Flyers now have made contact with all but 26 of the 56 marooned families near Griffin on the Wabash. It has been feared that many of these persons had perished, either in the first rush of flood waters, or later as the result of hardships.

Ill Family Gets Relief.

A volunteer relief expedition out of Carmel, Ill., today took supplies of medicine and food to a family near there. All members of this family are ill either with smallpox or influenza.

There are at least twenty persons entirely out of food on Cutoff island, George Jacobs and Louis and Homer Fischer reported at New Harmony today upon their return from a week's vain attempt to rescue John Fischer, father of the brothers, from the island.

More Ice Gorges Form.

Ice gorges forming in new places along the White and Wabash rivers added a new menace to the residents of the flooded districts. A big gorge was reported on the west fork of the White near Jacobs and another at Petersburg. It was 6 degrees below zero at Petersburg today. Considerable livestock in the lowlands of that region has perished.

Hundred Persons Rescued.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Pushing through the ice locked overflow with the aid of pickax and pole, rescue boats tonight had brought to safety upward of 100 persons from the flooded Big lake area in northeastern Arkansas, while airplanes began a mission of mercy from the air.

Boats operating under the direction of Walter Over, field representative of the Red Cross, and J. G. Little, chairman of the Mississippi county relief committee, brought more than fifty persons, many of them women and children, to the Roseland Ditch field base this afternoon.

RELIEF FUNDS RECEIVED.

Contributions to aid in the relief of families who are homeless, ill, or marooned by the floods in Indiana and Illinois are coming in to the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross. All gifts will be acceptable at the chapter headquarters, 616 South Michigan avenue.

Gov. Emmerson urged Illinois citizens to aid the stricken areas.

CHINESE DODGES DEPORTATION 13 YEARS; CAUGHT

Moy Sing Gwok, a Chinese, has been dodging deportation to his native land for thirteen years. Until Assistant United States Attorney Eugene Tappy dug intosome old files recently the case had been forgotten. Yesterday, however, Moy Sing Gwok was in a cell at the county jail, waiting for the next detachment of deportees to leave for China.

Gwok was arrested in January, 1917, and, under the old Chinese exclusion laws, was ordered deported by Lewis A. Mason, then United States commissioner. Gwok's attorney appealed to the United States District court, where, after three years, the deportation orders were confirmed. A stay of execution was granted to allow an appeal to the Appellate court. Gwok was freed under $2,000 bond.

The case was then forgotten, as far as the records show, until January, 1927, when a revised assignment of errors was filed in the United States Court of Appeals. This, too, was forgotten until Tappy discovered the records recently and obtained a final confirmation of the deportation order by default. Moy Sing Gwok was found, after considerable search, in New Jersey, and brought back to the county jail.

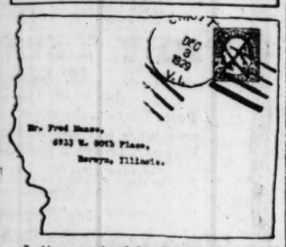
From Virgin Islands



Letter received by Fred Maass, 6933 West 30th place, Berwyn, Ill.

Cruz Bay is a small town on St. John, one of the Virgin islands, purchased from Denmark in 1917, shortly before the entry of the United States into the world war. These new possessions of ours cost our government $25,000,000 and form a strategic outpost in the defenses of the Panama canal, lying at the cross roads of the West Indies and within eight or less flying hours from the isthmus. With the naval station at Guantanamo on the southeast coast of Cuba as the western guardian of the Caribbean sea, the Virgin group is the American outpost in the eastern wing. No great progress has been made by the United States in fortifying this outpost. Naval radio stations are maintained on each of the three islands, St. Croix, St. Thomas, and St. John. Capt. Waldo Evans, U. S. N. retired, is the present governor.

MAN WHOM DRYS SHOT HAD BEER, COMPANION SAYS

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 24.—(AP)—A statement that Walter Grund, 27, of Wyandotte was attempting to land a cargo of beer at a wharf in the down river suburb when shot by a customs border patrol inspector Wednesday night, was said today to have been obtained by federal agents from the man who was accompanying Grund in a rowboat on the Detroit river.

The man, Roy Fountain of Detroit, was arrested by a special investigator for the border patrol when he appeared at the Wyandotte General hospital last night and offered himself for a blood transfusion in an effort to save Grund's life.

Fountain was allowed to give the blood and after the operation made his statement to federal authorities. He subsequently was released.

Fountain said he and Grund had taekn a cargo of 30 cases of beer at La Salle, Ontario, halfway across the river. After the shooting, he said, he rowed to a dock, tied up the boat, and went for help. When he returned Grund was gone.

Grund regained consciousness long enough last night to make a statement in which he denied knowing Fountain.

L. V. L. LASHES STATE SENATE IN ANNUAL REPORT

Responsibility for the defeat of most of the important good bills lost in the last general assembly was placed at the doors of the state senate yesterday by the Legislative Voters' League of Illinois.

In the first part or introduction of its annual report on the outgoing senators and representatives, which was the only section made public, the organization did not stress its criticism of the upper chamber for killing measures considered desirable, but an examination of the detailed text discussing the fate of big legislation showed that the senate took the brunt of the criticism.

The same unfavorable attitude also showed early in the report where there was praise of the efficient methods of the house of representatives "in pleasing contrast with the loose methods that characterized the senate and the leadership which caused that body to disregard public sentiment in important matters."

Defeated Bills Listed.

The summary of the disposition of important bills included the following that were lost in the senate:

"Crowe act repeal—Would have repealed special state's attorney act of 1927 which restricts power of courts to appoint special prosecutor; failed to pass, 19 to 39; passed in the house.

"City manager bill—Legalized council-manager form of government for cities; failed to pass, 12 to 32; not voted on in house.

"Repeal prohibition act — Would have repealed state prohibition act and state search and seizure act; failed to pass, 21 to 28; passed in the house.

"Keeler amendments to Chicago school tax rate bill—Tabled, 25 to 24; not voted on in house.

"Rule making power bill—To give Illinois Supreme court power to prescribe rules of pleading, practice, and procedure; failed to pass, 13 to 29; not voted on in house.

Remapping Bill Lost.

"Reapportionment bill—Provided for redistricting, Cook county to have 24 and downstate 27 districts; failed to pass, 24 to 25; not voted on in house.

"Small immunity bill repeal—Would have repealed 1927 amendment exempting governor from ouster by quo warranto proceedings; passed in the house, 113 to 6; killed in senate committee on judiciary."

MILLIONAIRE'S WIFE APPOINTED RECEIVER FOR HIS N. Y. PROPERTY

New York, Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. Lillian L. Luckenbach, who is suing Lewis Luckenbach, millionaire vice president of the Luckenbach Steamship company, for divorce, was appointed today by Justice Peter A. Hatting of the Supreme court receiver for all of her husband's property and also was made guardian of their nine year old son, Lewis Luckenbach Jr. Mrs. Luckenbach names as her rival Miss Della Louise Stone.

When the motion was called, I. Gainsburg, attorney for Mrs. Luckenbach, declared that Luckenbach is concealing himself so that process cannot be personally served upon him, but that service by publication had been effected by leaving a copy of the papers at his office and by mailing a copy to him at his last known address, Islamirado, Fla.

Permission to appear specially for Mr. Luckenbach was asked by the law firm of Carter & Williams, but was denied.

The order asked for authorizes Mrs. Luckenbach to take possession of her husband's property, "both real and personal, and whether tangible or intangible, which is within this state, and to hold the same until the further order of judgment of this court."

MEXICO'S RECALL OF envoy STIRS SOVIET RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Jan. 24. — (AP) — Russian diplomatic circles today expressed surprise at the announcement that the Mexican government had recalled its entire legation staff in Moscow because of recent communist demonstrations in front of Mexican legations in Washington, Buenos Aires, and Rio Janeiro.

The soviet foreign office and the Mexican legation said that they had no official notification of Mexico's action this afternoon.

Soviet officials argued that even if communist demonstrations had occurred in Washington and elsewhere it was not fair to link the Russian government with them. They affirmed that such manifestations certainly did not constitute sufficient grounds for a break in diplomatic relations.

Moscow Envoy Awaits Orders.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 24.—(AP)—A. M. Makar, ambassador of the soviet union to Mexico, this afternoon said he had not yet been advised by Moscow of what steps to take in connection with the withdrawal of the entire staff of the Mexican legation at Moscow.

The statement by Foreign Minister Genara Estrada last night explaining the reasons for the action by Mexico has been transmitted to Moscow, but it was learned from an authoritative source that Minister Makar has not yet received any official communication from the department of foreign relations.

Says Plot Was Frustrated.

El Universal Grafico today said that the Mexico City police had frustrated a plot to kill several high officials of the Mexican government.

The paper said Police Chief Valente Quintana personally conducted the investigation of the plot and carried out raids in Mexico City and two neighboring towns. The conspiracy was discovered through denunciation by parties connected with the plot.

Tide of Books Nearly Drowns English Critics

While Authors Clamor for More Publishers.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—Hugh Walpole and Gerald Gould [who reviews novels for "The Observer"] have been debating together by radio as to the number of books published. They agreed that too many books were published — Mr. Gould because he could not read them all, and Mr Walpole for another reason.

J. A. SPENDER.

I did not myself hear the debate, but I have had two reports from ear witnesses, who differed as to its quality. In general, I should say, the reaction was good. And it is quite true that there are too many books. Mr. Gould keeps his freshness and his high spirits wonderfully, considering the number he reads; while Mr. Walpole, who is having to defend the book society against a number of powerful attacks from authors who disapprove the whole conception of book societies, manages in quite extraordinary style to keep abreast of new publications, both English and American.

London has been entertaining Frau Anna Seghers, author of "The Revolt of the Fishermen." She made a speech, translated something from the Chinese, and, when asked what she thought of the English women novelists who had assembled to do her honor, replied that she found them too "ladylike." But Frau Seghers is a communist, so that one can hardly wonder at her impatience with the bourgeoisie.

Mr. St. John Ervine, whose play "The First Mrs. Fraser" has already passed its two hundredth performance, and is the biggest success ever known at the Haymarket theater in London, is for a time to write no more dramatic criticism. He would have given up the habit altogether, but his editor, Mr. Garvin [who is also the editor of the new Encyclopædia Britannica], would not hear of it. A compromise has been arranged whereby Mr. Ervine is to continue writing a weekly article upon theatrical matters; but in fact he will spend the winter in his lovely new house at Seaton, in Devonshire, writing the Life of Gen. Booth, long promised, and delayed by the pressure of other work.

The Life of Lord Oxford, upon which J. A. Spender is engaged, should be ready for publication later in the year. Nobody could have been found who would write this biography with more authority than Mr. Spender, who was long the friend of Lord Oxford [while he was Mr. Asquith], and who is still the close friend of Lord Grey and other prominent men of the party which Lord Oxford led. Mr. Spender still speaks with enthusiasm of the elaborate tour of the United States which he recently made; and I think there is no Englishman who has more sympathetically understood the problems of American life. Certainly there is no living journalist of greater dignity and sincerity than Mr. Spender.

Critic Praises Chicago Novel by Chicagoan

It's "The Crystal Icicle" by Katherine Keith.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Crystal Icicle," by Katherine Keith [Harcourt Brace].

"The Crystal Icicle" is Katherine Keith's second novel. Her first was called—simply—"The Girl." It was published ten or twelve years ago and received unlimited praise for a certain reality, freshness and honesty inherent both in its subject matter and its style.

What she would do with her next book was a conjecture which intrigued not alone the minds of her friends but of those eager critics who look upon a new and interesting pen with the thrill that an entomologist must get at the discovery of a new bug. (And let me say right here that if one were not by nature one of those eager critics, the job of reviewing books would be one of the more intensive of the seven circles of Mr. Dante's inferno, instead of being more fun than any other work one could imagine. Always—it never fails—around the corner, in the next pile of books received—or the next or the next after that—there will be a find, and that's what keeps us plowing through the too often very infertile fields of millions of words.)

"The Crystal Icicle" shows technically and stylistically the result of those years of unhurried work. However, long in actual time it took to write it, obviously it is the flower of those years of thought. It is a seasoned, skillful use of a very, and extremely difficult subject. Its actual writing has charm, humor, grace and that rare quality, "style." The author could not have chosen a more difficult theme than the struggle in a man's mind between his love for his wife, who temperamentally was frigid and his passion for another woman who was frankly highly sexed. To make his actions plausible, understandable and pardonable was what the ladies of our grandmothers' generation called a very delicate matter. At the same time to make the reactions and actions of the wife plausible, understandable, pardonable; to make the impulse and the love of the other woman at the same time condonable and understandable and something to stir pity; that I submit, is a real job. The author does all that with a touch that is neither too light nor too heavy.

There are a couple of places in the book which, if she had not so deftly prepared for them would give the reader a jolt, but they seem inevitable with her preparation.

Beyond all of the technical proficiency of "The Crystal Icicle" and its attractive style, what is most interesting to the general reader—it has the quality of making one eager to know what is on the next page.

It is a story of Chicago and a suburb and the hero's office sounds very much like an office in any loop building. The characters are however, strictly fictional. Katherine Keith is Mrs. David Adler.

A Boston Gentleman Dissents from U. S. Supreme Court Rulings

"The Dissenting Opinions of Mr. Justice Holmes," arranged by Alfred Lief [Vanguard], is a permanent record of some of the outstanding contributions to American thought of the decade.

One hears men of unquestioned authority proclaim him as the most constructive legal voice in America. Not long ago Dr. Tufts of the University of Chicago, in a review of the work of John Dewey, made the statement that Holmes and Dewey had alike contributed constructively to their separate fields of thought beyond any other Americans of their day.

Mr. Justice Holmes [Oliver Wendell Holmes] is a witty as well as a profound speaker and thinker and writer. He is a son of the late Oliver Wendell Holmes, author of the "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table."

T. P. O'Connor's Memoirs Tell of Erin's Battle

With Special Reference to Parnell's Story.

BY MARCUS A. KAVANAGH.
[Author of "The Criminal and His Allies," etc., judge of the Superior court of Cook county.]

"Memoirs of an Old Parliamentarian," by the Rt. Hon. T. P. O'Connor. [Appleton.]

When Napoleon the Great felt death at hand he summoned his last strength for a letter of advice to his son. "Read history," he wrote. "Read history" he wrote again, and with the ebb of his energies he wrote the third time, "Read history." It was Carlyle who said: "The history of a nation is only a biography of its great men." To read history in mere narrative is all the most of us, with our limited opportunities, can do; to learn the annals of a period from the biographies of its principal political actors is a better way; to read the autobiographies of these actors is the best way of all. In T. P. O'Connor's book, "Memoirs of an Old Parliamentarian," the author insists that the work is not autobiographical, but in spite of his continuing effort at self-effacement, happily the pages are essentially so.

Thomas O'Connor went to London in 1871; his only capital a great ability, a lead pencil, a quick eye, a quicker ear, and courage—loads and loads of enthusiastic courage. He came in an hour of turmoil. Charles Stewart Parnell, the "uncrowned king of Ireland," had just organized his people for a deadly struggle with the British government. In 1880 the author of our book entered the house of commons to take part in the great Irish battle for home rule. The many phases of that remarkable conflict are graphically set forth.

Through these two volumes Parnell stalks magnified like a giant in a mist. No wonder. As a political strategist history seldom has offered an equal.

The author devotes much space to the downfall of Parnell. It rises as the event deepest mourned in O'Connor's life, for the author, intimate with all the famous statesmen of his Great Britain, most admired and loved Parnell. That great leader, considered by the world at large as a man of ice, was really in his heart a human volcano. His first great passion was Ireland. Parnell would willingly have died to help her. Notwithstanding this, he sacrificed all his power of championship for a forbidden emotion. He went to hell for the wife of another man.

Those in position to know best, in spite of O'Connor's championship, say she was not worth it. Parnell might have put her aside. Many another would have done so. But he took his place at her side to face with her the shame and danger. He married her. The Irish people might forgive almost any other offense, but not that. Within a week from the marriage he was flung out of his chieftainship to become a social and political outcast, his name a derision, his fortune exhausted. The great man, once adored by his people, died in loneliness, obscurity, and almost in poverty. O'Connor stood his friend to the last. In these volumes he still praises Mrs. Parnell.

Writer About Indians Lectures in Gotham; He's Well Received

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Authors who can face jungle lions without turning a hair often discover the meaning of fear on the lecture platform. There is something about standing up defenseless before a roomful of one's admirers that daunts even the stoutest hearts.

Oliver La Farge—who, quite as accidentally as Columbus, has rediscovered the American Indians, and who shares his trophies with us in "The Laughing Boy"—confronted a packed to the doors audience in the Barbasson Lecture hall on Thursday without a tremor.

His talisman against stagefright, we discovered, lies in his modesty. We had come to see the writer who touches prose with the wings of poetry. He thought 'twas because we were as interested in his blessed Indians as he is. A slender, bespectacled youth, with a hint of the student in the set of his shoulders and a voice that is gently earnest, he had his way in the end. For he talks, as he writes, in words that conjure up both scene and people.

A biographer, according to Fleta Campbell Springer, has kinship with a detective. Her life of Mary Baker Eddy, now serialized in Outlook magazine and soon to appear in book form, was the result of her desire to peer behind legend and hearsay, and discover the true based on fact personality.

Gibson girls in burnt wood frames have vanished from our parlors—which, too, have vanished. In modern interior decorated "living rooms," the popular art book, according to the "best seller" thermometer, is "Peter Arno's Parade." Mr. Arno—good looking, well groomed, sleep grudging Manhattanite—was born with a sense of humor and a talent for drawing. His father was a lawyer, and Yale was in the tradition. By the time he got round to art school most of what they teach he'd discovered for himself. Also—bored with the art he'd been "brought up on"—he had discovered for himself Cezanne and Matisse. So after Yale and a month of art school he acquired a studio amid his native skyscrapers and set down life as he saw it.

"No," said magazine editors who had not realized that jokes and times had changed. "No," they said for some years, during which Arno painted colorful geometric screens for decorators more in tempo with the jazz era. Then came into being the New Yorker magazine which gave Arno his first avenue to the public.

Arno does most of his work in the morning, early morning, two, three, four a. m.

Recent Leaders of Asia Gathered Into One Book

"Eminent Asians" by Joseph Washington Hall [Appleton] is the first panorama that most of us have had of Asiatic affairs as exemplified by the men who direct them. Mr. Hall, who for years has been writing about the east under the pseudonym of "Upton Close," gives in this volume interpretive biographies of Sun Yat Sen, the father of the Chinese republic; Josef Stalin, Russia's "iron man" who holds the whip hand over the soviets; Mahatma Gandhi, whose doctrine of nonviolent resistance is more disturbing to the British authorities in India than the open revolts of an earlier period; Yamagata, the Japanese Bismarck, and Ito, his contemporary and unceasing liberal opponent [also the favorite "Japanese general" of the cross word puzzles], and Mustapha Kemel, the man who is westernizing Turkey.

New Family Record Book Looks Well, Convenient

William B. Walrath of Chicago has designed a new family biographical register. In these days when family statistics are demanded of one at every turn—for passports and getting into hospitals, for instance, when the family Bible has disappeared as a source of information—Mr. Walrath decided the family needed some sort of permanent record book. He devised a handsome one which includes every possible statistic one could ever need (if one fills in all the blanks.)

"I Won't Leave This Book No Matter Who It Is!"

"Rather read?"

We knew it would be Harry. He always calls up about 9:30. "Don't we want to join him on a party?" "Can he bring a few friends in?" "We can just catch the last show at the Majestic" . . . All very good suggestions when one feels convivial. And Harry is a fine fellow. Gay, good-looking, generous—loads of fun. But when the new Guild book has just arrived, both of us would rather read.

Before we were members we dreaded an evening at home alone—actually dreaded it . . . What is there to do? Two-handed card games are pretty dull, even with the radio going. Talk—quickly exhausted. But Joe had foresight enough to subscribe to the Literary Guild, and now we'd rather be alone.

Poor Harry. He couldn't understand us. "Have you two turned into hermits? What are these books you keep your noses in?" . . . He didn't know what he was missing. We had a good laugh at his expense a few months ago. One evening he started telling us about some startling, inside history just after the Civil War. Both Joe and I recognized his source of information at once. He had bought The Tragic Era, paying full price for it, of course. We let him run on for a few minutes, then Joe said: "Yes, Harry. We read it, too. We read it when it was new. It was a Guild book, you know."

But, to get back to the telephone—when it rang I looked at Joe and he looked at me. "It must be for you," he said. I went back to my book: "No, indeed. I'm sure it's for you." Finally he answered it. Just as we suspected, it was Harry.

"Oh—ho!" I heard him say, clear in the front room. "Playing hermits again. I knew it . . . Well, listen. I'm on page one hundred three; where are you?"

"What do you mean?" Joe asked.

"I mean I've joined the Guild. And I just got Coronet, and I'm on page one hundred three, and I'm going to read until dawn . . . Don't ask me to come over. I can't. I'm reading."

Of course we laughed—for hours. We still laugh every time we think of it. But Harry is grateful to us for getting him started in the Guild—and you will be, too, after you receive one or two of the books and compare them with ordinary volumes.

WHAT THE RADIO BRINGS FROM LONDON.

Mr. Henning, in a London dispatch to THE TRIBUNE, referred to the impressive manner in which the British got the jump in the management of an unusual feature of international conference, the use of the radio in affecting public opinion. As hosts to the visiting delegates they had a graceful opportunity and, being publicity wise, they made just the use of it which the various occasions would invite. The novelty of it, and consequently the effectiveness of it, is greatest in the United States. Here it not only comes across the sea but in the language of the people and with the atmosphere of the old historical traditions of many of them.

The generation is virtually miracle proof and wouldn't be much astonished if Moses spoke from Sinai, but George V., opening the conference, got Americans out of bed at four and five o'clock all over the middle west. The curious on the Atlantic coast had a better break by an hour.

Thursday afternoon a half hour or so of the Guildhall dinner given the delegates by the lord mayor and corporation of London was put on the air and radio America attended a ceremonious banquet with the lord mayor as toastmaster and with Tardieu and MacDonald responding. These and other well selected excerpts from the ceremonies and formalities, presenting the participants in their living persons with their voices sounding clearly, distinctly, and in full character in the American homes, unquestionably are presenting this international event in a manner in which no other ever reached the country.

There is no direct appeal to the opinion, but there is a sentimental pressure upon the imagination and sympathy. The high altruistic tone of occasions when the delegates are not playing their cards closely or trying to get an ace of trumps out of their sleeves comes across the sea without a note of reality in it. When radio America feels that it is closest to the workings of this particular noble experiment it is in fact furthest from it. It hears the idealism of the banquet and its ears receive the tones of sincerity in the voices of statesmen who thus seem to want nothing for themselves that they do not want for the rest of the world. The radio is giving the grandiloquence of the thing in rich settings. It is not dealing with the shirt sleeve sessions when the more practical delegations want nothing for themselves that they do not want from the rest of the world.

International publicity has a new influence which has to be taken into account and it is not astonishing that the skillful British strategists have made the most of it. The radio is being employed to open to the American public a moral show of altruists who in fact are engaged in the biggest butter and egg operation the world will see this year.

WINTER IN THE BARRENS.

Bob Becker's exciting stories of winter in Ogemaw county in the heart of the barrens of northeastern Michigan were tempting to men who find recreation in hardy life. To those who are exhilarated by the comradeship of deserted country, by the physical exertion of existence there and the physical warmth which follows, by multiplicity in the monotony of waste land, by an abundance of wild life, the Michigan barrens are unsurpassed.

Much of the barrens has been appropriated by the state for game refuge. The soil is unproductive for farmers. The growth of scrub oaks, jack pines, cedar, and alder is too young for the ax. White tailed deer, red fox, weasel, and snowshoe hare flourish. It is assigned to the outdoorsmen.

We hope that Bob Becker has discovered the north country as a winter resort. Outing clubs should capitalize the discovery and advertise the joy of a northern winter for full blooded men and women. Athletic persons get the greatest relief from the cold by going out to enjoy more of it. Save California and Florida for your less vital years. The north holds greater magic for young men and women.

THE ROLE OF THE ORDNANCE DEPARTMENT.

A reading of the annual report of Gen. C. C. Williams, chief of ordnance, discloses considerable progress in the year toward the improvement of the army's equipment. The movement toward mechanization appears to be in full swing. Tanks, tractors and cross-country cars are being studied and models are being tested. Automatic rifles to replace the Springfield and Enfield as the infantryman's weapon are about to be adopted.

The American army cannot be too thoroughly mechanized, for Americans, more than any other people, are accustomed to the control and care of machines. Our infantry in the past has been distinguished for its ability to shoot straight, a product of our frontier life. Our civil war cavalry benefited from the fact that it was recruited largely from among boys accustomed to the care and management of horses on the farm. Today we are in a position to capitalize our leadership in mechanics both for the production of war machines and for their use in the field.

The danger is that the ordnance department will regard it as its duty to design and manufacture equipment. The proper rôle for the department is rather to state to manufacturers what it wants and choose among models submitted. That is the procedure which seems to have been followed in much of the department's work and it is obviously the correct one. The ordnance officers, skilled though they may be in their specialties, cannot be expected to surpass in ingenuity or in knowledge of manufacturing methods the sum of the nation's engineering brains. The ordnance department should know what the fighting men want by way of equipment and should know, further, how to specify these wants and test equipment submitted. Beyond these points, the army had best leave the problems of design and manufacture to the men who know most about it and must, should an emergency arise, produce the approved models in quantity. Too much interference by the ordnance department in design and manufacture will almost certainly result in inadequate production when a crisis comes.

PLUGGING THE PROHIBITION LEAK WITH A SIEVE.

Mr. Wickersham, as chairman of the law enforcement commission, has stressed in a radio address the desirability of transferring prohibition enforcement from the treasury department to the department of justice; and the secretary of the treasury, Mr. Mellon, has testified before a congressional committee that he, too, approves the change. This transfer of authority looms large in the thinking of all those who are loosely called drys, whether they be moderates who think the law should be given a fair chance or extremists who believe it must be enforced though the heavens fall.

The commission argues that the preparation of a case against a liquor law violator by one department of government and prosecution by another results in delay, inefficiency in prosecution and escape of the guilty. Possibly so, but it is interesting to note that the proposed method of enforcement is unusual, if not unique. Other federal, state and local laws do not require any such integration of the detecting and prosecuting authority. Men who rob the mails are hunted down and arrested by postal inspectors. They are then indicted and prosecuted by the department of justice. Counterfeiters are pursued by the treasury department's secret service, but the prosecution is directed by the attorney general. Murderers are arrested by the local police and prosecuted by the state's attorney, who has no authority over the police. And so on. The separation of the prosecuting authority from the arresting authority is all but universal in this country; it was not until prohibition came along that any widespread demand for a revision of this system arose and the change is recommended now only for the enforcement of the prohibition law. Nothing could suggest more plainly that the prohibition law itself is unusual among laws. Its difference lies in the fact that, unlike most other laws, it has no sanction in the common conscience of the people of the United States.

Because the law lacks that sanction, the hope that the proposed administrative change or any other administrative change will achieve the desired result is a vain one. The eagerness of the secretary of the treasury to be rid of the enforcement task is itself most significant. The treasury department over the years ranks first among government departments for probity. It got off to a good start under Alexander Hamilton and in the intervening years the tradition of integrity and the sense of trusteeship has been developed in the department, but not even this department could avoid the contamination of prohibition. Enforcement officers, operating under the authority of the treasury department of the United States, have been shown time and again to be grossly deficient in character and integrity. Mr. Mellon has much reason to fear that the contamination will spread through his department, if, indeed, it has not done so already; and if he is eager to rid the department of the source of infection the reason is plain enough.

The Wickersham recommendation, in effect, presents to congress and the people a choice between evils. Shall the source of infection be divided between two departments or concentrated in one? It can be argued plausibly that, as the department of justice must prosecute and must therefore be exposed to the infection anyway, no great harm will be done by exposing it somewhat more thoroughly than heretofore. Certainly no objection will be raised to this program by numerous Republican senators. The district attorneys, who are the arms of the department of justice, owe their appointment to these senators under the rules of patronage. A good many senators, we suspect, would have no objection to seeing an even larger share of the control of prohibition enforcement in their states intrusted to them as a result of augmenting the powers of the district attorneys in prohibition matters. Whether this change would result in more effective enforcement is a question upon which opinions may be expected to differ. In Kansas it might have the desired result.

Editorial of the Day

[Decatur (Ill.) Herald.]

With the purchase of a couple of sections of Kansas wheat land Senator Henry J. Allen announces his intention of getting some first hand information on agriculture. He expects to vote on legislation affecting the farm, and he wants to be able to vote intelligently.

The Kansas senator's purpose is commendable, but it occurs to us that if farm ownership by members of congress would have settled the agricultural problem the farmers would have been prosperous long before this. The amount of land held by senators and representatives would make up an Illinois township. One trouble is that few of them are dependent for a living on farming. Another is that there is a wide range of difference between potato growing in Maine, cotton raising in Georgia, citrus culture in Florida and Texas, cattle feeding in Montana, corn growing in Illinois, and nut production in California.

Mr. Hoover was right when he said that farming was a general term, and that actually farming included a number of specialized businesses. Senator Allen, we suspect, will know a good deal more about wheat by reason of his land purchase, but it is doubtful if he will be able to throw much light upon the problem of the California vineyardists in disposing of a surplus of grapes.

SCARLET FEVER.

THE medical section of the league of nations has recently issued a world-wide study of scarlet fever. This shows that the disease prevails everywhere, so far as we can judge by reports. It certainly prevails in all those parts of the world where there are physicians trained well enough to know scarlet fever when they meet it. It is more prevalent and more deadly in colder climates than it is in warmer ones. It is becoming less important all the time, because it is becoming milder.

In preventing it from spreading, the best procedure is a well maintained isolation. It is spread by the secretions of the mouth and nose. It can be spread by objects as well as by people. Many epidemics have been proved to have been spread by the use of infected raw milk. Ice cream and various forms of ices seem especially prone to spread it. One epidemic was due to a batch of infected lobster salad. Foods lead all other objects in the spread of the disease.

It is spread by carriers and especially convalescent carriers. A convalescent carrier is a person who has had the disease within, say, two months. Chronic carriers who are free from nose and throat trouble are not prone to spread it. After the coccus has lived in the throat of a carrier for several months it loses its capacity to cause trouble.

The proper length of a quarantine period for scarlet fever is at least forty days. Health officers have tried to shorten this period since the disease has become so mild and since so many cases are well within three or four days after taking antitoxin, but no safe way has been found. Cases of scarlet fever should be cared for either in hospitals or in homes where there are no children. A child sick with scarlet fever in the one or the other has the best chance to get well and is least liable to infect others.

The vaccine to prevent the disease is still on trial. It has proved its value for use in hospitals, homes, asylums and schools. Antitoxin as a curative agent is well established.

SEE A MENTAL SPECIALIST.

B. L. writes: My mother is 42 years of age and is feeble minded. She imagines such ridiculous things and thinks them true. She thinks people are always watching her. I tell her not to worry and that I will ask a lawyer's advice about it. When I say this, she feels better.

Is there any cure for her?

REPLY.

Probably your mother is not feeble minded, but is paranoid, or has a pre-senile dementia. Can you have a mental specialist see her? She seems willing to accept suggestions and to lift out of her mental state rather easily but temporarily. A mental specialist could at least advise you how to act toward her to make her as happy as possible.

BROTHER OF "FEVER BLISTER."

Mrs. B. writes: Will you please explain cause, symptoms, duration of shingles. Is there any special danger? Is it contagious?

REPLY.

The scientific name for shingles is herpes. It is a brother to "fever blister." It is not contagious. It is rarely dangerous. As a rule, pain and discomfort sums up the case.

WORSE THAN DISEASE ITSELF.

E. W. H. and W. H. write: Here we are, two old cronies 70 years old, afflicted with heart trouble. We would like to read what you have to say about the phobia, that horrible phenomenon that accompanies heart disease, which hurts more than the disease itself, and how to combat it.

REPLY.

Send ten cents and stamped addressed envelope for copy of "How to Live with Heart Diseases."

However, I do not know just what you mean by phobia. That word, as applied to heart disease, means "a morbid fear of the disease." I wonder if you mean a fear of impending disaster? This is one symptom of angina pectoris, a form of heart disease.

There are three kinds of angina. One, caused by heart muscle disease, is benefited by rest and building up the heart muscle.

HELPING PARENT ENTER U. S.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—[Friend of the People.]—May an alien of British birth who entered this country legally in 1922 have his mother [who is entirely dependent on him] come over at once to live, or will she have to enter under the quota?

M. B.

If the writer is not a citizen of the United States his mother will have to come into the United States as a quota immigrant. The only thing he can do in the matter is to send her an affidavit of support showing that she will not become a public charge if she enters this country. Forms for this purpose can be obtained at any reliable steamship agency.

If this person is a citizen of the United States he can petition on form 633, which can be obtained at this office [1343 Transportation building] for the issuance of an immigration visa and have his mother come into the United States as a quota-preference immigrant.

IN DOUBT ABOUT INHERITANCE.

Dodgeville, Wis., Jan. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man died willing his estate to his widow during her lifetime and after her death to his children or their heirs. One son has no children. Will his wife be a lawful heir?

E. M.

On the facts that you state, it seems probable that she would share, but advice not based on the actual wording of the will is of little value.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CANADIAN CITIZEN.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—[Friend of the People.]—An American girl married a Canadian in 1913. Returned to the United States and divorced her husband in 1927. Is she a Canadian or an American citizen?

C. E. D.

An American girl who married a Canadian in 1913 lost her citizenship and if she has not taken steps to regain it after her divorce in 1927 she is still a Canadian citizen.

Have this woman take the matter up with the naturalization service, who will advise her what steps are necessary to regain her citizenship.

S. D. SMITH,

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

WHY BRING THAT UP?

Really, the news from the naval conference in London should be more carefully censored. Why must things be printed regarding the big meeting in London that give so many of us over here in these Unfted States of America a feeling of regret and sadness, to say nothing of a pain in the neck? Now, in telling of the banquet given in the Guildhall by the Lord Mayor of London to the delegates, why not merely say that the Lord Mayor wore ostrich feathers in his hat and had on his black bombazine dress, and the Sheriff of London wore his red flannel nightie, print the speeches, and let it go at that? The speeches were the hoole, but all banquet speeches are the hoole, but there are people who lap 'em up as a cat does cream. But why say the dinner was washed down with sherry, sauterne, champagne, and port? We can't have sherry, sauterne, champagne, and port over in this country, so why tantalize us?

We sent our American delegates over to fix up the peace of the world, and there they go sitting down to dinner at which sherry, sauterne, champagne, and port flow all over the place. Then they passed around a loving cup of spiced wine. Let 'em pass it if they will, but why tell us? We don't get any of it. It's just rubbing it in—that's what it is. But that recital of sherry, sauterne, champagne, and port is what hurt us worse. As we said it over and over it sounded like a poem, a great sad, beautiful poem, and it brought tears to the eyes.

Sherry, sauterne, champagne, and port;
But if we dared to drink it we'd land up in court.

No, we can't have it. But all the delegates to the peace conference can have it, and nobody says a word. But why must we be told about it? Let the conference go ahead and sink the battleships if they will. But don't sink 'em in sherry, sauterne, champagne, and port. It's too painful to us over here watching from the side lines.

STATUS QUO.

If woman were only lovely,
And love were only true,
There'd be some use of poesy—
And greatly less to do.

But woman is only woman,
And love is an empty shell—
And poets are only idle folk
With nothing much to tell.

JOSEPH HARD.

SPEAKER NICK LONGWORTH objects to the House of Representatives being called the "lower house." Well, Nick, it seems to some of us that it's not only the lower house but that it keeps getting lower and lower.

AND NOW we're told that we can live to be a hundred if we eat plenty of spinach at every meal. Oh gosh! Why, we can't even get our little Sealyham, Mister Atkins, to eat spinach. He gobbles everything else so fast that his dish is empty three seconds after he sticks his snoot in it, but spinach—well, he simply noses the spinach into a neat pile at one side of the dish and leaves it severely alone. But he's a perfect fiend for cod-liver oil and stands on his head with joy when he gets garlic. So there's two guys who won't live to be a hundred—Mister Atkins and us.

That it is not near as cold in Chicago as envious outside newspapers have reported is proven by a photograph taken by a Line stiff photographer of the first robin to be reported this year in Chicago. The robin was seen yesterday afternoon in the front yard of Miss Ima Lyre, whose sumptuous home stands on the corner of Bruce and Spruce, on the Gold Coast. At least, it is not more than three miles from the Gold Coast, so it will be seen at once that Miss Ima Lyre belongs to the smart set and is a leader of our most aristocratic circles. Miss Lyre looked from her window yesterday and saw the dear little first robin hopping blithely about on a rose bush in her front yard—the rose bush, by the way, being in full bloom. The dear little robin hopped about on the rose bush (in full bloom) all the afternoon, and at tea time Miss Ima fed him hot dog and vanilla ice cream, with a good plate of hot turtle soup as a chaser. Those who love to see the first robin so that they can be sure that spring is almost here should drop by the wonderful old Lyre homestead this afternoon and see Miss Ima feeding him. 'Tis indeed a rare sight on a January day in Chicago.

"ROB LAKE FOREST HOME OF LAWYER," front-paged THE TRIB, and Ona Sleep writes in to say that the people who owned the house must have been very careless or they would have taken better care of the lawyer and not left him lying around loose where the bandits could get him.

In order that American traditions may be preserved and that the time honored customs of our forefathers may endure, at the request of many of our patrons we have placed pie upon our breakfast menu.

Apple or custard 30 cents.

NEWS FROM LONDON says that Charley Dawes, one of our delegates to the navy conference over there, is suffering from sore feet. Well, that's too bad, but just so long as our American delegates don't let their feet get cold we won't worry.

LET'S PLAY it safe for this morning. We may be above the damn thing and we may be below. Here's hoping!

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

THE NEWS.—Gen. Terry's official report confirms the destruction by the rebels of Fort Caswell and the capture by our forces of more important works thereabouts, making a total of 162 cannon to be charged to the credit of our gallant army and navy. The rebel force at Charleston is reported to have concentrated near Branchville to resist Sherman's advance. It is also confirmed that one of Sherman's corps—probably Howard's—has reinforced Terry on his march against Wilmington. It is believed at Washington that the latter place was captured on the 23d by a combined attack of our army and navy.

WASHINGTON.—From the Shenandoah valley it is reported that the rebels have withdrawn their pickets to Edinburgh, indicating a retreat to Staunton or Lynchburg. A few days ago 35 of Mosby's guerrillas were captured by our cavalry near Upperville.

WASHINGTON.—A fire broke out in the central portion of the Smithsonian institution, completely gutting that section of the edifice. A large number of valuable manuscripts, chiefly on scientific subjects, with most of the records of the institution and costly apparatus, are lost. Stanley's gallery of Indian paintings, 200 in number, was consumed. The library of about 45,000 volumes was saved. The fire is supposed to have originated from a defective flue.

CHICAGO.—Judge Orrin N. Carter announced to a meeting of the Twelfth ward Republicans, his neighbors and friends, that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. Other candidates are Judge Elbridge Hanecy of Chicago, Walter Reeves of La Salle county, and Richard Yates of Morgan county.

LONDON. — The war office issued this dispatch from Gen. Buller at Spearman's camp, dated Jan. 25: "Gen. Warren's troops last night occupied Spion Kop, surprising the small garrison, which fled. The position has been held by us all day, though we were heavily attacked. I fear our casualties are considerable.

BERLIN.—The Berliner Tageblatt prints a Brussels special claiming that Sir Charles Warren has been signally defeated at Spion Kop. German press tacticians are almost unanimously of the opinion that the situation of the British forces around Ladysmith is desperate. A military writer says the movement to relieve Ladysmith has failed, rendering the British line of retreat endangered.

CHICAGO. — Miss Ellen Sidley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Sidley, and the Rev. Henry Sidney Foster of Green Bay, Wis., were married at the Sidley home, 3823 Ellis avenue, by Bishop Nicholson of Milwaukee.

WASHINGTON.—Membership in the Communist party is sufficient to make an alien liable to deportation whether or not he may have taken any positive steps to further execution of the avowed object of the organization—the overthrow of the government. This was announced by Secretary of Labor Wilson.

CHICAGO.—A relief expedition organized by THE TRIBUNE and commanded by Capt. John O. Anderson of the U. S. coast guard reached the steamer Sidney O. Neff, thereby establishing first communication with the ship since it became icelocked six miles off 14th street on Jan. 19. Capt. Frank Sederlund and his crew had been on short rations for three days and welcomed the supplies sent them.

YONKERS, N. Y.—The Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady, well known author and Episcopal clergyman, died of pneumonia at his home here at the age of 58. He was noted as a voluminous writer of war and sea stories.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

INVOKING THE RECALL.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—The police, firemen and school teachers, I hope, do not blame the real estate tax payer for present conditions. We pay 55 per cent of all taxes and they have been raised time and time again without thought or reason. The public officials elected by your vote and mine have squandered the funds collected by taxation, part of which are your salaries.

In my desperation I am inclined to believe in the referendum and recall, especially the recall with a rope attached, but that would be unlawful. Our only recourse is in the ballot.

This crisis should be a lesson to you and me and hereafter we should be more careful of our choice at the polls. Vote for business men with a business experience instead of ward heelers and bums. See your ward committeeman of both parties. He is a member of the political organization which controls the nominations and selects the candidates in executive session somewhere down town. Insist on business men with business experience.

REAL ESTATE TAX PAYER.

SPECIALISTS.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Since the health department in the public schools cannot give the children any help other than inform the child if he is suffering from a contagious disease, I think the department should be abolished in the present economy era.

At a school in the poorer districts of the city a nurse and a doctor make their daily appearance to hunt contagious diseases and compile endless amounts of statistics to be used in the advertisement campaign of their department.

A child received a deep gash in his hand the other day in the school. He was sent to the school doctor, who dismissed the case without even examination, saying his duties were to prevent contagious disease. The teacher, who is not professionally trained, had to administer first aid. A similar case resulted in the child's hand becoming infected and blood poisoning setting in, because the child's parents lacked the necessary funds to seek medical care elsewhere as advised by the school doctor.

A TEACHER.

POLICE ON DETAIL.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Why all this cry about not having enough police? Any night at the Civic Opera house you can see ten or more police calling and loading taxicabs when there are regular doormen employed for such work.

This is an example of how the police are used on special details. If the police we have were used fighting crime instead of acting as doormen we would have plenty.

A. C. ROSS.

CLOGGING THE CHANNEL.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Is it not a fact that the bridge contractors for the Wabash avenue bridge should dispose of the dirt removed by hauling it out in the lake?

For the last two weeks they have been dumping it in the river and are doing so now. Later on the taxpayers will have to pay to have the river dredged out.

A TAXPAYER.

ASSUME SHE IS SINGLE.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—When a woman correspondent neglects to indicate whether she is Mrs. or Miss, Margaret Thompson in the Voice of the People recommends addressing the party as "Dear Madam." This salutation is entirely incorrect. If one were addressing Mr. Jones could the phrase Dear Mister be substituted?

Whenever in doubt as to whether Miss or Mrs. is to be used, it is customary and proper to address the party as Miss.

MISS EDYTHE FRIEDMAN.

THE GRAVE OF JOEL BARLOW.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—I wish to inform the public that Senator Glenn introduced a bill in congress authorizing the erection of a marker at the grave of Joel Barlow in Zarnowiec, Poland. The bill is in the senate committee on the library.

The ingratitude of the republics is proverbial and Joel Barlow is a good example of it. He was an eminent poet, a soldier in the revolutionary army, one of the earliest American ministers to France. He died a victim of his duties and the United States did nothing to reward his long patriotic services. His grave in Poland has been forgotten and neglected for over a century. Even the memory of it has been lost and only recently the Polish Society for the Care of the Graves of Heroes discovered it at the cemetery in Zarnowiec, near Cracow, where Barlow died during the retreat of Napoleon from Moscow.

Now that the grave of this American patriot has been found it should, at least, be marked. The bill of Senator Glenn is only a partial payment of the debt we owe to Joel Barlow. I appeal to our historical societies and to all who revere our national past to support the bill.

MIECISLAUS HAIMAN.

"PRETTY, BUT IS IT ART?"

Glen Ellyn, Ill., Jan. 23.—Viewed from the standpoint of one whose business is telling things in print, the proposal to have the history of the United States written in five hundred words is pure bunk.

With all due reverence for the Bible as a source of inspiration and an incentive to right living, the citation of the first chapter of Genesis as a model of good reporting is also bunk. It is as if a reporter, writing of a coronation, should devote some six hundred words to a repetitious account of the doings of some of the least important guests, and should intrust to a casual phrase the information that, in addition to the good time which was had by all, the premier of a neighboring country shot the king dead, snatched his crown from his head, and ran away with the widowed queen.

That is about the relative importance of the creation of the sun and the moon and the earth and the plants and animals and man, when compared with the creation of the innumerable and unimaginably vast systems of suns which is dismissed with the off-hand remark, "He made the stars also."

A poet has given a more comprehensive and vivid account of the creation of the earth and mankind in these four lines:

A jellyfish and a saurian,
And caves where the cavemen dwell."

It conveys in a flash the continuous, orderly progression in the creation of our race—but it isn't history.

Mr. Coolidge, on his mountainside, and your readers may confine to five hundred words their impressions as to the what and how and the why and the when of the United States—but that, too, will not be history.

CUSTOM BUILT

SYNOPSIS.

John Andrew Kellogg, heir to millions, asks Barbara Thornton to marry him. She agrees, but not very graciously. When she hears that he has just lost his job she scolds him and calls him a playboy. He calls on his attorney, David Craig, who tells him that he will never inherit the money his father left if he doesn't prove himself capable of managing his life in a sensible way. He tells him that since he has lost one job after another he will have to double five thousand dollars in thirty days or live on an income from a trust fund for the rest of his life. John Andrew telephones this to Barbara and she offers to give him five thousand to turn over to Craig. He refuses and tells her he is going out to Hollywood. She is furious with him and breaks the engagement. He decides to go to San Francisco and starts for California. On the train he meets Anne Ames, who is on her way to Hollywood with a letter of introduction to a movie producer. They become interested in each other. Before saying good-by in Utah John Andrew tells Anne that he will see her in Los Angeles in a few days.

Arrived in San Francisco, John Andrew meets an old school friend, Peter Merriam, on the street. Pete is selling Mercury cars and tries to sell one to John Andrew. They go for a trial spin and, with John Andrew at the wheel, have a slight smashup. In order to keep Pete from losing his job John Andrew buys the custom built roadster for $4,980. He also gives all but a hundred dollars of his expense money to an old man with an invention without asking what the machine is. He drives to Los Angeles in the Mercury and sees Anne at the Consolidated studio, where she is being tried out. He makes an engagement to take her to dinner. Before starting out he looks at the old man's plans and learns they are for a noiseless camera. He sells the patent rights to Consolidated for twenty-five thousand, the money to be turned over to him on the receipt of the signature of Blake, the inventor.

In the meantime the hotel people become suspicious of John Andrew and ask him to pay his bill. He decides to pawn some belongings. He receives a telegram from the inventor's attorney asking for five hundred additional or lose the contract. He tries to sell the Mercury and offers it for two thousand dollars. Before the deal is completed he is arrested by order of the Mercury motors of San Francisco. Their attorney calls on John Andrew in jail and explains that it was all a mistake. John Andrew agrees not to sue them and they pay his hotel. Fitzgerald of Consolidated lends him the five hundred dollars to send to Blake and John Andrew wires Craig in New York that he has put the deal over and asks for an introduction to a bank in Los Angeles. He takes Anne with him to the bank.

JOHN ANDREW COMES INTO HIS OWN.

Past window after window, John Andrew and Anne walked, clear down to T-Z, through a door and into a long, bright corridor, along it and by doors marked with names and titles; at the very end was R. W. DOBSON in small gold letters, and, under it, PRESIDENT. A woman stood at the door, and, saying only "Mr. Kellogg?" took man and girl through another office, her own, and into one through which light filtered warmly.

"How do you do, sir?" Dobson said, rising from his chair. "I knew your father well . . . push over that armchair for the lady, Miss Chase . . . sit down, Mr. Kellogg, and——"

John Andrew smiled (not too well) and, nodding, said hopefully, "Miss Ames happened to be with me, sir, and, since I'll only be a moment or so, and I couldn't find a parking place near the bank, she came with me——"

The president smiled also, acknowledged the introduction, and then leaned back in his chair. "We've had a telegram from Craig, and also from our New York connection, sir . . . how do you like Los Angeles? . . . and anything we can do——"

John Andrew said quietly, "I'm afraid that I was rather vague in my own wire east, but——"

"The answer to us was very explicit, Mr. Kellogg. Whatever you want——"

John Andrew looked at the polished surface of the broad desk (never at Anne) and then said, "Firstly, Consolidated—the picture company, that is—are to pay me about ten thousand, sir; I'll have the check turned over to you, and want it held intact. That is, credit it to me, please. And I wish you'd have some one arrange with Consolidated to return the check after payment to you; I'd like to keep it, if it can be done——"

"Gladly, sir. Are you interested in pictures? That's a long way from . . . If you'll pardon me . . . the sort of investment——"

"Some day I'll tell you all about it," Kellogg said. "It really turned out very well . . . as far as it's gone. Next, please, may I have a couple of thousand; five'll do, and——"

Dobson pressed a button and told his secretary, "Five thousand dollars for Mr. Kellogg in large bills." To John Andrew, "Is that all we can do for you?"

"You will naturally feel free to make use of the bank. By the way, we forwarded several hundred thousands in California-Hydroelectric bonds for the Kellogg account yesterday; I am not sure that some of the stock might also prove a satisfactory investment. If you have the time you might look into it. Not heavily, but a few thousand shares. . . ."

"I still leave that entirely to Craig," John Andrew said quietly, wishing he dared glance at Anne. "If I may, sir, I'd like to use your telephone; I particularly want this check sent to you here, and"—decidedly swiftly—"I may want it paid to a man in San Francisco named Blake later; I can give the bank instructions about that after I've talked to the man. . . ." John Andrew asked the bank operator for Consolidated, hung up the telephone calmly, and, when it rang an instant later, said, "Mr. Fitzgerald . . . Hello, Fitz . . . Kellogg . . . have that check sent to the California Southwestern marked for Mr. Dobson . . . who? . . . why, yes, she's here with me now . . . Anne, they want to talk to you at Consolidated . . ." and handed the telephone to her.

"Yes," Anne said, and "yes" again. John Andrew was free to watch her; he saw how her hand clenched about the instrument as she held it, but was not ready for the vehemence in her voice as she said quickly, "I wouldn't care to under the circumstances . . . no . . . no!" and, swiftly, "thank you . . . good-by."

John Andrew covered the confusion in Anne's face by rising: "We're pretty busy this morning," he said. Picking up the sheaf of bank notes the secretary had brought, he shoved them into his pocket. "If I get a chance I'll investigate the power company, but it would be better to write Craig about it. Thank you very much, sir——"

Smiling at John Andrew and Anne, Dobson said, "Anything we can do for you. I trust you are enjoying your visit here——"

"In spots," said John Andrew, grinning. "When you're in New York, if I can return your kindness——"

"It's only business," the president said. "But you might assist Mrs. Dobson and myself . . . tell us the better shows. . . ."

"I'll look forward to seeing you again, sir. . . ."

Just how they returned to the jade-green Mercury neither John Andrew nor Anne could have ever told. Certainly they walked in silence, side by side; certainly each avoided the other's eyes; when they came to a curb Kellogg (unknowingly) assisted the girl to step down the few inches with the greatest (and most unnecessary) of care. And when the custom built roadster leaped down the runway of the parking station the attendant said to his mate, "That's how these guys ruin good heaps," to which the other answered, "Yeah, but what crate except a Mercury'd start in high like that without stallin'?" John Andrew, however, really believed that he had started the car in the proper and usual manner; only the rhythmic sound of the engine in his ears pulled his hand from the shifting post as the jade green car swerved out into the heavy traffic.

What streets Kellogg took he did not know. Anne now said nothing, having so much to say; John Andrew, not knowing (and fearful) how to begin, was silent also. At last the streets became straighter and broader, the buildings lower . . . tree lined avenues . . . gently rolling golf courses . . . suburbs . . . pennons flapping about new developments . . . and then the highway and the sea, with the beating surf sending glistening emeralds and diamonds of spray on the hard white sand. Far out a smudge of black smoke rose from some coastwise vessel; rose, thinned, and turned to violet vapor as lilaceous as the sky.

John Andrew hoped that Anne's hand would touch his arm, and then words might come last of all, but she finally said in a hard, tight voice, "John Andrew. . . ."

"Don't try to say anything," John Andrew said gently.

Up to 30 again, the sun glinting off the shining wings of the radiator cap like flying flame.

"You . . . you . . ."—Anne's voice broke.

The black figures slid from 30 to 0, and John Andrew's arms went around her hungrily; not until a passing car's horn blared ironically did lips come from lips. Anne was laughing and crying. John Andrew glanced hastily about, saw that the road was again empty, and kissed her again, lips, wet eyes, warming cheek, bright hair. He ended by crumpling her lips to a bud and kissing them full.

Good morning!

You remember "The Hottentot"? Well, "The Aviator" is just about like it, only in the latter Edward Everett Horton is scared of and gets all mixed up with airships, where, in the former, horses were his aversion and his fate.

"The Hottentot" was much the funnier of the two pictures, but this new piece does quite well by you in the matter of laughs, and some of the flying stunts are genuinely thrilling.

Mr. Horton is seen as an author, Robert Street, who permits his name to be used on an anonymous book on aviation that he hasn't even read. Mr. Street is not only NOT air minded but, as he says, he gets dizzy when he looks down at his feet.

The book, which details the actual experiences of an aviator during the world war, creates a furor. The supposed author finds himself a hero and a hero who is called on to demonstrate his remarkable skill in the face of all the world and the girl he loves. Miss Patsy Ruth Miller, who was crazy over horses in "The Hottentot," is all het up about airplanes in "The Aviator."

Mr. Horton is diverting. So is the dialogue. There are enough comic situations to overbalance a number that are tiresome. The supporting cast is adequate, and direction, synchronization and photography please.

The piece is reasonably entertaining.

We must damn with faint praise the picture at the Oriental this week—but who cares! Paul Ash and his gang are there and any film, no matter how good, would be an "also ran" so far as the "Rajah's" adorers are concerned. HE'S the news of the day to his loyal court and the fact that he's had his hair cut means much in their lives.

Not only has he had it cut but—he's glad he's had it cut and he's always wanted to have it cut. This he would like the world to know. The long locks were, to quote Mr. Ash, a sort of Chicago trademark. But now that he's signed a two year contract with Paramount to direct and is about to depart with his gang for Hollywood where he isn't known by his flowing tresses—why he's going to look like the sort of a man he is. Says he. We're glad to welcome Mr. Ash back and wish him a joyous and successful old home week.

As for the picture—well, it has a fine cast that's woefully miscast. The story is unoriginal, unbelievable, and, I thought, uninteresting. Its heroine is just another would-be Texas Guinan and its incidents are the hectic experiences of this "painted angel" thrown against a tawdry background of nightclub life. Direction is mediocre. Dialogue and music fail to click.

Cruel to waste folks like Miss Dove and Mr. Lowe on such trash. Trash—Ash—AH—

F. Herman Gade Now Leaving Chicago for Residence in France

BY H. SUNDBY-HANSEN.

F. Herman Gade, former Chicago lawyer, three times mayor of Lake Forest and for a number of years consul of Norway in Chicago, returned yesterday for a fortnight's visit to wind up his affairs here permanently, preparatory to settling in France.

His former Lake Forest residence has been sold and much of his house furnishings are being packed for transportation to France, where they will give a modern American touch to the Chateau de Mesnil St. Denis, built in 1580, which the Gades have purchased as a future home. The historic old French castle is located in the Chevreuse valley, only forty-five minutes motor ride from Paris.

Mr. Gade returns with a brilliant career to his credit in the Norwegian diplomatic service, which he entered fifteen years ago, ten of which he has spent in Rio Janeiro as Norway's minister to Brazil. The effects of the tropical climate, however, rendered a change of scene imperative and at his request he was granted permission to go on the "dispensable" list subject to call.

Three years ago Minister Gade headed a special Norwegian commission to Washington attempting to reach a settlement of the $7,000,000 Hannevig shipbuilding claims which grew out of wartime United States shipping board requisitions. Despite adverse recommendation made by the then Norwegian minister to Washington, H. H. Bryn, the Norwegian government made itself party to the claims. Minister Bryn's attitude resulted in his peremptory recall and Minister Gade virtually superseded him. The resultant complications ended in sudden termination of settlement negotiations and the claims are still unsettled.

During his Chicago career Minister Gade was a leader in obtaining American recognition of Norway's independence of Sweden after the dissolution of their union in 1905. In 1906 he was appointed as the first Norwegian consul in Chicago under the régime of independence. He comes of an old consular and diplomatic family. His father, Gerhard Gade, served as American consul general in Oslo from the time of his appointment by President Grant until the end of the McKinley administration. Minister Gade's son is serving in an American career diplomatic post in South America. Mrs. Gade is a sister of Charles Garfield King, Chicago lawyer.

Mr. Gade began his Chicago career in the gay nineties after graduation from Harvard, where he completed his education in deference to his mother, who was a native of Cambridge, Mass. In his boyhood in Norway Mr. Gade was a schoolmate of the late Capt. Roald Amundsen, distinguished arctic explorer and discoverer of the south pole. The two remained lifelong friends. Not long prior to Capt. Amundsen's tragic death in an airplane search for survivors of the dirigible Italia expedition, when Amundsen was suffering financial reverses, Mr. Gade was instrumental in saving the explorer's home by clearing it of debt. The home has now been converted into a "snug harbor" for superannuated seamen.

Y.M.C.A. Plans to Oust Gangs with Athletics

Site of New Building Part of Scheme.

That the Y. M. C. A. is developing keener appreciation of the people of different races, nationalities, religions and occupations, was the opinion advanced at the annual meeting last night by W. J. Parker, general secretary.

Mr. Parker, speaking at the Hotel La Salle, told that the Y. M. C. A. has current Chicago assets of $14,000,000, growing membership, is building a new hotel and shows general improvement in its nineteen departments. The membership totals 30,375, about 1,500 more than in 1928. One-third, he said, are boys under 18 years. It is for the work among the younger boys that $380,000, the campaign for which opened officially last night, is intended. That is the only feature of the curriculum that is not self-supporting.

Looking out for the younger boy, turning his attention from rough gang to the constructive "gang" in a neighborhood recreation center was one reason, according to John V. Farwell, president of the board of trustees, why the corner of Chicago avenue and Dearborn street was selected for the new $2,700,000 Lawson department of the Y. M. C. A.

"We chose the site near the gangland district because we thought much could be done for the younger boy of the locality," Mr. Farwell said.

"It also is fitting to build a lasting memorial to the life work, high ideals and character of Victor F. Lawson, who was the friend of young boys."

The Lawson department, to be completed by next January, Mr. Farwell explained, will be twenty-three stories in height and will accommodate 800 men. The Lawson Memorial library, given by Ivor Lawson, a brother, will be housed in a special room and a librarian placed in charge.

At the Y. M. C. A. hotel, more than 100,000 non-member guests were registered in 1929, according to the secretary's report. The schools had enrolled 4,372, and Camp Duncan, Volo, Ill., gave vacations to 3,876 boys.

Adolph Lindstrom and Arthur Hanson were elected to the board of managers. The old officers of the board of trustees were re-elected: Mr. Farwell, president; William P. Sidley, vice president; John Nuveen, secretary, and M. H. MacLean, treasurer.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question M. Sweeney, 5643 Washtenaw avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

The Answers.

Elmer Thompson, 4361 Greenwood avenue, automobile trimmer—Yes, I just came back from California and I saw quite a bit of the sun tan camouflage while out there and it didn't look so good to me. The pink and white makeup certainly is more appropriate for Chicago.

Miss Delpha Orcutt, 1239 South 20th avenue, Maywood, Ill., receptionist—I am not deeply interested in either. I didn't use the sun tan makeup last year; I didn't think it looked so well. I probably will not use the pink and white makeup. There is a happy medium that is much more attractive and appropriate.

William D. Foster, 1858 West 14th street, aviation student—I prefer the sun tan. It is more natural. I like the athletic type of girl. Those who have a sun tan painted by nature's cosmetician have it all over those provided with any of the artificial makeups.

Miss Bernice Hunter, 4450 North Kedzie avenue, waitress—The sun tan is better. I liked that last summer. It made the wearer healthy looking. The sun tan vogue tended to get women into the sunshine so that they would get a natural sun tan. The pink and white vogue will make women afraid of the sun.

A. C. Tisdelle Jr., 29 South La Salle street, financier—I do not. The sun tan gives more healthy looking complexions. It makes them look as though they were outdoor women—golfers, swimmers, etc. While the use of pink and white may be attractive, the sun tan seems to personify the health that is the birthright of the American girl.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Here is an opera which, if its slightly more than half a century of years does not entitle it to classify in the old school, at least follows old school methods. Dramatically you are never in the slightest doubt which of the cast is the villain and which the hapless heroine. He rejoices in acts of constant and at times, one would think, quite unnecessary villainy; she is more put upon than almost any singer on record.

Musically it is full of resounding, ear filling solos, duets, choruses, orchestral numbers, and uncommonly good specimens of this manner of musical expression they are, too. Everybody gets a chance sooner or later to project everything that is in his or her vocal soul and vocal organs, and all the musical numbers are more or less ably illustrative of Venice and attempted poisonings and dagger play and rewarded and frustrated love.

There are lights and colors and massed groups and an elaborate ballet. Even this, "The Dance of the Hours," is entirely on classical models, performed last night with great willingness if not always with the clockwork accuracy and flashing tempos that mark the classical ballet at its best. One excepts here Mr. Caton, who would seem to have a decided flair for the art of the dance.

But there is an excellent reason why "La Gioconda" should be given, and it is because the music calls for a singing cast far better than the average, also because the Civic Opera company could and did respond to the call. It would be difficult to assemble a cast better than or even equal to that printed above. Anyway, this is no place to try.

All that was needed in addition to that cast was the right kind of a conductor, and here Mr. Cooper stepped into prominence. He did a superb job, building up the high spots, carrying on with brisk pace, giving light and emphasis and rhythm through every moment of the score.

Several excerpts from this opera are sometimes extracted for concert use. It will be interesting to listen and discover how near concert singers in the future can come to Miss Paggi's performance of "Voce di donna." Mr. Marshall's of "Cielo e mar," Mr. Formichi's of "Pescator, affonda l'esca," or, late in the performance, of Miss Raisa's "Suicidio." And, though this seldom occurs in concert, there should be a word about the duet between Miss Glade and Mr. Baromeo in the scene concerning an imitation poison which has every effect except the final and lethal one.

MR. STOCK'S CONCERT

Mr. Stock is suspected of being not altogether in sympathy with unaccompanied solo violin music, and there is a certain amount of internal evidence to support the suspicion. In any event, when he conducted the third Bach "Brandenburg" concerto at the symphony concert yesterday afternoon a slow movement was neded, so he interpolated an arrangement that he himself had made of a movement from one of the Bach solo violin sonatas.

He knows his orchestra and he knows his Bach, and when this single thread of melody was expanded into something that covered the whole fabric of the string section it became a transformed Bach. Everything was logical, there was not a measure that Bach himself would not have approved in all probability, but the result was worth a whole armful of unaccompanied violin numbers.

In fact this number came close to being the high spot of the whole concert, and at that the rest of the program was not to be regarded lightly. The Bach work was coupled with Richard Strauss' pretentious tone-poem, "Thus Spake Zarathustra," one of the few cases in which a composer has sought to translate philosophy into music. Then came the intermission.

The second half was a sort of hands-across-the-English-channel, orchestrally considered. The English Gustav Holst—he is English even though his name has a continental spelling—contributed his suite of the African desert, "Beni Mora," to place beside the works of two French composers, Arthur Honegger with his short symphonic poem, "Pastorale d'Eté," and Maurice Ravel with what he calls a choreographic poem, "The Waltz."

They are all more than commonly agreeable examples of the modern idiom in music, particularly Holst with the color that he gives to his Arabian themes and Ravel with the dramatic excitement with which he develops Viennese dance tunes. But after the program was over, one still remembered Mr. Stock's Bach transcription as being the entrancing episode of the afternoon.

An error was made in this column in announcing the award of prizes in the high school glee club contest which took place at Orchestra hall last Monday night. A letter signed by Herman Devries, Vittorio Trevisan, and Frank L. Waller says in part: "We, the judges of the contest, would appreciate your clearing up this misunderstanding by explaining that the magnificent work of Senn was so above any average high school choral work that it was awarded 'first place with distinction.' However, the work of Roosevelt was also above the average and it would have been manifestly unfair to class them 'second,' so for this reason they were granted—as so frequently happens in European contests—'first place with merit.'"

$94,661 More Raised Toward Provident Hospital's $3,000,000

The fund to establish the Provident hospital and training school, a medical training center for Negroes, progressed $94,661 nearer its three million dollar goal yesterday.

The amount of $75,300 was announced by campaign workers at the La Salle hotel. At the Savoy ballroom, where 1,490 of the 2,000 colored volunteer workers met, the balance of the $94,661 was announced.

The largest single contribution was one for $25,000, sent anonymously. The Illinois Bell Telephone company gave $10,000 and Harold Swift, $5,000. The banking group, headed by Solomon A. Smith, president of the Northern Trust company, reported $27,650 from five banks: Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, $10,000; First National bank, $8,350; Foreman State Bank of Chicago, $4,600; Union Trust, $3,400, and Northern Trust, 1,300.

Tade Styka's Paintings Entrance Critic Who Then Reveals Why

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

It is a very rare exhibition that leaves a critic wordless, but at the Knoedler galleries there opens today an exhibit of portraits by Tade Styka, a young Polish painter, which demands either absolute quiet or a rush of all the hyperbolic adjectives in the dictionary. It is a remarkable exhibit. It is astonishingly and astoundingly fine. The sweep of it rushes you from your feet.

Such marvelous technique, such craftsmanship, such nuances of color and subtlety of composition, such admirable handling of flesh tones, such beautiful painting of hair and eyes and hands, such—but words are clumsy tools—in short, if there is genius in the world today Styka is possessed of it.

The paintings are not all portraits. One fascinating interlude between the distinguished head of Marshall Foch and the lovely Aprilly feel in the portrait of Miss Madge Bellamy is "Brown Harmony," a Pekinese dog held between two slender hands against a clouded background of brown. The hands are delicious; the dog very real and much alive. The large painting of "Icarus" is at the opposite pole in subject matter. It is a heroic canvas powerfully painted but tenderly, too, the fallen figure lying broken on the rocks, the brown wings that failed him outstretched beneath his body. It is poetry and romance and painting at their best.

The portrait of Berry Wall brings into focus again the man who thirty years ago was called the best dressed American of his day and who commanded first page columns in the newspapers with accounts of his six changes of suits a day. He is still a trim and sophisticated figure. The portraits of both men and women are superlatively good but, naturally, in the women's portraits the artist can let himself go more readily. The costume helps and the soft lines of throat and hair. Particularly fascinating are "Blonde with Persian Cat," "Camille Flammarion," "Gemito," and "Miss Ruth Jones." In the painting of hands [that difficult feature] Styka excells. He is the portrait painter par excellence; no one should miss the exhibit.

In the first room at Knoedler's are paintings by Bessie Lasky. They are charming, and the still lifes are possessed of great beauty. Styka spoils them for you if you look at them after you see his work; see Mrs. Lasky's first, carefully, and delight in them. Then look at Styka's and shut your eyes coming out so that your illusions are not spoiled. Bessie Lasky has a gentle and delicate talent and a flair for color and texture. Her paintings are well worth while.

Yearly Deficits Likely to End U. of Michigan Student Opera Efforts

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 24.—The Michigan Union opera, a tradition of 25 years, is likely to die, according to what appears to be authoritative information.

It is said the question of killing the opera was discussed in the secret meeting of the university senate a few days ago, an official of the university declaring the opera already dead. Yearly deficits are given as reasons for the belief that there no longer is a public demand for the college opera, training for which has required three months each year, following selection of casts the preceding spring.

The university senate is said to have heard that from time to time there has been a "devil may care" attitude taken toward the Volstead law.

A cast of 100, all men, took part in "The Merrie Go Round," this year's show which played in Chicago, Cincinnati, Detroit and a number of Michigan cities. In some previous years a show has been put on in Washington, Philadelphia, and at the Metropolitan Opera house in New York City. Up to the last few years the shows were well attended. The opera always has been given in the two weeks of Christmas holidays following a trial run here. The first of the Michigan operas was given in 1906.

At the Woman's Club.

It was the first time I had attended any function of the local Woman's club. Finding it difficult to hear I went to the front of the auditorium. The chairs were of the camp chair type with seats and backs made of orange and green drilling. I sat down.

Had I neglected the 18 day diet? Or was the seat of that chair weakened by long usage? The first thing I knew—the drilling in the seat had divided into two parts with a ripping sound and I, red faced and excited, was sprawled on the floor in the wreckage of what had once been a pretty chair.

Embarrassed? Well, I leave it to your imagination. Especially when I was known as the wife of a most formal professor and new to the townswomen! L. M. M.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

Little Minnie, aged 5, was much interested in daddy's account of his visit to mother at the hospital. She listened intently to his recital of how the white clad nurse brought in her new baby brother on a wheeled table, along with a number of other babies who were being delivered to their respective mothers.

"O, daddy!" she exclaimed, her eyes opening wide, "I hope they don't get our baby on the bottom of the pile! He might be hurt." J. C. C.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Gave Only Permanent Relief

As everybody knows, the market is flooded with cathartics, pills and patent compounds for the relief of constipation. At best, whatever results are obtained are temporary. Besides, there is the danger in certain drugs and the habit-forming menace.

Mr. P. M. Fisher, 517 Olive Street, Scranton, Pa., has something to say on this subject which will be interesting to all constipation sufferers. He says:

"For many years I suffered from constipation and used, for relief, all kinds of laxatives. After a few days' treatment, I would only find my condition the same as before and at times worse.

"Some time ago I started to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly, once a day as directed. Since doing this, I have found that I do not need any other medicine to procure the desired result, and it keeps me in a very healthful condition."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or the purchase price will be refunded.

In addition, it adds needed iron to the diet. You will like its delicious flavor. There are many delightful ways to eat it. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

British Expert on Embroidery to Talk Here

BY THALIA

The "Welcome" on Chicago society's doormat is written large and plain and is not to be belied, because a large quota of fashionables has been limself off for winter holidays.

The women who foster the destinies of the Needlework and Textile guild are planning to entertain for Mr. and Mrs. A. J. B. Wace of London, who arrived today for a fortnight in Chicago. Mr. Wace is deputy keeper of the Victoria and Albert museum in London. He is an authority of consequence on all manner of stitchery. Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland is to give a luncheon for Mr. and Mrs. Wace next Monday and, following his talk for the guild at the Goodman Studio theater on Tuesday next, Mrs. Potter Palmer is taking them to luncheon at her residence and to the Tuesday Symphony concert.

Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift is to have them for luncheon and the concert on Friday, following Mr. Wace's second talk. The Waces are to stay with Mrs. Wace's sister, Mrs. W. D. Pence of Evanston, and there doubtless will be other entertaining done for them. Besides the guild lectures, Mr. Wace will speak under the auspices of the Art institute on Feb. 4 on "Embroideries of the Greek Isles," which he studied for nine years.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herrick of Boston, Mass., are other guests in town, but their stay is more brief. They arrived yesterday morning, and the Kellogg Fairbanks gave one of their dinners for them last night. There were twenty guests bid to the affair at the Fairbanks residence at 214 North State street.

Two popular former Chicagoans whose presence here in March will occasion a round of entertaining are Mr. and Mrs. Roy McWilliams. Mr. McWilliams is American consul at Bayonne, France, and for the last ten years they have been residing at Bidart. There their villa is situated high on a cliff overlooking the sea. They arrived in New York yesterday and will go to Nassau for several weeks before coming to Chicago.

ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Krulewich of the Belden Stratford hotel announce the engagement of their daughter, Beatrice Mae, to Leonard Prince Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Warren of Vicksburg, Miss.

Mrs. Chauncey J. Blair will arrive in Chicago today, accompanied by her sons, Chauncey B. Blair and William Mitchell Blair, who went to New York to meet her on her arrival on the Homeric. Mrs. Blair has been residing in France and Switzerland since her visit here last winter at the time her granddaughter, Ynez de Soriano, was presented to society.

Mrs. C. Bai Lihme and her daughter, Mrs. Clement A. Griscom III, have come from New York to attend the wedding today at Danville, Ill., of Miss Clara Josephine Hegeler to John H. Wholley of San Francisco. Among the other guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bartholomay and the junior Henry Bartholomays; Mr. and Mrs. William Wilms and Miss Paula Wilms, Mrs. W. David Owen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hotz, Mrs. William Burrows, Mrs. Edward Pauling and Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Plate.

The services will take place at 4:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church of Danville, and will be followed by a reception at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Weisbach Hegeler. Miss Hegeler's sisters, Mrs. Tracy Wilson Buckingham and Miss Louise Hegeler, will attend her as matron and maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Mrs. Edward Hegeler and Elizabeth Olmsted of Danville, Miss Eleanor Burr of St. Paul, Minn., and Miss Camilla Cole of New York.

The ushers will include Harris Wilder of Lake Forest, Edward Hegeler, William Heise, and Austin King of Danville. After a trip to Honolulu Mr. Wholley and his bride will reside in San Francisco.

Louise Brewer is assisting with the management of three lectures to be given at the Fortnightly on Jan. 29, Feb. 5, and Feb. 12, under the auspices of the Cambridge School of Architecture. Jean Jacques Haffner will give the first two on "The Modern Trend in Architecture" and "The Modern Trend in Decoration," and Fletcher Steel will give the last, on "The Modern Trend in Landscape Gardening."

To Honor Teacher

MRS. PERCIVAL G. HART.

Mrs. Percival G. Hart is chairman of arrangements for a dinner to be given by the Chicago Vassar club next Thursday evening at Maillard's for Dr. Bruno Roselli, head of the Italian department at Vassar college. Dr. Roselli will speak on "Mussolini and European Politics."

Mrs. Nelson Thomasson Jr. and Mrs. Eugene Talbot acted as hostesses last night at the junior subscription dance at the Fortnightly. The next dance, to take place on Feb. 7, is to be a hard times costume party.

Mrs. Leverett Thompson and her daughter, Miss Laura Thompson, have invited a group of their friends for a musical at the Arts club on Sunday evening, Feb. 2. Hallie Stiles, Chicago Civic Opera star, who has been entertained quite a bit since her arrival here, is to give the program.

Chicagoans who have arrived at Miami Beach, according to a southern correspondent, include the Charles B. Pikes, Tommy and Edward Cudahy, the E. A. Cudahy children with their nurse, and the Harlan Eldreds. The latter are visiting Mrs. Eldred's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Andrews. Others who went to Miami Beach are Mrs. Lockwood Honore, Mrs. William P. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Robbins, and Mrs. George E. Van Hagen. The Pikes have left on the yacht Lady Fish with Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Honore, and Eugene R. Pike as their cruise guests.

The Roy D. Koehns' children, Kay and Kent, went fishing this week and brought in several "small fry" with the assistance of their dog, King. The Fred A. Poors gave a week-end party aboard their Granada IV for the Donald Hoffmans, Mr. Poor's nephew and his bride, from Wayne, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Morse of the Drake Towers are planning to leave in early February for a sojourn at Useppa island in Florida. They are to be accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. William S. Covington, and perhaps, their other daughter, Mrs. Carl Stibolt will go, too. The Morses had planned to go abroad earlier in the winter, but Mrs. Morse hurt her foot, and so they decided to wait until she was better able to get about before doing any traveling. They are anticipating the session of warm weather and fishing that they will have in the south.

Good Health Is a Mother's Greatest Virtue and Asset

by Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A "Play Booklet," by Mrs. Bevans, for mothers of pre-school children, will be sent free on request of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Robert Louis Stevenson was a sick man all his life. And look at his books. Darwin—at least according to common belief—was invalided for years. And consider his research.

One of our most prolific detective story writers launched his career while a chronic invalid. I've known people to carry through difficult jobs well when they were suffering with long continued sinus trouble, or severe head pains, or incipient tuberculosis.

But try being a mother to young children under any of those conditions. If ever there was a job needing the poise and patience, good nature and actual physical endurance that go with good health, it is the job of being a mother.

If you have good health, keep it. If you haven't good health, try to capture it. O, I know it's easily said—but in many instances it can be done.

One of the greatest causes of apparent ill health—and sometimes real ill health—is fatigue. Many mothers become weary through hard work—but many others become so through being too closely confined to their job.

One way of reducing your quota of work is by cutting away every non-essential. Dress your children in the simplest and most efficient way—the way that means least work in both the making and the laundering. Try to plan the children's day so that you have some personal freedom. Getting them to bed early is one of the most restful things you can arrange. Also, by hook or crook, try to manage so you can get away from the house—change of scene and thought are refreshment of which young mothers have too little. Staleness and tiredness are two great handicaps to making a success of your job of being a mother and of keeping physically and nervously fit.

And last—if you really are ill, try even at a financial sacrifice, to take the necessary measures to regain your health. Once recaptured, you'll realize it was worth any price you paid.

It's almost impossible to be a capable, jolly, poised mother if you're half sick—or all worn out.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Belgian Fruit Cake.

Many decades ago Mademoiselle Natalie Koester left her native Soest, Belgium, came to America, married, and lived in a beautiful home in Iowa, and continued to be what most Belgians are, highly food conscious. In her case, she was conscious of how much good and fine foods make a home fine. And some decades later I had—at the home of her married daughter — each Christmas time a taste of Natalie's fruit cake, a cake you could cut in transparently thin slices.

At that time I thought it the best fruit cake ever made. Possibly I thought so because it was most like a wedding cake I had known in my childhood and looked upon as wonderful. Like this wedding cake, it was topped with a smooth white rose flavored icing and rose water was also used in the cake. How we used to nibble that wedding cake icing!

That daughter has secured her mother's recipe for me. The list of ingredients that was given me for this cake consisted of just the things that must be particularly purchased: A pound of brown sugar, one-half pound butter, one-half dozen eggs—three for the cake and the other three whites for the icing—one package of currants, one pound of chopped shelled almonds, two packages of seeded raisins, and three packages of sliced citron. There had been some adaptations here, and perhaps I did not get them all. The old recipe called for a pint of citron cut fine, and the one who uses this recipe now uses three-fourths of a pound.

The basis of this cake is a pint of light sponge, made with one cup scalded milk, two cups flour, and one-half cake of yeast. This disposes of two of the three cups of flour used in making the cake. The other cup, plus a teaspoon of baking powder, is used for flouring the finely cut fruit. The spices used consist of two teaspoons each of cinnamon, ginger, cloves, and allspice. One teaspoon of baking soda is mixed with the batter. To my comment that two teaspoons of ginger seemed considerable, I got the reply that this makes eight pounds of cake.

Nowadays three tablespoons of fruit juice are used in mixing this, and to them is added one teaspoon rose water, but the old recipe calls for three tablespoons of brandy. It is a recipe to try out when I have a good day to spend on it. How about you?

Black and White Is a Favorite Mixture

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special.] — Parisiennes who want to be ultra chic, and conservative at the same time, are sticking to the black and white mixture which gives them sartorial pep guaranteed to endure a lot longer than more heady concoctions. The preferred proportions are two parts black to one part white, and the white is so arranged that it is removable and replacable and can spend as much time at the cleaners' or laundry as is necessary for impeccable cleanliness.

Black and white ensembles that come out of Paris are of every type. There are utilitarian black and white tweeds made into suits with white blouses. There are black and white satin and broadcloth ensembles for afternoon, and there are heaps and heaps of black and white evening clothes.

Paris has something that is particularly good in the black and white ensemble that can be worn in the daytime and out for dinner, too. It can also go away on a smart week-end and carry off honors. Such an ensemble is shown in our sketch. It comes in four chapters. The first and inner chapter is a white georgette one piece dress, of which you see only the waist in our big sketch. The whole dress is shown in the tiny sketch. Patou trims this dress only with bias bands, but its chic line makes it wearable to the informal dinner and theater or dance.

For general daytime wear a black broadcloth skirt buttons over the dress. This skirt is original in cut but very ladylike and wearable, as are all of the great Patou's clothes. The skirt rises above the rather high waistline at the sides, and a broadcloth belt holds it close around the waist. Just above the knees are two wide tucks and below this the skirt flares in a circular ruffle exactly like the skirt of the white georgette dress underneath.

The coat is full length, and hangs loosely from the shoulders. It has a small turnover shawl collar and a scarflike cape around the shoulders. A black broadcloth hat, turned up in front, is worn with the ensemble.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Artificial lighting of poultry houses to stimulate greater egg production during the fall and winter easily can be overdone, warns Dr. F. B. Hutt of the poultry division at University Farms, St. Paul. Twelve hours on the roost and twelve hours off is fair to both the hens and their owner.

Such a program, he says, should permit a good flock to maintain a production of 50 to 55 per cent during the winter with satisfactory rations.

It is possible to stimulate hens to a temporary production of 65 or even 70 per cent by the use of lights for a longer period, by feeding a lot of moist mash, or by increasing the supply of animal protein feeds, but this rate of production cannot be maintained for more than a few weeks and is likely to end in an abrupt and decidedly unprofitable slump. A few birds in every flock may keep up the pace, but the majority will eventually go into a partial moult or contract colds as a result of lowered vitality. In either case it takes several weeks of careful management to get the flock back on the nests and up to 50 per cent production.

Artificial lighting does not increase the annual output per hen, since the extra production obtained is offset by lower production during spring and summer. However, because the increase comes when egg prices are highest, wise use of the practice is so profitable that artificial lighting has become almost a rule in commercial flocks.

Family Goat Carries the Burdens, but Gets Very Little Praise

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In every family of any size, it seems to me, there is one who might truly be called the family goat. This is the willing one, whose willingness is abused by brothers sisters, and by parents alike.

The other boys and girls in the family may leave home for jobs or for homes of their own—but the willing one is expected to stay on and make all the sacrifices, the reward for which invariably is more and more sacrifice. And one of the nonunderstandable things about mothers and sometimes fathers, more often mothers, however, is the appreciation shown for some small gift or money donation from one of the look-out-for-themselves children and the complete lack of gratitude expressed toward the constant subscriber.

A case in point is Jack, 27, second son in a family of three sons and daughters and a widowed mother. The two brothers and three sisters were all married before 24, the age of the girl Jack wants to marry now. The married members of the family are all well placed, one brother and one sister being in well to do circumstances.

But Jack, always having been the family goat, is expected to remain single and take care of the mother. Without consulting Jack, the mother went ahead and made a down payment on a house and informed her son that it was his duty to pay the balance so that she would have a home in her old days.

He has paid interest, taxes, notes, and extra bills in connection with the house purchase and contributed a weekly allowance to his mother, besides. No other member of the family has contributed a nickel, nor seems to have any feeling of financial responsibility toward the mother, at all. Now, Jack wants to marry but cannot see how he can support two homes, for his girl will not live with the mother, as she is not an easy to live with person.

I'm willing to wager that any number of persons reading the above tale can say: "I know a son just like that." Or, maybe it is a daughter on whom the full burden is left.

It is doubtful if advising the family goat to go on the warpath would do a particle of good. The f. goats just do not seem to be constituted for open hostilities. Their only hope lies in a fiancé or fiancée coming to the rescue with the additional courage needed for the assertion of their rights.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

If the young man has been at all attentive to her, a young lady may, in return, ask him to accompany her to a party.

Explain to Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am in love with a fellow that asked me out many times. I refused because I wasn't allowed to go out. I am allowed to go out now. How can I get him back? BROWN EYES."

Invite him to your home, explaining that you are now permitted to have beaux.

CHILD'S DRESS.

This cunning dress for tiny maidens has a yoke, short sleeves, and is cut in a V at the neck. The skirt fulness is laid in short vertical tucks, with the bottom of the skirt cut in a scalloped outline. Any of the ginghams, dimities, broadcloths, chambrays or crêpe de chine will make up beautifully.

The pattern, 3206, comes in sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 1⅝ yards of 32 or 35 inch material with 4½ yards of ribbon.

Dresses Need a Cleaning Often in the Winter

"Why be a 'whispered about' person, or an undated one or a parlor corner loafer?" says the girl with the clothes cleaning complex. "If I didn't send that jersey to the cleaner's every other week I couldn't stand it, myself, much less expect others to."

A seasonal suggestion, too. What with the wearing of woollen frocks indoors, day after day, and week after week, and none too much window opening and airing out being permitted in crowded working quarters, this advice is good.

Of course, the cleaners do not always return your goods free of the odors we have come to associate with unpopularity. If a dress is worn an interminable length of time, it is impossible for even cleaning fluids to restore its pristine freshness.

Dresses, immediately they are removed, and of winter materials particularly, should be swung on a hanger and set up somewhere where a strong, cleansing wind may reach them and a sunning right out in the open air should be allotted them as frequently as it can be arranged. That is, if one wants to keep a freshness about them.

Basically, we should have started with bathing. It is true that there is more negligence about this hygienic feature during the cold months than at other seasons.

WILL DIVIDES HART ESTATE OF $6,000,000

$130,000 Given Charity and Institutions.

The will of Harry Hart, president of Hart, Schaffner & Marx, was offered for probate yesterday. The executors appointed by the will are the testator's widow, Sara L. Hart; his two daughters, Caroline H. Kohn and Marion H. Lowenbach, and Lessing Rosenthal. Mr. Hart died on Nov. 20, 1929, at the age of 79.

The will, dated March 8, 1928, and a codicil of April 4, 1929, disposed of an estate of $6,000,000 of personal property. Legacies aggregating $130,000 are given as follows:

To the Jewish Charities of Chicago.....$50,000
To the Art Institute of Chicago.....$25,000
To the Women's and Children's Hospital.....$25,000

In Honor of Dr. Abt.

To honor his nephew, Dr. Isaac A. Abt, "whose unremitting study and application and whose intelligent labors in medicine, especially in the field of pediatrics, not only as a practitioner but also as a writer and editor, have brought him deserved fame, and whose achievements have been a particular source of gratification to me," $25,000 is bequeathed to Northwestern university.

The will provides that if the university should build a children's hospital with which the name of Dr. Isaac A. Abt may be in any way associated the gift may be used in any form whatever in connection with either the construction or the maintenance or operation of the hospital.

Mr. Hart's three grandchildren, Henry L. Kohn, Louis H. Kohn Jr., and Harry J. Lowenbach, are given $50,000 each. Each of the three children of Mrs. Harry Hart's daughter, Hilda W. Taussig, is given $10,000. Mrs. Taussig, herself, is given $20,000. Mrs. Ida Hanson, an employé, receives $500, and an annuity of $1,000 is given to the testator's niece, Mrs. Ephraim Heller of New York.

After bequeathing $100,000 to his wife, the residue of the estate is divided between his wife and the testator's three children, Mrs. Louis H. Kohn, Mrs. William L. Lowenbach, and Jacob H. Hart, the wife receiving one-third and each of the children two-thirds. The portion distributable to Jacob H. Hart is, however, transferred to the First Union Trust and Savings bank, in trust for him during his life, and after his death to his wife and upon the death of the survivor to Jacob H. Hart's issue, and, if none, then to the descendants of the testator. Jacob H. Hart has no child.

A similar trust is created of the Hart, Schaffner & Marx stock held by the testator, under which Lessing Rosenthal, Leo F. Wormser, and Abraham S. Hart are appointed trustees. This trust, known as the "Harry Hart stock trust," is to continue until 1940.

Sexton Estate $4,000,000.

The will of John Sexton, founder of John Sexton & Co., wholesale grocers, leaves practically his entire estate, estimated at $4,000,000, to his family. Mr. Sexton died in Los Angeles on Jan. 15 of pneumonia. He was 72 years old.

The will leaves $10,000 to the Carl Mundelein charity fund and $500 each to thirty charitable institutions. Bequests ranging from $2,000 to $5,000 are left to twenty distant relatives.

His widow, Mrs. Anne Louise Sexton of Wilmette, is to receive one-third of the remainder of the estate. The other two-thirds are to be divided equally by five children, Mrs. Helen Sexton Egan, 6001 Kenwood avenue; Mrs. Ethel Sexton Marten, Winnetka; Thomas G. Franklin, and Sherman J. Sexton.

PLEA MADE FOR ADMISSION OF MEXICAN PEONS

Stand Is Supported by U. S. Chamber.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—The weight of the chamber of commerce of the United States was added to the protest of the southwest against restriction of western hemisphere immigration in testimony today before the house immigration committee.

After Harry Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, had outlined the disadvantages he believed would result from application of a quota limitation to Mexican immigration, three members of the chamber's special committee on immigration supported his stand.

Restrictions Opposed.

These three—Arthur S. Bent, Los Angeles public works contractor; T. Chauncey Brewer, Boston attorney; E. G. Peterson, president of the Utah Agricultural college—were unanimous in the belief that such restrictions were not desirable.

The Los Angeles publisher, who is interested in cotton and livestock along the California-Mexico border, testified that a majority of the Mexican peons were seasonal workers, coming in only for the harvesting season and returning to Mexico when there was no longer a need for their services.

Leave Country Later.

By this means, Chandler argued, the peons created no unemployment situation as was the case with alien labor from other parts of the world which could not easily leave the country when not employed.

He praised the industry and faithfulness of the peon laborer.

SOUTH BEND VICE CLEANUP IS REAL ONE, CHIEF SAYS

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Vice resorts will not be tolerated in South Bend, Chief of Police Samuel J. Lenon said today in commenting on a series of raids made last night and early today by two of his squads. The policemen arrested 24 persons in raids on twelve resorts. Seven of the places raided were in the downtown district. Eleven of those taken in custody were booked as keepers of disorderly houses.

MRS. C. BOETTER, STORE FOUNDER'S DAUGHTER, DIES

Funeral services for Mrs. Clementine Boetter, 69 years old, who died on Thursday morning at her home at 1930 Addison street, will be held at 2 p. m. today at Muelhoefer's chapel, 1458 Belmont avenue. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

Mrs. Boetter was born and reared in Chicago. Her home was among those destroyed in the Chicago fire. Her parents came to Chicago in the late fifties from Karlstadt, Austria. Mr. Pick was Austrian consul here for many years.

DENIES CABARET PLEA TO CURB POLICE RAIDERS

Circuit Judge Feinberg yesterday denied a petition for an injunction to restrain police from raiding the Beau Monde club at 511 Diversey parkway. The club was raided last June. Attorneys for the Beau Monde argued that its owners had spent $100,000 to convert it into a cabaret and said that the raids impaired the club's business. Assistant Corporation Counsels William V. Daly and James N. Kearns declared that the place is a gambling den.

"Police found gambling paraphernalia and precautionary devices usually employed by such resorts," Mr. Daly said. "The club even hired a handwriting expert to compare the signatures of those who could be allowed admittance with the signatures of those who sought admittance on the declaration that their names were on the club's books."

U. S. BRED WIDOW OF NOTED FRENCH WRITER IS DEAD

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 24.—Mme. Anatole France, the widow of the most famous writer of his time, died this morning of cancer of the throat at the Villa Said in a little street off the Avenue Foch, where her husband held his celebrated literary receptions before his death near Tours in the fall of 1924.

The romance of "Tiko," as she was known, with Anatole France was one of the most curious in literary history. For 20 years or more she was the housekeeper of Mme. Armand de Caillavet, in whose brilliant salon Anatole France shone. Mme. de Caillavet is credited with even writing most of his weekly articles and some of his books.

Scandalized Society.

When she died some claim that he found some comfort in talking with Tiko about her dead mistress. Anyway one day he scandalized all of his friends in society by marrying her. This was in 1920, when Anatole, whose real name was Jacques Anatole Thibault, was 76. The bride was 48 years old.

The late Mme. France, whose maiden name was Emma Leprevotte, was born in Alsace, but lived in St. Louis, Mo., from the age of 10 until she was 22.

After Anatole died she kept a jealous eye on his effects. But now that she is gone, it is expected that a vast number of manuscripts and curios belonging to Anatole France, will go under the hammer.

Has Relatives in U. S.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Reports of the death in Paris of Emma Leprevotte France, widow of the writer Anatole France, today disclosed that five brothers and one sister survive her in Los Angeles.

The surviving members of the family, who have simplified the spelling of their name to Laprevote, lived in St. Louis and Crystal City, Mo., before coming to California in 1906.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 24.—A French court today awarded $60 a month allowance to Mme. Assolant, the former Pauline Parker of New York, who is seeking a divorce from Jean Assolant, trans-Atlantic flyer. Concerning the marriage in New York the newspaper Le Matin says: "Seen in his apartment in the company of Pauline Parker, and the American laws being very strict concerning such things, Assolant, who was anxious to start off on his trans-Atlantic flight, had to marry the girl to escape jail."

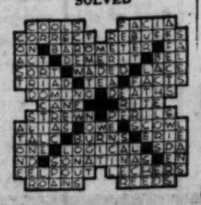
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



T. A. T. PLANS TO LINK CHICAGO, MIAMI BY AIR

Line Would Be Boon to Commerce.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Next summer's expansion of air transport lines will probably give Chicago direct connection with the fast growing labyrinth of air lines which now binds together the principal commercial centers of the West Indies and South America.

Likelihood of such a development was given strength yesterday when it became known that Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., present operators of the Lindbergh line from New York to Los Angeles, plans the inauguration of a new passenger route from Chicago via St. Louis to Miami, Fla.

While officials of T. A. T. declined to discuss their plans in this direction, it was learned that the company is considering the opening of the Chicago-Miami line in the spring in connection with other prosposed expansion of its service, which would include new passenger lines, from Columbus, O., to Pittsburgh and New York and from Chicago to Kansas City and Clovis, N. M.

All Air Route West.

The Chicago-Clovis extension would give Chicago an all air route to Los Angeles connecting at Clovis with the present air-rail line, which follows a more southern route from Columbus to St. Louis.

A glance at the airways map of North and South America immediately conveys the significance to Chicago of a direct air connection with Miami. From this point the lines of the Pan-American Airways stretch southeastward through the West Indies to Trinidad and on down the east coast of South America to Paramaribo; to the southwest these lines extend across Jamaica and Central America to Panama and down the west coast to Valparaiso.

Transontinental Air Transport's proposed new line would encourage a continuous flow of passengers, mail, and express from the great markets of the Caribbean and South America into Chicago.

Speculate on New Rates.

Much speculation over the prospects for widespread development of new passenger lines is being made by air line operators in view of recent utterances of Postmaster General Brown concerning new rate schedules for carrying the mail. Many anticipate lively competition in establishing new lines for air travelers, should the postmaster general's proposal be carried out.

Mr. Brown recommends the amendment of the air mail act of 1926 so as to provide for fixed rates per mile for definite weight spaces. The railroads contract for mail carrying on a similar basis. Formerly the air operators contracted for flying the mail between designated points on the basis of poundage—a basis Mr. Brown considers unfair to many operators.

Aid to Passenger Lines.

While Mr. Brown's plan was primarily designed to better the air mail service, he believes it especially deserves the approval of the aviation industry and of the public because it will open the way for passenger lines to carry mail and help them to solve their present financial problems by adding to their revenue.

The plan calls for a base rate of not to exceed $1 per mile for 1,500 pounds mail capacity. Under this plan, Mr. Brown stated, a schedule of compensation could be set up providing for the payment of perhaps 30 cents per mile for a weight space of 100 pounds with increased compensation per mile for increasing weight spaces until the maximum of $1 per mile for 1,500 pounds of weight space is reached.

ACT TO ORGANIZE PLANE PILOTS, MECHANICS HERE

A movement to organize licensed air pilots and aircraft mechanics in Chicago was started last night by the Globe Aero Service bureau of Kansas City at a meeting of aviators in the Hayes hotel, 6345 University avenue. The bureau, which is trying to increase its membership to 25,000 by June 1, is seeking to reduce the number of flying schools in the country and to improve flying conditions by the installation of more beacon lights.

L. A. Atkinson, Chicago pilot, said the schools are now turning out thousands of aviators with little experience who find themselves unable to find work because of the limited number of planes and air transport lines, and that by the end of the year there will be a surplus of 40,000 flyers. At present, he said, 3,000 licensed pilots are out of work.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Washington historians and public officials do not share the skepticism of Chicago historical experts who have challenged the ability of former President Coolidge or any reader of THE TRIBUNE to write a comprehensive history of the United States in 500 words.

Five Washingtonians, interviewed today, agreed that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has not assigned its readers to an impossible task in announcing a $2,100 contest to produce the best history of the nation in 500 words.

Matter of Elimination.

Most of those interviewed agreed that writing such a history was more a matter of elimination than of selection.

"Of course the rise and progress of the republic can be told in 500 words," Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley said today. "It seems to me that the idea of having such a contest is a good one, for it will stimulate interest in American history."

John C. Fitzpatrick, a Washington historian who has been delving in American history at the library of congress for thirty-two years, thinks it is possible for a good history to be written in 500 words.

Reader's Reaction the Test.

"I am very curious to see just what Mr. Coolidge includes in his history," Mr. Fitzpatrick said. "Writing such a history is a problem in elimination. Each man's history will be different. Things that are considered essential by one man will be discarded by another."

Mr. Fitzpatrick expressed the view that the impression created in the mind of the person reading one of the condensed histories would be the real test.

Col. Hjalmer Ericson, librarian of the army war college, agreed that a history could be written in 500 words, but said it would be a "skeleton that would show the important bones of American life."

"In writing of the advancement of a handful of people to a world power in 150 years, the historian would have a splendid theme," Col. Ericson said.

Aurora Cafe Man Fined $5,000 for Rum; Record Set

A record fine for dry law violation in Kane county was levied yesterday by County Judge Olney C. Allen of Geneva. Matthew Kersch pleaded guilty to five counts charging illegal possession of liquor and was fined $1,000 on each count. State's Attorney George D. Carbary recommended the heavy fines. Kersch was the owner of the Phoenix café, Aurora, which was raided last June. Six truckloads of fixtures, gambling paraphernalia, and liquor were seized. Kersch's plea for a rehearing was set for March 11.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Loyola university of Chicago won its thirty-fourth consecutive basketball game tonight by defeating Butler, 22 to 14. As far as the 8,000 who saw the game are concerned, the Chicago team deserves the national title.

It was a notable game in many ways. Loyola avenged a defeat administered by Butler at Chicago in 1928 and it was Butler's third failure in fourteen starts this year. This was only the second time Butler has lost in the fieldhouse.

Hildebrand Outjumps Murphy.

Last year Butler ended Pittsburgh's winning streak of thirty-three games on this floor. Purdue, Montana State, Vanderbilt, Nebraska, Illinois, Chicago and Central Normal are among the teams that have fallen here this season.

Butler was unusually cautious in the first half which abounded with shots that rolled around the rim and then fell outside. Flynn's field goal and Murphy's free throw were the only points the first five minutes. Then Capt. Hildebrand of Butler scored from the field and the foul line to tie it at ten minutes.

Loyola Leads at Half.

Murphy and Flynn pushed the score to 7 to 3. Schumann's foul gave Allen a successful free throw. Waesco scored from the field and then Tackett counted on Waesco's foul to make the half score 9 to 5.

In the second half, Loyola with Murphy and Flynn leading the attack, rolled up the score to 17 to 6 in ten minutes. Hildebrand scored the second Butler shot after a splendid guarding game in which Butler gradually backed Loyola all the way down the floor to a far corner. Butzen, Loyola floor guard, broke it up by dribbling all the way up to his basket. It was his only field goal.

MALONEY DROPS EMANUEL IN 2D AT BOSTON BOUT

Boston, Mass., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, scored a two round knockout over Armand Emanuel of Los Angeles here tonight in the Boston Garden's feature contest. The Boston battler dropped his opponent with a left hook to the body. Emanuel's seconds claimed he was fouled, but Referee Jack Sheehan counted him out without hesitation.

Williamson's Free Throws Give Iowa Win Over Drake

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Williamson's unerring tosses from the free throw line tonight brought the University of Iowa basketball team its first victory since wholesale ineligibilities robbed the team of its star players. The Hawkeyes defeated Drake, 25 to 18.

Utah Scores 45-41 Victory Over De Paul Quintet

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 24.—[Special.]—De Paul university cagers of Chicago lost to Utah here tonight, 45 to 41. On account of climatic difference, Athletic Director Jim Kelly was forced to use his entire squad of eleven men.

SILVER SKATES DERBIES.

THE TRIBUNE'S fourteenth annual Silver Skates Derbies will be held at Garfield park this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon. This event is one of the best known fixtures on the local amateur sport calendar.

Originally conceived to encourage young people to seek healthy outdoor exercise, the Silver Skates events have grown in each succeeding year. Larger entry lists caused additional events to be offered. The idea has been adopted generally by newspapers in other parts of the country.

It was not, of course, THE TRIBUNE'S purpose to usurp skatings authority, but merely to encourage a sport worthy of encouragement. Therefore, all local skating clubs and governing bodies welcomed the innovation and appreciated the encouragement which a newspaper of large circulation could give. In turn, their officials extended cooperation. Because the Silver Skates Derbies are free to the public, park commissioners and police likewise placed their facilities at the disposal of the Derbies.

That is why, if you attend these races, you will see an immense crowd well handled, and why you will see one of the best, if not the very best, conducted meets in the whole country, considering the number of entrants. Not alone the keen competition which this event brings but the perfected detail of arrangement always has been a marvel to The Wake.

Trials Carded in Boys' Junior, Juvenile.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

THE TRIBUNE'S fourteenth annual Silver Skates derbies will open at Garfield park this afternoon with preliminaries in the boys' juvenile and junior divisions. Finals in both numbers will be held tomorrow afternoon.

Because of the large entry in today's trials, skaters must report for their numbers before 1:30 o'clock. The first heat will be sent away at 2 o'clock. Trials in the junior then will be held, to be followed by the first round of semi-finals.

Heat Entries Limited.

The number to qualify in each heat will be determined by officials. It is the desire to give all skaters a fair chance. Consequently number who are in each heat will mited. There will be two semi-finals in each derby tomorrow in addition to the finals.

When skaters reach the pavilion they must know their numbers before reporting to the clerks. Programs will be available at the pavilion, thus precluding excuses by entrants for not knowing their numbers.

Distance for all trial and semi-final heats in the juvenile derby will be 110 yards. The final tomorrow will be 220 yards. In the junior event, the distance of the trials and semi-finals will cover 220 yards and the final tomorrow, 440 yards.

Skaters, Come Early.

None but contestants and officials will be allowed in the pavilion. Officials will be on hand at noon to deliver numbers and arrange heats as soon as contestants report. Every effort will be made not to place the outstanding skaters in the same heat.

A final word to contestants: Report early and make sure you know your number.

WESTERN GOLF TOURNEY DATES FOR 1930 SET

Tentative dates for the Western Golf association's tournaments this season have been set. The Western Amateur has been set for July 21 to 26 inclusive; the Western Open, Aug. 20 to 23, inclusive; and the Western Junior Aug. 5 to 8, inclusive. Changes are unlikely unless conflicts develop later.

Courses have not been selected as yet, but it is almost certain the Western Amateur will be held in Chicago. It is known Beverly is receptive toward the tournament and it isn't at all unlikely that that club will get the tournament.

Carnera Wins 1st Round K. O. Over Big Boy Peterson

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 24.—Like a monster stalking through a very bad dream, Primo Carnera, the Venetian giant, pounded Clayton [Big Boy] Peterson down and out in the first round of his first prize fight in the United States this evening. They met at Madison Square Garden with all 17,000 seats occupied by $60,000 worth of trade, and the forward rows on the quarter deck very bright with the pallid shimmer of boiled shirts.

Peterson had been selected with special care to play the victim by the New York prize fight commissioners, and he gave what the chaps on the drama page would call an adequate performance in a very negative rôle.

He went down four times before the tremendous rushes of the European athlete, who used to serve as shepherd for a herd of elephants in a tent show, and in three of these sprawls the question before the customers was: "Did he fall or did he sit?"

Clayton weighed 209 pounds to the 269 pounds of the guest performer who somehow seems to have suffered considerable shrinkage since he landed on these shores on the last day of the old year, claiming to weigh 285 in good condition and to rise 6 feet 10 inches.

Campolo Wants Him.

The boxing commission's doctors surveyed him at the weighing in during the afternoon and the official chart of his physique, which has not been made a part of the record, shows that he is just 6 feet 6 inches tall, about half an inch shorter than Victoro Campolo, a tallish young man from the Argentine who already has extended his most cordial insults to Primo and invited him to fight under formal business conditions. When Primo took off his shoes at the weighing in the darkest suspicions of Detective Lieutenant John Broderick, commander of the cauliflower squad, were confirmed. Mr. Broderick had insisted all along that Primo's shoes were occupied in part by some foreign substance other than his dogs and as soon as he took them off, undercover agents of the prize fight commission ransacked them, discovering about one bale of Italian newspapers stuffed in the toes, as well as false soles inside, which had the effect of increasing his height about three inches.

"This comes very close to moral turpitude and the immigration department will be heard from yet," Mr. Broderick stated.

Peterson was only 3 inches shorter than Primo, but the ungainly canvas hand loomed over and about him in a manner that obviously inspired Big Boy with awe and misgivings as they stood in the center listening to the recitation of the referee's ceremonial sing-song.

"Primo, meet Big Boy," said Joe Humphreys, the town Demosthenes, who rolls a wad of chewing gum from tooth to tooth and back again to the other tooth, instead of mouthing pebbles.

At the first clank of the big brass gong, Primo waddled across on two huge legs with varicose veins as big as fire hose entwining across his calves and performed an agile skip and bound into Peterson's corner. Clayton stood back, alarm in his gray eyes and waved his arms with something of the premilinary motion of Aileen Riggen, just before the take off from the 20 foot stage.

Peterson Loses Footing.

Primo charged and swung an overhand right that pounded Peterson on his left ear and crashed into him, bunting him down like a plunging full back running into an upright tackle. Peterson's feet were whipped from beneath him and he sat down stoutly on the heel of his black satin tights, more stunned by the collision and the landing than by the clout on the head. He sat there pondering briefly but it seemed not yet time to retire so he arose with manifest reluctance at the count of four or five and Primo again crashed into him, this time hoisting a right uppercut from a glove so big that it landed all over his face.

"Won't you sit down?" shrilled Mr. Eddie Devlin, the popular Tenth avenue undertaker, and Big Boy thought so well of the idea that he again landed as a hollow boom reverberated under the planking. This time, Big Boy took nine seconds to get up and while he sat there, he went through a strange performance, idly batting himself on his own chin with both hands, as though trying to finish the job himself, and avoid the necessity for any further traffic with Primo.

Big Boy's Chin Sensitive.

These punches seemed to have no effect and Clayton probably lost heart about there for he is deemed to have one of the most sensitive chins in the fight industry at the time, and if his chin could withstand his own punches, there was not much liklihood of Primo's being seriously inconvenienced.

Presently he got up and Carnera

CHAMP FLOORS VINCE 4 TIMES IN ROUND NO. 3

Fight Decisions

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Jackie Fields, world's welterweight champion, was awarded the decision over Vince Dundee of Newark, N. J., brother of the boxer from whom he won the title, after ten rounds of spirited milling at the Chicago Stadium last night. His title was not at stake.

It took the third round to bring the 6,000 fans to their feet, shouting for a knockout. At this point, the champion floored Dundee four times, the first three times for eight counts and on the final occasion for two. Only the bell saved Dundee.

Four knockdowns such as these ordinarily would mean the end isn't far away, but Dundee recovered in the fifth round and as the fight neared the finish, particularly in the tenth round, he outfought the champion.

Rallies Feature Fight.

Had Dundee not been knocked down with a left hook in the third round, the result might have been different. In process of recuperation Dundee forced Fields to shake him off in the clinches. Then it was punch for punch.

There were rallies in seven of the ten rounds, ending only when the fighters fell into a clinch. Fields had a shade at this kind of milling.

After the fight Dundee claimed he could make 147 pounds, although he weighed 151¼ pounds. Fields asserted he would accommodate Dundee some time in the summer.

Dundee won the opening round by scoring with straight lefts and long rights to the jaw. Honors were about even in the second. In the third they had just broken from a clinch when Fields shot over a lightning left hook. Dundee took an eight count. Jackie again tore in and floored his opponent with a short left hook. Again Dundee took the count of eight. He was in bad shape when he regained his feet. The champion drove across a right. For the third time Vince went down. The fourth time it looked as if he would be counted out had the bell not sounded at the count of two.

Herrera Beats Pilkington.

Dundee fought gamely in the fourth and fifth rounds, rounds that went Fields' by decisive margins. Dundee held on to avoid punishment in the sixth, but in the seventh he started to show the form of the first two rounds. Vince left his shell to trade blow for blow with the champion. Fields had a shade. Jackie took the eighth by a shade, but Dundee held his own in the ninth. In the final round, Dundee tried desperately for a knockout throwing punches from every angle. Near the close, Fields held on. It was a great finish for a fighter who appeared doomed to be knocked out earlier in the fight. Fields weighed 146¾ pounds.

Tony Herrera of Fort Worth, Tex., won the decision from Irish Jackie Pilkington of New York in the eight round semi-windup. It was a fast fight. They met at 135 pounds.

Barney Ross, a TRIBUNE Golden Gloves winner, easily defeated Johnny Andrews of Chicago in the four round opener. Barney had his opponent on the verge of a knockout in the second and third rounds. They weighed 132 pounds.

Dublinsky Easy Victor.

Harry Dublinsky of Chicago won all the way from Jimmy Hackley of Indianapolis in the third fight, a six round affair at 133 pounds. In the only other fight Johnny Burns of California took the six round decision from Joe Gordan of Minneapolis. They weighed 162 pounds.

PHILLIPS PREPS WIN TWO; RETAIN SECTIONAL LEADS

Wendell Phillips' heavies and lights maintained their lead in the central section of the City High School league yesterday by defeating Englewood teams for the second time. The scores were 26 to 25 and 23 to 21, respectively. Free throws proved to be the deciding margin in the heavyweight game. Phillips counted eight free tosses to Englewood's seven. Agis Bray's ten points featured for Phillips, while Capt. Jimmy Custard, Irv Charnoff, and Al Graham, playing their last league game, turned in a good game for Englewood. A basket by Hudson in the last minute of play gave the Phillips lights victory. Lineups:

PURPLE CAGERS INVADE MAROON COURT TONIGHT

Three Teams Seek First Big Nine Win.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Underdogs in the Big Nine basketball derby come to their night to burst into the headlines tonight. While the leading teams rest from physical athletics and the players devote themselves to the mental gymnastics of midyear examinations, the three teams which have failed to win a game and another twice defeated get in a little action.

Northwestern's quintet invades Bartlett gymnasium to engage the University of Chicago for the "Chicago championship of the Big Nine." It will be the first intra-city contest since 1928, when the Wildcats won both games, though one of them was by the meager score of 15 to 14.

Both Have New Lineups.

The game will introdube new lineups on both teams, Northwestern by the coach's choice and Chicago by necessity. Handicapped by lack of material, the Maroons were riddled in effectiveness, if not in numbers, by the loss of Sid Yates, high scoring forward, who broke a bone in his wrist.

His injury forced Coach Nels Norgren to change his lineup, but the revamped team surprised cage fans by holding Wisconsin to a 33 to 23 score. Marshall Fish, the redheaded back guard, was shifted to forward, Hal Bossel sent in at center, while Capt. Harry Changnon, who has been alternating between center and forward, played forward. Harry Ashley, the sophomore floor guard, has cinched his job, and Joe Temple, another sophomore and a football player, took over Fish's job at back guard.

Ohio Meets Minnesota.

The other game on the night's schedule will bring the first taste of victory to either Ohio State or Minnesota. Each has lost two games without winning one. This game also will see a revised lineup by Ohio, due to injuries as two of the regulars are out.

BIG NINE LEADERS

Ten points scored in Wisconsin's 31-21 overtime victory over Indiana Thursday night boosted Bud Foster's big Nine total to 52. The Badger star to date has scored 17 field goals and 18 free throws.

CHICAGO STOCK TRADING LAGS; PRICES STEADY

Grigsby Leads in Volume; Closes Lower.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Price improvements were nearly steady on the Chicago Stock Exchange yesterday and volume of trading fell back to 216,000 shares.

While the bull element in New York was enjoying one of the most successful demonstrations that has been engineered since the turn of the year, the leading stocks here were languishing and getting nowhere. A few scattered stocks were able to escape the realizing, which effectively held the rest of the list in check.

As a group the radios continued as a center of interest. Atlas Stores gained a point, and American Radio and Television advanced a fraction to 5, but Grigsby, leading in volume, dipped ⅝ to finish under 16. Raytheon on light trade climbed 4 to 21. Kendall was dull and unchanged.

Asks Accounting.

The patent situation in the radio industry, which has been getting an airing before a senate committee recently, developed another angle when the DeForest Radio Tube company filed suit in the United States District court in Wilmington, Del., against the Kendrad company. DeForest charges infringement of the Coyer patent for winding grid electrodes. An accounting on all vacuum tubes produced by Ken-Rad, under the patent which DeForest owns. The accounting is asked for purposes of assessing damages.

Fines Winterfront and Auburn led the automotive group with gains of 2 and 4¾, respectively. Bendix Aviation and Borg Warner, though both heavily traded, showed little change.

Some of the utility issues, which have been more or less neglected recently by traders, edged for gains ranging up to five points. Central Public Service Delaware advanced 5 to 75, and Public Service no par on light sales netted four points. Among the active utility issues no changes of importance were recorded.

Drops 28 Points.

Leading investment issues were moderately active, but showed no important trend. Burnham gained an even point, while Chicago Corporation and Continental Chicago finished within fractions of their previous close.

Butler Brothers, which was unchanged yesterday, will open the first three junior department stores in the next six weeks, President Frank S. Cunningham announced yesterday. The first stores will be in the southwest and other units in the same territory will be opened later, he stated.

COMMERCIAL RADIO SERVICE NOW OPERATING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 24.—A commercial radio service for the sending and receiving of messages is in operation between this city and Chicago, it was learned today at the offices of the Universal Wireless Communication company, Inc. The company, which has the financial support of a group of men in Buffalo, has been granted forty high frequency channels by the federal radio commission. It was admitted that the concern will be in competition with established telegraph companies, both as to tariffs and speed of service.

Mechanical equipment is complete, it was said, to extend the service to eleven cities. Operation between these points awaits the issuance of operating permits. Permits for the construction of apparatus have already been received and the company contemplates a network of 110 cities throughout the nation.

Eisler Electric Declares Initial Quarterly Dividend

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 24.—Eisler Electric corporation has placed its common stock on a $1.50 annual dividend basis by declaring an initial quarterly dividend of 37½ cents a share. This carries out the promise made in November by Charles Eisler, president.

Bunker Hill & Sullivan Mining and Concentrating company declared an extra dividend of 25 cents, in addition to the regular monthly of the same amount.

Chicago Board of Trade Stocks

Thirteen stocks were traded in on the Board of Trade yesterday, with Allied Mills fairly active, which fluctuated ⅝ with the close at a fractional gain. Armour issues were well supported, with gains of ⅛ to ¼. Mid-City was the most active, advancing from 11 to 12⅛, where it closed, a net gain of 1⅝.

INSULL UTILITY PLANS CAPITAL STOCK INCREASE

BY O. A. MATHER.

Assurance of future "melons" in the form of stock purchase rights was given to stockholders of the Commonwealth Edison company yesterday. The directors announced that a proposal to increase the authorized capital stock from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 will be submitted at the annual meeting on Feb. 24.

"The increase, amounting to $50,000,000, will be issued from time to time in the future as the board may decide," the announcement explained. It has been the custom of the Commonwealth Edison and other Insull utilities to offer additional stock every year or two to stockholders at favorable prices.

Recent offerings of this sort by the Commonwealth Edison company have placed the stock at par value, or $100 a share. In view of the fact that the market price always has been considerably above par, these offerings have afforded valuable rights to the stockholders.

Revive Splitup Reports.

An offering of new stock is expected later on this year in view of the company's constant expansion. Practically all the present authorized stock now is outstanding. Last September, stockholders were given the right to buy additional stock at par to the extent of 12½ per cent of their holdings and this offer afforded a "melon" of more than $41,000,000 on the basis of a market price around $400 a share. The market price yesterday was around $237.

The proposed increase in Commonwealth Edison authorized capitalization also revived reports in La Salle street that the stock will be split on a two-for-one basis some time this year, thus following the policy of other Insull companies, notably Middle West Utilities, in creating a broader investment market for their stocks by lowering market prices.

The Commonwealth Edison directors also will propose to the stockholders that the directorate be increased from nine to thirteen members. In preparation for the annual meeting, the transfer books of the company will be closed from 1 p. m. Feb. 8 to 10 a. m., Feb. 25.

Plans for enlargement of the State Line Generating company's station at the Illinois-Indiana state line also were announced. Two new turbo-generators have been ordered, which, when installed, will increase the capacity of the station to 483,000 kilowatts, or approximately 644,000 horsepower. The station has been planned for an ultimate capacity of at least a million kilowatts. The company is owned either directly or through subsidiary corporation by the Commonwealth Edison, Public Service of Illinois, Northern Indiana Public Service, and Interstate Public Service companies.

Sees Relief for Packers.

A prediction that the big meat packing companies will be permitted to engage in retail distribution of food products and allied lines was made yesterday by F. Edson White, president of Armour & Co., at the annual stockholders' meeting. Mr. White was commenting on the case brought by the packers in the United States Supreme court to secure modification of the "consent decree" of 1920.

"The department of justice has answered our petition in a manner which practically assures the holding of a hearing on the economic aspects of the matter," he said. "It will be possible for us to point out how economic changes which have occurred in the last decade render the consent decree destructive of competition and unfair, not alone to the packing companies affected by it, but also to the producers of live stock and the consumers of meat.

"We have a distributive system capable of putting nearly all food products within reach of the ultimate consumer at lowest possible costs. We look forward to using our present surplus facilities to such good advantage that we will earn a substantial amount for the stockholders and at the same time lessen the cost of service which we render to the live stock producers and to the meat consumer."

Farm Board Approves Loan to Creamery Co-op

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—The federal farm board today announced that it has approved an application of the Land o' Lakes Creameries, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn., for a loan of $1,000,000 to assist that cooperative association in the effective merchandising of dairy products handled by it. The board approved a second application by the Land o' Lakes Creameries, Inc., for a line of credit not exceeding $3,000,000, supplemental to primary loans from other sources, to enable the association to advance to its members a greater share of the market price of the dairy products delivered by them to the association.

Sprague, Warner & Co. Will Advertise Nationally

Sprague, Warner & Co., Chicago wholesale firm, catering to the independent retail grocery trade, has announced a comprehensive national advertising program of one of the largest advertising appropriations in the food field. It will be the first time in the 48 years of the company's business history that it has advertised nationally, having previously introduced its products by means of canvassing consumers, selected by their agency customers. The advertising will be employed on behalf of more than 500 food products.

Bankers Seek Champion for Unit System

BY SCRUTATOR.

The attitude of the militant unit banker toward reforms that would mean an extensive reorganization of the banking system into chains, groups or branches was expressed yesterday in a report accepted by the executive committee of the Illinois bankers association.

Their committee on federal legislation, which formulated the report, repeated that the association is emphatically against any extension of chain banking and added:

"The great need at this time is a leader to take up the challenge to our system of unit banking and aggressively defend it against the efforts of those advocating replacement by a system of branch banking. It is hoped that such leadership can be found shortly. We are unterrified and are not at all confused by the claim that branch banking is inevitable. That is pure propoganda designed to weaken opposition.

Survey of Sentiment.

"A survey of the sentiment of bankers in this state shows very little weakening in spite of the fact that up until now the proponents of branch banking have had the publicity pretty much all their own way."

Branch banking is not allowed by law in Illinois. The above sentiment fairly represents the views of the state's small town bankers, and probably those of some in the metropolitan area. But it is only fair to say that a number of Chicago's leading bankers favor some grouping and that nearly all the officers of the biggest institutions regard a new setup as certain to come.

Opposition to some form of linking together, it has been reported by attendants, has grown steadily less in the American Bankers association. Methods of making combinations have been improved and most of the recent ones have been those based on holding companies, which purchase the stocks of individual banks and continue to operate them under the old names. This movement has been especially strong in the northwest and has invaded Chicago to some extent.

Certain dangers are inherent in the group system, the principal one against which complaints are leveled being the fact that the parent company is not subject to banking examination.

Stifles Initiative.

The fully developed branch banking system such as England and Canada have, is held to be stifling to initiative. There are said to be branches of Canadian banks that can perform no functions except the acceptance of deposits and the paying of checks. Loans, except on stereotyped conditions, must be made throught the main offices.

No one advocates such extensive systems in this country. The comptroller of the currency and many city bankers favor branches limited to territories that are in the natural sphere of influence of the parent institution. Greater safety and better service would be given than in either the holding company group bank or in the independent institution by this system, it is said, while sufficient proof for initiative would be preserved.

The small unit banker may be unterrified, but he is fighting for his life as an independent. He has a case to present, but the leaders spoken of can not waste any time getting it before the public.

Smoked Meats, Veal Are Active: Packing Review

"Smoked meats and veal again showed the greatest strength and activity among leading packing house lines. The former, although still relatively cheap, advanced in price, showing strength throughout the week. Veal continued in light supply with live prices sharply higher. Dressed trade was active on the good demand engendered by the shortage of supply," says the weekly review of Armour & Co., on packing house trade conditions.

"There was a continued light demand for beef at easier prices. Liberal supplies of sheep and lambs caused the market for lamb and mutton to weaken after a fairly steady opening. Fresh pork continued slow and somewhat draggy in spite of higher prices for live hogs, the review reports.

I. C. C. ASKS CONGRESS TO CLARIFY VIEWS ON RAILWAY VALUATIONS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Valuation of railroads for rate making and recapture of excess income purposes would be simplified and made only "an accounting process," under recommendations presented by the interstate commerce commission today to the senate interstate commerce committee asking amendment of the law.

The commission held the resolution of Senator Howell [Rep., Neb.], recently introduced for the purpose of facilitating valuation processes, to be in conflict with findings of the Supreme court on the ground that it directed the commission to follow a method which the court had found to be inconsistent with the duty imposed on the commission.

Asserting that the commission is at present confronted by a "tremendous accumulation" of recapture cases covering past periods, the letter to Chairman Couzens recommended that the commission be authorized to agree with the carriers upon amounts of excess earnings in the periods to be paid by them.

Referring to the court's decision, the commission said a "fair value" dependent upon and varying with current costs of reproduction would be peculiarly unstable, and "cannot in the long run be regarded as a protection to private property, but, on the contrary, is demonstrably dangerous to such property."

The commission's recommendations were: "Up to date valuations at any time would be determined by taking the cost of reproduction new at the 1914 unit price of the property existing on the original valuation date, plus the then value of the lands, adding or subtracting the subsequent net increase or decrease in the property investment account as shown by the accounts when correctly kept, adding further a proper allowance for working capital, and deducting the balance standing in the depreciation reserve."

ENGINEERS' BANK MAY BE RETIRED IN OHIO MERGER

Cleveland, O., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Merger of three Cleveland banks, including the Engineers' National, was being perfected today at a meeting of the Engineers' bank directors.

Completion of the deal will mean the virtual retirement of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers from active banking. Officials of the brotherhood have been prominent in affairs of the Engineers bank which was closely connected with the Brotherhood organization.

The other banks in the deal are the Nottingham Savings and Banking company, and the Guaranty State Savings and Loan company. The combine would operate under the name of the Citizens Bank and Trust company. It is to be controlled entirely by Cleveland business interests.

Capital and surplus of the new institution are to be $3,000,000, with total resources of $23,000,000. A securities company connected with it will have a capital of $1,000,000. C. Stirling Smith, executive vice president of the Engineers' National, is to be president of the merger.

The brotherhood bank was organized in 1920 under the leadership of the late Warren Stone, with a capital of $1,000,000. It has been virtually a closed corporation with its stock owned by the brotherhood, although doing a general banking business.

Week's Business Failures Increase Slightly to 644

Says Merger Must Include C. B. & Q. Line

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 24.—Merger of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific railroads to be successful must include the line of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad from Minneapolis to Chicago, Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, said today. The Northern railroads might relinquish the Burlington lines to Sioux City, Ia., and to Billings, Mont., he declared, but as granger roads they must have access to Chicago from the Twin Cities.

Mr. Budd, who is also a director of the Burlington, denied reports that the Burlington was the purchaser for whom George H. Burr bought 30,000 shares of the Denver and Salt Lake. Mr. Budd said that the matter had never been considered by Burlington directors and that the road was not interested in buying anything beyond Denver, where it now ends.

Cites Prevailing Sentiment.

Sentiment in the territory served by the Northerns with respect to consolidation, Mr. Budd said, was in general in favor of the mergers. He pointed out that the contention of the roads that rationalization of the transportation system in the territory was coming to be regarded as even more of a necessity than when the application for merger was first proposed. He said the merger would still leave competition for about 98 per cent of the traffic and that by reducing the number of competitors the strength of the competition would be increased.

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, according to Mr. Budd, is now a competitor and a self contained system, and the Union Pacific serves much of the same territory. He finds much of the sentiment points to the necessity of consolidation in the northwest if the section is not to lag behind in service and consequently in the reduction of rates.

Opposition to mergers in the northwest is centered largely in St. Paul, where political opposition developed because of feared reductions in pay rolls and unemployment, he said, and in addition the delay of the interstate commerce commission in acting on the merger application has led some people to regard the project as hopeless.

Supports Contention.

In support of the contention that the Burlington is needed for entry into Chicago, Mr. Budd quoted the description of Prof. William Z. Ripley which said the Burlington was a hand pointed to the west, the thumb of which ran from Chicago to Milwaukee. This thumb is as vital now as in the day of James J. Hill, according to Mr. Budd.

Railroad officials are watching with great interest for a decision on the northern merger application and will see what can be done with the roads in the light of that decision. Meanwhile the possibility for any higher dividend than the $5 a share paid on Great Northern preferred [the only stock outstanding] is not to be considered because the roads agreed when the merger application was made that there would be no change as long as the stock remained deposited under the merger agreement. Great Northern earnings last year amounted to about $10.35 a share, according to Mr. Budd.

SAYS OUTLOOK FOR STEEL IS GETTING BETTER

New York, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The steel business is better now than anticipated several months ago and it will improve rapidly in the near future, according to James Campbell, chairman of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company. He said that the automotive industry is taking more steel and releasing orders more rapidly than expected.

Producers of sheet steel in the Chicago district report an increase in bookings resulting in an advance in operations to about 70 per cent of rated capacity, compared with 60 per cent last week.

Drops Negotiations for Acquiring Advance Rumely

New York, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Charles Hayden, a director of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, said today that negotiations for the acquisition by that concern of the Advance Rumely company, manufacturer of farm machinery, had been discontinued. Mr. Hayden's statement was made after a conference with officials of Advance Rumely.

NET INCOME OF DU PONT RISES 24 MILLIONS

Profit Equal to $7.09 a Share.

New York, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The annual report of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., for 1929, made public today, showed that the company's volume of business increased 13 per cent during the year, and that the general level of operations was greater than in the previous year, resulting in an increase in net income of more than $24,000,000.

The income report showed net profits of $78,171,730, which, after deducting dividends paid on the debenture stock, is equal to $7.09 a share on the common stock. This compared with net income of $64,097,797, or $6.27 a share, in 1928.

G. M. C. Investment.

Of the total income for 1929, which amounted to $81,999,782, it was shown that $42,939,452, or more than one-half, was from the Du Pont company's investment in General Motors. Operations of the company during the year netted $34,212,150, and the income from "miscellaneous and marketable securities" was placed at $4,848,179.

During the year the income from operations increased approximately $11,750,000; that from the investment in General Motors about $5,000,000, while that from miscellaneous sources dropped about $1,400,000.

On Dec. 31, 1929, the Du Pont company owned 70 per cent of the capital stock of the General Motors Securities company, which in turn held 14,062,500 shares of General Motors common stock, representing 32.33 per cent of the outstanding common stock of the corporation.

The company closed the year with total current assets of $106,996,046 and total assets of $541,986,714, including its interest in General Motors, which was valued at $164,690,130, and which shares were carried on the books at a value of $16.50 each. Current liabilities amounted to $22,398,366, a ratio of about 4.8 per cent of current assets to current liabilities.

House Assures Probe of Rail Holding Firms

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—A broad investigation of railroad holding companies was assured today through house adoption of a resolution empowering its interstate commerce committee to inquire into ownership and control of common carriers to determine what legislation, if any, is needed to place them under government supervision.

The resolution, sponsored by Chairman Parker of the committee on the recommendation of the interstate commerce commission, empowers the committee to summon witnesses and require their attendance and to force production of books, and documents it deems pertinent.

The scope of the resolution includes investigation of common carriers to the extent necessary to determine the control of holding companies, in view of proposed railroad consolidation legislation.

Representative Rayburn, ranking minority member of the interstate commerce committee, followed Chairman Parker and made the principal address for the measure.

"If behind the curtain somewhere there is something that we have not discovered," he said "a holding company or an investment trust which really owns all of these railroads, then we do not have competition at all.

"Before we proceed further with the legislation that will facilitate the consolidation of the railroad systems of the country as they now exist we want to know who actually owns the railroads."

Quincy (Ill.) Business Men Protest Chain Stores There

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

At present there are some thirty different lines of chain stores in Quincy and ten chain grocery stores. Mayor Jasper and City Attorney Paul Weisenhorn represented the city. State's Attorney Edward P. Allen represented Adam county. Another meeting, when by-laws and permanent organization will be effected, will be held Monday.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 24.—There were times down on the stock exchange today when old timers rubbed their eyes and opined that proceedings seemed to be developing into a real stock market once more.

Trading was the most active in weeks and a long line of issues—more than a hundred—were carried to new high levels for the young year. Volume approached the 3,500,000 share mark.

A good deal of profit taking appeared toward the last, causing sharp dips in Fox Film A, Advance Rumely, and a number of other fast movers of the session, and acting as a brake on the entire list, but the final tables were plentifully sprinkled with substantial gains, some of them running as high as 4 and 6 points or more, and the bull crowd went home in a happier frame of mind than they have been in for a long time.

More Public Interest.

There is no doubt that the improved situation—whatever its destined duration—is due in no small measure to growing talk of improved business conditions throughout the country. The news is becoming more bullish from day to day, and unquestionably some public buying is figuring once more in the daily transactions.

Today constructive operators had the benefit of the Bethlehem Steel report for the quarter and the year, showing unsurpassed peace time earnings, and the weekly trade summaries,

It is no fault of life insurance that a large percentage of insurance money paid to individual beneficiaries in a lump sum is used up or dissipated within a few years.

Most men carry life insurance, but their idea of what it should accomplish for their dependents is often vague and indefinite.

Have you carefully planned your insurance program so as to provide adequate and continuing safeguards for each individual in whose welfare you are interested? The procedure to this end is not complicated, and the protection which can be afforded your beneficiaries is practically certain.

An Insurance Trust can be created under which your insurance policies will be payable to the HARRIS TRUST AND SAVINGS BANK, as trustee. In a simple trust agreement you specify how the income, and ultimately, the principal, will be distributed. No charge is made until after your death, unless the agreement be revoked or amended in which case there is a nominal charge. Any of our Trust Officers will gladly explain to you the details of a Life Insurance Trust.

This interesting subject is covered more fully in our new booklet—"MY ESTATE—How Shall It Be Administered?"—a copy of which we will gladly send you on request.

PRICES OF ALL GRAINS DECLINE ON LIQUIDATION

Wheat Quotations Are 1 1-8@1 3-8c Lower.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation was on in the grain markets yesterday with wheat breaking 1¾c to a new low for the week, while all deliveries of corn, and July oats and rye sold at a new low on the crop.

March corn touched 87¼c, and May, 91c, while July oats were down to 45⅝c, and July rye, 89¼c. Stop loss orders were caught on the way down, and the markets generally lacked support, although in wheat there was fair buying on resting orders and against bids. Wheat closed 1⅛@1¼c lower with March $1.22⅝ and May $1.26⅝@1.26⅝.

Weakness in Winnipeg and Liverpool was largely responsible for the decline in wheat values, and sentiment was rendered increasingly bearish by the failure of export demand to develop. Winnipeg finished 2@2¼c lower with liquidation in evidence, while Liverpool lost ⅝@¾d for the day with clearances of 4,134,000 bu from Argentina for the week a factor, as they compared with 2,729,000 bu the previous week, and 5,592,000 bu last year. Broomhall mentioned unfavorable business conditions on the continent with numerous failures except in France and Italy. Buenos Aires showed surprising strength and finished ⅝c lower, while Rosario was off only ¼c.

Wheat Trade Light.

Aggregate trade in wheat was small, and the market easily influenced. Some operators were inclined to look for a statement from the farm board over night and there was little disposition shown to press the short side on the decline, as values were down to the farm loan basis for cash grain. The cooperatives bought a few cars of No. 1 northern at Minneapolis at $1.25, while at Kansas City No. 1 hard was quoted nominally as low as $1.17 or 3c below the loan basis. The local spot basis was up 2@3c as compared with May, but the quotations were largely nominal.

Weakness in corn had some effect on the wheat market, as did the decline in rye. There was buying of March and selling of May at 4¼c difference. Late messages from the seaboard said foreign interest in wheat was conspicuous by its absence with little or nothing reported as worked. Hard winter at the gulf was slightly easier as compared with the May.

A move to send some of the American wheat surplus to China to be used for relief work there has been started by the Oklahoma Wheat Growers association, and a letter has been sent to President Hoover requesting that this be made a national movement. The Farmers National Grain corporation is expected to confer with the Oklahoma association next week with a view of drafting plans for relief work.

Liquidation in Corn.

Expectations of a larger movement of cash corn to terminal markets led to increased selling of futures which uncovered stop loss orders and a lack of aggressive support prices declined sharply to a new low on the crop, and closed about the bottom with net losses of 1⅝@1¾c with May leading. March finished at 87¼@87⅝c, and May at 91½c. Rumors that congestion prevailed at Peoria and that that market would have to ship corn to Chicago brought only emphatic denials. Industries continue to buy freely at Peoria. The official report showed only 103,000 bu in store in that market on Jan. 18. Cash corn lost ⅛@1½c as compared with May.

Liquidation was under way in oats by tired longs with offerings taken by cash houses and on resting orders. Break in other grains was the main depressing influence. Closing trades were at net losses of ⅛@⅜c with March, 47⅝c; May, 47@47¼c, and July, 45⅝c.

A local operator was credited with being a good seller of July rye, while a house with eastern connections sold the May. The market displayed a heavy undertone toward the last and closed 2¼@4c lower with July leading. The latter finished at 89¼c, with March 93¼c and May 91¾@92c.

McKelvie Comes Back at Kansas City Board

Replying to charges of the Kansas City board that the federal farm board is driving legitimate agencies out of business, Samuel McKelvie of Lincoln, Neb., the grain member, said here yesterday that the activities of himself and his colleagues is outlined by law. "There is no alternative and we seek none," he states. "We have nothing to do with the anxiety of the Kansas City board. The federal farm board only supervises the work of the farmer Cooperative Grain Marketing association, to which it supplies loan funds." Commenting on the tumble in prices that followed his recent statement on wheat prospects, Mr. McKelvie said: "It shows by what a slender thread the speculative market hangs. I really said nothing definite at all. Speculative trade is always looking for something to base a fluctuation on." As to next year's grain loan basis, Mr. Kelvie pointed out that there might not even be such a basis in existence then. That expedient was adopted pending completion of a marketing system.

Continental Assurance to Pay 5 Pct. Dividend

Directors of the Continental Assurance company have declared a quarterly dividend of 5 per cent, payable April 1 to holders of record March 15. In 1929 the company paid dividends at the rate of 4⅛ per cent quarterly. W. McCormick Blair, Frank R. Elliott, and R. Douglas Stuart were added to the board at the annual meeting of stockholders. L. L. Johnson was named vice president.

NO DOUBT ABOUT IT—STOCK MART IS IMPROVING

telling of the improvement to be noted in the heavy industries, such as steels and motors. No disappointment over the discount rates was visible, and if the brokers' loans drop was a factor at all it was a bullish one.

The market's strength was more uniform than it has been—too much so to give any particular stock or group the preference. The steels naturally had a good day. Bethlehem crossed 100 for the first time this year, and United States Steel common forged ahead for nearly 3 points, only to surrender the biggest part of its gain in the late profit taking.

Increase Activity.

Utilities increased their activity and the rails, which had been dormant for months, came forward with some fair sized gains. Tobacco, Electrical Equipment, and business machine groups continued in good demand, and the rubbers, which have long been a market nonentity, moved up 1 to 3 points. All the old line leaders were active and strong. General Electric old at one time sold up 5½ points to a new peak on its recovery from the 1929 crash around 261. Liquidation cut it down with most of the others in the end, but it still flourished a 4 point gain on the day when the finish came. American Can was turned over in heavy volume and rose some 2½ points. Johns Manville, Eastman Kodak, Consolidated Gas and others of their set had no trouble at all in lettering their previous price, ratings to the extent of 2 or 3 points.

Fox Film A, which kicked up such a fuss yesterday, was fairy active all day and did considerable gyrating. It ranged between 24 and 30, closing at 26¾, which represented a drop of nearly a point on the day.

Extends Gains.

After extending its gains for more than 4 points on reports of negotiations for a merger with Allis Chalmers, Advance Rumely took a nose dive in the realizing wave of the afternoon with the announcement the merger had gone by the board, dropping more than 6 points from its high of the day. It wound up showing a net loss of nearly a point.

Money markets were unchanged, with call money going through at unusual 4½ per cent opening and 4 per cent afternoon drop. Money brokers reported that the time money market continued easy, with a bid of 4% for 90 and six months quite likely to be bid.

While there is nothing to indicate any far reaching change of long duration in the money conditions, those who follow things closely are of the opinion, however, that something of a flurry in speculative money rates may develop during the next week. From about midweek on preparations will be on for taking care of the month end turnover, usually small in itself, on Feb. 1.

RAILROAD NOTES

The Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad will show earnings of about $5 a share on the common stock for 1929, according to C. Haile, president. In 1928, the "Katy" earned $4.61 a share on the common, compared with $4.80 in '27.

"Between 8,000 and 10,000 easterners will go to the Hawaiian islands or Los Angeles this season," Passenger Traffic Manager W. J. Black of the Santa Fé railway said yesterday. "Last season 6,000 went to the islands by the southern route via. Los Angeles, and bookings so far indicate that this number will be doubled this year."

Additional advances in the hog market yesterday carried the general average price to $10.15, highest since Sept. 23 and 75c above Monday of last week. Better grades sold freely at 10@25c higher prices, top light finishing at a $10.60 top, with bulk of sales at $9.90@10.40.

Practically all packers bought at the advance and left only 4,000 in the pens at the close, the high point of the day. Hog receipts are running larger than a week ago, but show a substantial decrease compared with 1929 and 1928.

Cattle Sell Slowly.

Yesterday's 2,000 cattle consisted largely of common to medium quality steers that sold slowly at generally steady prices. The best load lots available stopped at $14.25, although 8 steers averaging 966 lbs., reached $14.50.

Bulk sold at $11.00@13.00. Cows and heifers were slower to sell at the recent advance of 25@50c, and part of the gain was lost in mid-session and later when the market for butcher stock developed into a peddling affair. Calves declined 50c to $1.00. Stockers and feeders were scarce and unchanged.

Lamb Prices React.

Following a slow, steady opening yesterday, fat lambs recovered 15@25c of the recent sharp loss, with last sales highest of the day. Fancy handy weights to city butchers reached $13.50, while larger houses paid $13.35@13.40 for a few to ship east. Some 93 lb averages brought $13.00 and a small band of 115 lb lambs sold at $11.25.

Outside demand during the last two weeks has been unusually good. A total of 8,150 head went to shippers Thursday, about 45 per cent of arrivals. Aged sheep ruled strong to 25c higher, yesterday, top ewes selling at $7.35. Feeding lambs were few firm at $12.75.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 300 cattle, 12,000 hogs and 3,000 sheep, against 323 cattle, 4,670 hogs and 2,398 sheep, the previous Saturday, and 279 cattle, 5,982 cattle and 3,650 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 55,000 to 85,000. C. Daley marked 55,000; F. B. Orb, 58,000; A. G. Welhener, H. Pattison and H. Turner 60,000; H. C. Carlson, S. Lund, and J. T. Brown, 65,000; R. W. Thorne, 68,000; John T. Agar, C. Southwick and A. E. Whitaker, 70,000; F. M. Sherwood, 72,000; W. T. Reneker, F. Knutsen and G. W. Chandler, 75,000; J. M. Waters, $1,000, and R. B. Ellis, $5,000.

COTTON TRADE NARROW

Narrow fluctuations, with light trade, featured the cotton market yesterday. Liverpool cables were 2 to 3 points lower at the finish with spot sales 5,000 bales.

Reports from the south said that while the freezing weather undoubtedly had killed a large percentage of boll weevil there will be sufficient left to do material damage to the cotton crop should weather conditions be favorable.

The close on futures was irregular, with Chicago 3 points lower to 2 higher, in other markets 3 points lower to 4 points higher.

Spots were unchanged with New York 17.30c and spot sales unusually large, 3,000 bales of middlings; New Orleans was 16.95c, Galveston 17.30c and Houston 17.20c. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Investment Buying.

Buying of an investment character is supposed to be taking place in Union Pacific. Considering its high price the stock has moved in narrow limits since the beginning of the year. A new high for 1930 was established yesterday.

Continues Upward Trend.

Case Threshing Machine continues to move upward in the absence of offerings. Several factors are reported for the good showing of this stock since Jan. 1. Most important probably is the small floating supply. In addition there is the possibility of an early splitup. Case is earning its cash dividend of $6 about four times over. Market sponsorship has long been attributed to the Morgans.

Lacks Ammunition.

Houdaille Hershey pool seems to have run out of ammunition, temporarily, at least. The stock did nothing much in particular yesterday. While earnings for 1929 have been favorable enough to permit directors to increase the dividend, there are many who believe the outlook for automobile accessories is uncertain in so far as the future is concerned.

Aids Progress of Stock.

Talk of a dividend increase for New York Central when directors meet Feb. 12 is aiding the progress of the stock. After a rather long period of lethargy Central has again assumed leadership of the rails. Expiration of the "rights" on Jan. 31 will remove a big obstacle in its path, it is said.

Resumes Activities.

Inspired by the improved appearance of the general market, the group sponsoring American Can has resumed activities on a larger scale. Those who in the past have been most familiar with the company's affairs insist that the directors may authorize payment of a stock dividend later in 1930. Surplus position is ample to provide for such a step.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Spot butter was offered more freely, and the market was ½c lower. Fresh eggs broke 2@2½c as the result of a slow demand. Live hens declined ½c. No receipts by freight. Potatoes in fairly good demand and firm. Receipts 75 cars on state track.
